for that of a business man not entirely careless of appearances yet having confidence enough in his own work to let the details of penmanship take care of themselves.

Mr. Jefferson penned his signature with the easy grace of a Spencerian graduate, but his economy of space was such that his documents as a whole fall below the present standard of clerical excellence. He wrote most of his messages with his own hand. One specimen embodies no less than ninety renominations, and cover almost to the last inch of space three and one-half pages of letter paper. Mr. Jefferson usually sent his message to the vice president by mail. It was long before the days of envelopes and mucillage and the documents bear the postmarks and red wafers of the ancient style. One of John Adams' autograph messages is as follows:

UNITED STATES, July 2, 1798. GENTLEMEN OF THE SENATE:
I nominate George Washington, of Mount Vernon, to be lieutenant-general and commander-in-chief of all the armies raised and to be raised in the United States.

JOHN ADAMS.

Mr. Medicon wireless in tree gular hand

Mr. Madison wrote an irregular hand devoid of marked peculiarities. His nomination of John Quincy Adams to be minister plenipotentiary to the court of St. Petersburg, which was one of several nominations made in a single message, bears the clerical marks of the Senate's disapproval. "Inexpedient to send minister," wrote the executive clerk upon the margin. Mr. Madison then wrote a second message giving his then wrote a second message giving his reasons for making the nomination and urging its confirmation, but the session expired without action.

Martin Van Buren's hand was unsteady

when he penned his first message, as if he had not fully recovered from the excitement had not fully recovered from the excitement and labors of his inauguration, but he wrote better the next day. James K. Polk's contribution to the collection is an autograph message penned in what would be taken for a feminine hand, yet with few of the graces of penmanship. Franklin Pierce wrote a sprawling, boyish signature. Andrew Johnson started fairly upon the line, then fell a little below it, but recovered himself at the end. The collection contains the first and the last messages of General Garfield, and the message of President Arthur nominating General Grant to his place upon the retired list of the army.

EILY COGHLAN'S CHOICE.

How the New York Divorce Courts Were Robbed of a Sensation.

When Miss Eily Coghlan was returning to America, some three years ago, she met an engaging young Englishman on board the steamer, and it was not long before they became mutually interested. Esteem ripened so quickly into affection that when this impressionable young couple landed in New York they repaired at once to the mayor's office and were made man and wife. The happy bridegroom said that he was a civil engineer, and that his name was Battam. He was a handsome, cultivated young fellow, and Miss Eily was preparing to idolize him, when he suddenly disappeared after a honeymoon of some ten days. The bride was amazed and outraged; but, as the days grew into months and the months into years, her lacerated heart gradually healed, and very few people remembered that she had ever married. One day last week Mr. Battam turned up in New York and at once sought out his wife. She received him frigidly in the presence of her distinguished sister Rose, and the latter urged upon him the necessity of granting his muchabused wife a divorce, but Mr. Battam demurred, and as the time for the elder sister to go to the theatre had come, the long-separated couple were left to adjust their differences. How well they employed the time may be bridegroom said that he was a civil engineer How well they employed the time may be judged from the fact that when Miss Coghlan came home at night she found a little note that ran something like this:

Dear Rose: Mr. Battam and I have made up and have gone down to the Fifth Avenue hotel, where we shall remain for the present.

Your loving ELY.

Thus has the divorce court been robbed of another sensation. It may be amiss, how-ever, to hope that Mr. Battam may not be again attacked with the migratory fever. Narrow Escape From Drowning Charles Enyeart, of Saxton, Pa., had thrilling experience and narrow escape from drowning on Saturday, while playing a game of "shinny" with a crowd of schoolmates on the Raystown branch of the Juniata river. Two companions, "Bud" Williams and "Fred" Dobson, were drowned while endeavoring to rescue him. He was saved in the open water at the dam by his remaining comrade who hurried to the water's edge. Joining hands for safety, one of them reached out with his shinny club, caught young Enout with his shinny club, caught young En-veart by his coat pocket and carefully drew him out, bleeding and insensible. He was taken home and lay there in an unconscious state until noon on Sunday. On opening his eyes first, he gasped, "Ugh, the cold rushing water!" and relapsed into insensibility. He revived and his physicians predicta com-plete recovery in a few days. The thorough chilling and the long strain on his nervous system, produced by the terror and excite-ment of his struggle, caused a suspension of ment of his struggle, caused a suspension of

Charlie explained how his face and head came to be cut. After his secend attempt to crawl out, he said he tried to break the ice by bracing his feet on the bottom and bumping against the ice with his head and hands, but failed. After this he knew nothing. He accounts for the scratches on the face from the fact that the under surface of the ice was rough and he probably rubbed against it when carried swiftly down the street at the control of the control o stream. "I opened my eyes under water," hesaid, "and in this way I knew when I was coming near the open places by the greenish light."

A FIRST BASE VACANT.

Henry J. Dehlman, the Ball Player, Dies Witkesbarre, of Typhoid Fever. Henry J. Dehlman, one of the oldest professional ball players in the United States, died in Wilkesbarre, Friday evening, of typhoid fever. He moved with his family from Brooklyn to Wilkesbarre to manage a semi-professional club in that city during the coming season. He contracted a cold which turned into fever. He was seriously ill only two days. Debliman started out in his base ball career with the old St. Louis Browns twelve years ago and gained quite a reputa-tion as a first baseman. He was later playing with the Syracuse, New York club. Two years ago he was captain and first baseman for Mr. Glantzs Easton profes-sional club. While in this nine he became sional club. While in this nine he became acquainted with Allentown people and aided materially in organizing the Allentown professional club of last year. He was manager during the early part of the season and frequently represented the club at meetings of the Eastern League. He was a reliable first baseman and made a most enviable reputation in that position, standing near the head of the list in the Eastern League. He leaves a wife and two young children. Mr. Dehlman often visited this city with the Easten and Allentown clubs.

Representative Elected.
On Saturday even ng John C. Haas was elected by the Lancaster Union No. 16, representative to the International Typographical Union, which meets in New York in June.

TWO FUNERALS. Aged Friends Who Were Laid to Rest or

The funeral of Rev. John G. Fritchey took place this afternoon. The friends of deceased met at his late residence, No. 420 West Chest-nut street, at 1 o'clock. After a brief service the body was pieced in a hearse and conveyed to the First Reformed church, followed by many relatives and friends. The followed by many relatives and friends. The following named clergymen acted as pall-bearers: Rev. J. Max Hark, of the Moravian church; Rev. J. T. Satchell, of the Duke street M. E church; Rev. C. L. Fry of Trinity Lutheran; Rev. Sylvanus Stall, of St. John's Lutheran; Rev. Michael Frayne, of the Olivet Baptist church, and Rev. W. Lichliter, of St. Luke's Reformed.

Arrived at the church the casket contain ing the remains was placed on a dais in front of the altar. Rev. E. V. Gerhart, of Frankof the altar. Rev. E. V. Gerhart, of Franklin and Marshall college, delivered a fine funeral oration, in which the leading events in the ministerial life of the dead preacher were recounted and his faith and zeal commended as an ex ample to others. The burial service of the Reformed church was given in full, Revs. J.
S. Stahr and Rev. Dr. Thos. Apple and Rev.
Theodore Apple assisting. A number of other city clergymen were present. At the close of the service the remains were taken to the Pennsylvania railroad depot, and thence by rail to Mechanicsburg, Cumberland county, for interment.

INTERMENT OF MRS. ANN K. URLER.

INTERMENT OF MRS. ANN K. UHLER. The funeral of the late Mrs. Ann Kauffman Uhler took place to-day from her late residence in the square in Manheim borough. The service was held in the Reformed church of that town, of which she was a devoted member, and an earnest and able sermon was preached by 'Rev J. H. Dubbs, D. D., of this city; who was assisted in the services by Mr. Johnson, of the seminary. A very large concourse of the friends of deceased was present; and after dinner the body was taken to Kauffman's meeting house, on the Lancaster turnpike, near the family homestead of deceased, where the interment was made. In the course of his address, Rev. Dr. Dubbs touchingly alluded to the coincidence that Mrs. Uhler was buried on the same day with Rev. Fritchey, who who had received her into the church nearly forty years ago, and who had been her stead fast friend ever since. devoted member, and an earnest and able

The Mayor's Court.

On Saturday night 42 strangers applied at the station house for lodging and four drunks were pulled in, compelling Hotelkeeper Shenck to display a board on the station house steps bearing the inscription "standing room only." The bums were all discharged on Sunday morning, and as they filed out of Grant street, they looked like an "awkward squad" under drill for the first time. Of the drunks three paid costs and one was committed for twenty-four hours. This morning the mayor disposed of one drunk and three lodgers. The drunk was committed and the lodgers were discharged.

Sudden Death of a Young Lady. Miss Mary Bresch, a 16-year-old daughter of Joseph Bresch, of 113 Church street, died suddenly shortly after 12 o'clock yesterday morning. Although she had not been in her usual health for a week or more she was asual health for a week or more she was able to be about the house and as late as 10, o'clock on Saturday night attended her in-valid father. The cause of her death was dropsy of the heart. Deceased was an em-ploye of Dodge's cork works, where she spoke of resuming her work to-day; she was also a member of the Blessed Virgin Mary secrety of St. Authony's church.

Trying to Save Botheras Edward Botheras, who murdered William Nichols, at Hazieton, Penna., and who is to be hanged on April 7th, is despondent and has completely broken down. Eight hundred have been raised in his behalf and lawyers have been employed to plead his case before the board of pardons. His niece, upon whose evidence Botheras was convicted, now contradicts her testimony, and medical experts will, it is said, swear that probing for the ball was the immediate cause of Nichols' death.

Miss Mary Gasser, daughter of Courad Gasser, was badly scalded this morning, at the residence of John L. Martin, 18 South Prince street, where she is employed as a domestic. It appears that she was dipping boiling water out of a vessel on the cooking boiling water out of a vessel on the cooking range, when she accidentally struck her arm against some object, spilling the water over her face, breast and arm, scalding herself very badly and possibly injuring her sight, as she complains of great pain in her eyes. Dr. George R. Welchans is attending her.

Death of an Aged Lady. Samuel E. Bailey, of this city, to-day received a telegram from West Chester, stating that his mother died at the residence of his sister in that town last evening. Deceased was 65 years of age. At the time of her death her name was Mrs. Anna Mull, she having been married a second time. She leaves three children as follows: Mrs. Archer, West Chester; Mrs. Dr. J. L. Reiter, Reading, and Mr. Bailey. and Mr. Bailey.

The Suydams Show.

On Saturday evening the Suydam pantomine company closed their engagement in the opera house and the audience was larger than upon either of the previous evenings. In addition to the regular company Charles Shay, of this city, appeared in his aged negro specialty and made a great hit. Witmer & Schaum, acrobats, also of Lancaster, went on and were very successful in accomplishing difficult feats.

Kassala Rumored to Have Fallen. Special editions of several London news papers were published Sunday announcing, on the authority of a private telegram from Suakin, that Kassala had fallen, and that the garrison had been massacred. The report is not believed, however, by government offi-cials, as government dispatches from Suakin received make no mention of such an occur-rence. Massowah advices to March 10th, say that no news had been received from Kassala since March 4.

Fatal Accident to a Horse.

On Saturday evening a man named Mumma, residing on the Harrisburg pike near McGovernville, was driving along East King street. When opposite Knapp's saloor the animal stepped upon a stone with the left hind foot and broke its leg. Dr. Shaub was sent for to attend the horse but it was found necessary to kill him yesterday morn-

Appointed Postoffice Clerk. Milton Swope, for several years night clerk in the postoffice, resigned his position on Saturday and to-day was appointed and went on duty as a clerk in the office of the recorder of deeds. Philip Benedict has been promoted to the position of night clerk, and Bens Samson, has been appointed as the clerk to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Benedict.

ale of Eastern Market Stalls. The sale of stalls at the Eastern market on Saturday afternoon was largely attended. The minimum price for butcher's stalls was $25, and for farmer's stalls $15. A few of each sold at a premium. The number disposed of was about the same as last year and the total receipts will aggregate about the same

A sneak thief entered the ballway at the Academy of the Sacred Heart, corner of Ann and Orange streets, on Sunday, and stole two shawis. The police are on the lookout for the thief. Both shawis are black, and one has a green stripe and the other a blue stripe.

Florida Strawberries. Mr. William A. Morton, of the INTELLI-SENCER office, has received some very fine strawberries raised on the farm of Wm. H. Miller in Seneca, Florida. Mr. Miller writes that they have been eating strawberries for a month in the J. and of Flowers.

Going on Duty Again.

George Cramer, constable and city police man of the Second ward, who has been sick for several weeks past, has recovered, and will go on duty to-morrow. His place was filled during his illness by Martin Dorwart, for-merly a member of the police force.

About noon to-day the engine "Robert Crane," of the Reading railroad, broke a side bar at Steigerwalt's coal yard on Water street.

Three car loads of lunatics from the Blockley hospital passed through the city at 10 a m., on their way to the Danville asylum.

Home Again.

John Best and wife, who left Lancaster on the 16th of February, for New Orleans, returned home Saturday evening, after a tightful time in the South. They went by the Shemandoah valley and East Tennessee route to Chattanooga, thence via Birming-ham to New Orleans, where they remained more than three weeks. They report the great exhibition as being magnificent, with the Mexican display at the top of all others.

A New Alderman Opens Shop. Alderman David M. Deen, elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Alderman Samson, this morning opened an office in the building on North Queen street, above the railroad, formerly occupied as a livery office by G. W. Zecher.

Hanged Himself While Despondent. Philip Keel, aged 65, a wealthy and respectable farmer of the Duncannon neighborhood, committed suicide on Sunday by hang-ing, while despondent from sickness.

A Georgian's Crock of Gold. John Byrd, a citizen of Rome, Ga., while digging in his garden, turned up several pots of treasure, one of which contained 1,200 gold follars. It was on a place owned by a wealthy family named Attaway during the war, and the money was undoubtedly buried to hide it from the advancing Union troops.

Getting Ready for Easter. Jerome Vondersmith has a Phymouth Rock hen weighing II pounds, that has begun furnishing the family with Easter eggs of unusual size. Her last effort thus far is an egg of very perfect shape, measuring eight by six and half inches, and weighing a full quarter of a pound.

Mr. Hearne, queen's counsel, the president of the association, was appointed a deputy and called upon his grace, when it was found that some person had entirely mis-represented the case to the archbishop. Mr. Hearne stated that it was customary for the French-Canadians, to carry a flag, and he French-Canadians to carry a flag, and he thought that the Irishmen should have the same privilege, especially as their spiritual advisers, the Redemptorist Fathers, were all from the United States. His grace thereupon consented that the flag be carried.

Sympathy from the President. The following dispatch from President Cleveland was received by Mrs. McCune, widow of Charles W. McCune, proprietor of the Buffalo Conrier, who died on Saturday. WASHINGTON, March 15. To Mrs. C. W. McCune, Buffalo:

"I extend you my heartfelt condolence and sympathy, and if it were possible, I should attend the sad exercises appointed for Monday next.
