For several years preceding his last illness he was superintendent of the dyeing department of the Chesapeake steam mills. He was a kind husband, a man of intelligence and judgment, industrious, upright, and during his residence in Lancaster, made many friends. In 1876 he married Miss Flora Bell, a young lady belonging to a wealthy family in Florida. He was survived by him, but he leaves no children. His funeral will take place from the residence of Mrs. E. It is estimated that 400 people were at the depot to see the party off, and all seemed very sorry to see them leave, as many tears were shed. This party consisted of prominent citizens of Elizabethtown, and they were accompanied by a number of friends. Their baggage consisted of 70 pieces, besides 2 carloads of furniture, &c. THE BROKEN PIPE. Water Works Superintendent Halbach, who had previously solicited proposals from the boiler-makers of the city for the repair of the supply pipe which connects the 24-inch main with the stand pipe in the city reservoir, opened the bids on Wednesday evening at the mayor's office. There were only two bidders. G. D. Hair proposed to do the work for $300; and Francis D. Marion for $160. The superintendent reported the bids to the water committee, and that body ordered that the job be given to Mr. Marion, the lowest bidder.

The breaking of the pipe connecting the 24-inch main with the stand pipe was caused by the heavy weight of ice upon it during the late severe weather. The pipe, which is of inch boiler iron, is not less than 40 feet in length, and was at one end bolted to the standpipe, and at the other secured to the bell of the 24-inch water main just inside the reservoir. The reservoir is situated 100 feet below the surface of the water. The pipe was supported near the centre by a heavy wooden trestle, on which it rested. This trestle, not having been well secured, became displaced by the constant vibration of the pump and floated from its position. On the 20th of March the ice on the reservoir being very thick, the night engineer at the water works, through inadvertence or carelessness, allowed the water to fall until the ice rested on the pipe. The weight was so great that the pipe sunk in the middle, the bolts of the joints not only being pulled out at both ends being torn out, so that the water pumped into the broken pipe went directly into the reservoir instead of into the stand pipe—and hence persons living in the higher portions of the town were deprived of water.

To prevent a similar accident from recurring, the trestle of ice on which it was placed under the new connecting pipe and they will be securely clamped to it, so that they cannot float off.
