

ADORATION. O Master, at Thy feet, I bow in rapture sweet! Before me, as in darkening glass, some glorious outlines trace, Of love and truth, and holiness, and power; I own them Thine, O Christ, and bless Thee for this hour.

How can the lip be dumb, The hand all still and numb, The eye that gazes on and owns Her Lord and God alone? And open Thou my lips that I may show Thy praise.

Ye, let my whole life be A sacrifice to Thee, O God, And let the praise of Him and Him, Outring all sin and strife, Be mine, O Master, as the supreme For Heaven and earth the one, the grand, the eternal theme.

DANCING IN A CHURCH. Eating a New England Dinner, and Waiting Round the Table. From the New York Herald, Wednesday.

Thirty pretty girls, in just as pretty costumes; 200 other people, mostly half-headed and gray or matronly, and a dude with a collar on that should have had a cuff button in the top of it, gave life and animation to the Central Congregational church last evening.

The interior of the church presented a rather peculiar sight. The pews had been reserved, and the old-fashioned New England dead tables, loaded with substantial food, piled on blue and white crockery, that irresolutely carried one back to the old farmhouse days of a rugged granite hills.

Not much. The solemnity was hidden away along with the hymnals and Bibles, and incense and pork and beans reigned supreme.

A bald-headed deacon, with a black coat and white head, sang something, whether it was "Chimney Up the Golden Stairs" or "Old Hundred" no one knew.

The Great Thrift of Workers Annually Crossing the Atlantic. The official statistics of emigration from Ireland in 1884, just issued, show that the emigrants who left Irish ports during that year were 76,043 in number, a decrease of 40,000 as compared with the previous year.
