ROBBING A STATE TREASURY.

One of the Robbers Killed and Another Captured—A Fight on a Third Escapes.

An unsuccessful attempt to rob the state treasury of Nebraska, in Lincoln, was made at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. One of the robbers was mortally wounded and one captured. Three hundred dollars was taken but it was recovered.

The wounded robber died at 4 o'clock. His names was James Griffin, a noted criminal, who had killed his man and been engaged in a number of thieving affairs. The captured man is Alvin Maguire, another notorious thief, who has also scored his man. The third man, who escaped, was in collusion with detectives and conveyed the other two into the daring crime. The following are the details:

About 2 o'clock three men walked quietly into the state treasurer's office, drew revolvers and said to Deputy Treasurer Bartlett, who stood behind the railing. "Hold up your hands," the muzzles of the pistols almost touching his head through the railing. Bartlett answered, "What does this mean, men? Is it fooling, or business?" but his hands went up all the same. "No talk" retorted the man who acted as leader. "Just hand out the money and be quick about it." Bartlett passed out through the railing about $300, saying in a low voice. "Here it is; help yourselves." Two of the men then turned to the door, the third backing out and covering the retreat with a cocked revolver drawn on Bartlett. The loud tone employed by Bartlett was a signal to Detectives Pound and Davis, who were concealed in an adjoining room. Hearing it they stepped into the hall just as two of the robbers passed out of the door.

The detectives shouted "Halt!" but no attention was paid by the fleeing men, who afterwards proved to be Jim Griffin and Al Maguire. Griffin being one-legged was behind. A moment later the report of a shotgun was heard. Griffin fell on the porch steps with [illegible] in his hand and fight [illegible] Maguire was [illegible] before he could [illegible] a horse which was tied to a post about forty feet from the door. At the moment the gun was fired in the hall the third man, who is unknown, startled detectives, stepped, closed the door behind of passing through, turned and went through a door behind the railing, ran across the room, jumped through an open window and made his escape. No pursuit of the mysterious individual seems to have been made.

The money was recovered by Pound, who returned it to the treasurer. It appears that Pound and Davis knew an attempt was to be made and an understanding with Bartlett that he should [illegible] to the robbers long enough to be heard in their place of confinement. The detectives [illegible] looked for any day during the week. The robbers had visited the capital several times, but some hitch in arrangements deterred from the robbery. There is a mystery about the affair, especially about the part taken by the detectives, which has created almost as much curiosity as excitement. This may be cleared up when the escaped robber is arrested, if he ever is.

DUE TO A DRUNKEN DRIVER.

Four Killed and a Dozen Injured of a Sleighing Party.

A terrible accident befel a sleighing party that left Fritz, a small village ten miles from Allentown Friday night at 8 o'clock. The party consisted of sixteen persons, and left the National hotel at Fritz in a four-horse sleigh, for the purpose of taking a ride to a neighboring village. The party stopped at a number of hotels and partook of drinks. On the way home it was discovered that the driver, John Hager, was intoxicated. After being on the road about an hour the driver drove over a large embankment, causing the sleigh to capsize and the horses to run away. All the occupants were thrown under the sleigh, dragged for 300 yards, when the horses tore loose and continued on their wild career until one of them fell and broke its leg. The accident was seen by others, who were on their way home, and they went to their assistance, and were astonished to find that the driver, John Hager, was killed, and in all [illegible] injured. Henry Moyer, a boy about 10 years old, who sat with him, was so badly injured that he died shortly afterwards.

The following is a list of the killed: John Hager, aged 36 years; Henry Moyer, aged 11 years; Rose Harper, aged 36 years, wife of Patrick Harper, and Jacob Boardman, aged 35 years. The injured are: Elizabeth Stout, badly cut and bruised about body and head, seriously hurt; Henry Larkey, aged 30 years, nose broken and a large cut on the right side of the face; Patrick Harper, aged 40 years, concussion of the skull; Michael Jones, aged 35 years, arm broken; Amos Heffinger, aged 25 years, leg fractured; Joseph Stout, aged 31 years, ankle broken; Mary Boardman, aged 33 years, wife of Jacob Boardman, face and head bruised; William Strope, aged 45 years, foot dislocated; Horace Binder, aged 16 years, scalp wound; his wife Julia also received cuts about the body; Charles Hyman, aged 30 years, face crushed in; Kate Hammond, aged 24 years, right foot fractured. The dead and wounded were conveyed to the nearest farm-houses and doctors were summoned, who are doing all in their power to relieve the sufferings of the injured. The party all reside at Fritz, and some are well-to-do.

The feeling is strong against the driver, but it has been learned since that the whole party was partly intoxicated. One of the horses attached to the sleigh has since died, and the one that broke its leg was killed.

Attacked With Hydrophobia While at Prayer

Stephen Clark, living near Consecan, Ontario, was attacked with hydrophobia and became so violent that he had to be taken to the Picton jail. He was seized with convulsions while engaged in family prayers, and before neighbors arrived was raving like a madman, tearing and [illegible] his own flesh until he presented a hideous appearance. When he became rational he said that he was bitten by a mad dog, while traveling with a circus in Carthage, in June, 1880. During the first four hours his fits were accompanied with barking, growling and imitation of heavy panting, and during the intervals the barking of a dog would immediately excite another fit. After being strapped to a bed by seven assistants he got loose and cut his throat badly in attempting to shave. He also [illegible] a piece of flesh hanging from his wrist and chewed it, being apparently pleased with the taste of his own blood. The physicians think the case one of hydrophobia, which at first was quite under control.

THE SPEED OF A LEAGUER.

One night the fastest horse in town
Was stolen from his stall;
The sleuths did frown;
They swore that they would maul

The wretch who stole that noble horse;
They thirsted for his gore;
But then they [illegible]
A bolt locked the stable door.

At this season of the year when so many people become subject to attacks of biliousness, kidney troubles, constipation and all the list of troubles that arise from being housed up, or that are brought on by colds and exposure, it is the part of prudence to take warning from the experience of others and provide ourselves with the means of escape from similar troubles. PNEUMONIA PREVENTED.
OYSTER BAY, QUEENS COUNTY, NEW YORK, April 11, 1883.
I believe I have been saved from a terrible illness by ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.
About a month ago I was attacked with a violent pain in my chest, accompanied by fever and great difficulty in breathing. I apprehended pneumonia, which is so prevalent at present: I went to bed and applied one of Allcock's Plasters between my shoulder blades and two on my chest. In an hour my breathing was much easier, in two hours the pain had left me, and the next morning I awoke perfectly free from fever, I went about my business as usual, and at the end of a week took the plaster off.
For the last ten years Allcock's Plasters have been used by my family with the best effect in colds, coughs and pain in the side and back.
