WHITE HOUSE RECEPTION.

THE FIRST GIVEN UNDER THE DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION.

How the Ladies Were Dressed and the Brilliancy of the Feminine End of the Cabinet—The President Receiving The Diplomats.

President Cleveland's first reception to Congress and the high official circles of the capital was given Tuesday evening from 9 to 11. The executive mansion was prepared for the event with all the brilliancy incident to similar receptions by President Arthur, and several new effects in floral decoration were introduced in the Blue parlor, where the reception was held. The president wore plain evening dress, without gloves; the army and navy officers their full uniforms, with swords, the diplomatic corps their court costumes.

Miss Cleveland and the ladies of the cabinet stood in line with the president, the former wearing a cream white ottoman silk exquisitely made, with apron front of point lace, and the moderately low corsage finished with a width of the same, confined by a narrow satin ribbon. A black velvet band encircled her neck, and long light gloves reached nearly to the terminus of the short sleeve. She carried a bouquet of Cornelia roses and a white ostrich feather fan. Miss Bayard stood next, representing the social side of the state department, and wearing a delicate pink satin, veiled with pink tulle. Mrs. Manning, a bride, wore her dainty bridal dress of rich, white satin, with front of point lace and superb diamonds. Mrs. Endicott, wife of the secretary of war, was attired in ruby satin, with front of cloth of gold, and carried an immense bouquet of Jacqueminots and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Whitney, whose first appearance it was in Washington official life, wore black silk overlaid with black tulle. Her beautifully moulded arms and neck were bare, and she carried a large cluster of English violets. Mrs. Vilas wore dark red satin with front of chine brocade. The attorney generalship and the secretaryship of the interior had no feminine representatives, but Secretary Lamar and Attorney General Garland were in the group of cabinet officers at the rear. The vice president and Mrs. Hendricks, Mrs. Hoyt, Colonel and Mrs. Lamont, and Miss Nannie Bayard were also among the representatives of the new administration circle in the blue parlor. The ladies were all elegantly attired. Marshal McMichael made the presentations of civilians and diplomats to the president, Colonel Rockwell the army officers and Lieutenant Mason those of the navy. The procession of guests, except the diplomatic corps, passed down the main stairway of state from the upper dressing-rooms, and were joined by the diplomats in the red parlor before entering the presidential presence. Everyone remarked the ease affability with which the president and his staff of ladies discharged their new duties.

The leading diplomats were all present, a number going first to the dinner given by the German minister. The new Swedish minister and his elegant wife were much observed. General and Mrs. Sheridan, Generals Schofield Terry, Wright, Meigs, Holabird and Rochester were eminent among army officers present, and the navy was represented by Admirals Worden, Franklin, Temple and Quackenbush, with many of the grades next these. Senators Warner Miller and J. F. Miller, Blackburn, Cockrell, Jones, of Florida; Teller, Secretary of the Senate McCook; ex-Senator Pendleton, Representatives Randall, Cox, Belmont, Curtin, Butterworth, Spriggs, Hopkins, Le Fevre, Seney and Ermentrout were a few of the large congressional circle present. Nearly all the above were accompanied by their wives and daughters in handsome evening dress. It was as brilliant a scene as the White House has known in years. The Marine band played a fine selection of music throughout the reception. The east room at half-past 10 o'clock was a picture of gorgeous color and movement. The corridors and conservatory also were thronged.

RULES FOR GOOD HEALTH.

To Bed Before 12 and to Work Before 7 O'clock—The Advice Given.

Sleep, like any other appetite, can be cultivated and pampered, and just as any mouthful of food more than we really want is waste, and something worse, so every wink of sleep more than we need is dead loss, and that without the redeeming quality of overeating and drinking, viz., pleasure, says Rev. H. L. Haweis. For to be asleep is not pleasure; simply dead loss. To sleep from 11 to 9 in the morning is too much; from 11 till 6 should be, and is, for one averagely healthy and normally constituted, quite enough. The point I want to fix on especially is those two precious hours before breakfast. How many people only begin their day after breakfast, say about ten o'clock. I myself lived for nearly forty years without realizing that I had thrown away about 21,900 hours of good working life. Of course the candle can not be burned at both ends. You must get your sleep. I have known more than one professional man to succumb on the habit of retiring too late and rising too early. That was the beginning of my poor friend, the late Baron's Amphlett's collapse. As Q. C. he never should have gone into Parliament, and when he retired from the House on a judgeship the mischief was done. He used to be up late with briefs, or down at the House till two or three, rise at six, light his own fire and work till nine. All such overpressure is of course bad. Young men may stand it for a few years—young men can stand almost anything for a few years—but it is a vicious principle. Give the body its dues, or the body will revenge itself. Still to acquire the habit of early rising is worth an effort. I recommended it for health and pleasure as well as for profit. No one knows how radiant and vigorous nature looks who has not cared to assist her at early toilet, and seen her bathing herself in crystal dew and decking herself with opening blossoms between four and six o'clock on a midsummer morning. So much and how much more for the pleasure-seeker? But the early-rising worker all the year round is rewarded by an increase of produce, an economy of time, and an invigoration of mind and body. Morning literary work is usually characterized by freshness, continuity, grasp and vigor; night work by fever, excitement and less condensation. This I believe to be the rule, and with exceptions, in speaking thus generally, it is, of course, impossible to deal. Of one thing I am certain—that for all headworkers, especially literary men, the following rules will be found golden:

To bed before 12.
To work before 7.
As little liquid as possible, and no smoking before breakfast.

VALUE OF A LADY'S BANGS.

Twenty-five Dollars and Attorney's Fees Paid Rather than Stand Suit.

A novel case which involves the value of a lady's natural bangs was settled in Pittsburg the other day. It appears, at the time of the recent disastrous natural gas explosion in the Lawrenceville district, Miss Mary Mody, a beautiful young woman, was walking along Penn avenue, and was hurled into the street a distance of fifteen feet. After crawling out of a mass of debris she discovered that the portion of her hair which had composed her bangs was missing, having been blown off close to the scalp as clean as if cut by the clippers. She demanded of the Consolidated Gas companies compensation for injuries sustained, laying the damages at $100. This the company declined to pay, and Miss Mody retained counsel with a view of instituting suit. The attorney, however, first called on the company's officials. Negotiations were entered into for an amicable settlement of the difficulty, which culminated in the corporation granting the young lady $25 and attorney's fees for the loss of her bangs.

Sensation in a Church.

An exciting episode occurred at the Providence Presbyterian church, in the outskirts of Scranton, Sunday morning immediately after the services. The pastor and prominent members were in the act of extending the hand of fellowship to about sixty converts, the result of a recent revival, when a man named Aaron McDonald, who is not connected with the church, arose and vehemently denounced a married lady member of the congregation as a hypocrite and a cheat. The lady in question, who is a stately person of middle age, was in the act of congratulating some of the new church members at the time. McDonald, who refused to be silenced, declared in a loud voice that she had conspired with her husband to rob him out of $8,700, which he had lent them over eleven years ago, and said it would be much better if she stayed at home and tried to pay her debts. The occurrence caused a great sensation, and is still the talk of the town. All the parties concerned are well known and prominently connected.

A DAY OF STORM.

'Twas a day of storm, for the giant Atlantic,
rolling in pride,
Drawn by the full moon, driven by the fierce
wind, tide upon tide, Flooded our poor little Channel. A hundred anxious eyes
Were watching a breach new broken—when suddenly some one cries:
"A boat coming in!"—and, rounding the pier
head that hid her before,
There, sure enough, was a stranger smack, head straight for the shore.
How will she land, where each wave is a mountain? Too late for how!
Run up a flag there to show her the right place!
She must land now!

She is close; with a rush on the galloping wave-top, a stand,
As the water sinks from beneath her, her nose just touches the land.
And then, as rude hands, sacking a city, greedy of prey,
Toss, in some littered chamber, a child's toy lightly away,
A great wave rose from behind, and lifting her, towered, and broke,
And flung her headlong, down on the hard beach, close to the folk.
Crash! * * * But 'tis only her bowsprit gone—she is saved somehow;
And a cheer breaks out, for a hundred hands have hold of her now.

And they say 'twas her bowsprit saved her, or she must have gone over then;
Her bowsprit it was that saved her; and little they think, those men,
Of one weak woman that prayed, as she watched them tempest driven!
They say 'twas her bowsprit saved her! I say, 'twas that prayer and Heaven!

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Reputation of a Standard Article

Is seldom injured by surreptitious rivalry. Imitators of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have not only lost money by attempting underhand competition with it, but have actually contributed to enhance the estimation in which the genuine medicine is held. The public at large has for many years been acquainted with the ear marks that distinguish the real from the spurious, and cannot be persuaded that other articles sold in a somewhat similar guise are equally good. Fever and ague, constipation, dyspepsia and liver complaint are not curable by cheap local bitters, eye openers and tonics, but the fact is too well proven and too generally known to admit of conscientious dispute, that for these and other maladies the great household medicine is a safe and thorough remedy. Not only in the United States, but in Mexico, South America and the West Indies, its merits are widely recognized and its reputation too firmly established to be shaken. m12-19d Gallant Rescues.

There can be something heroic in a medicine as well as in individuals. Burdock Blood Bitters have effected many a gallant rescue among the suffering sick. Thousands have escaped the miseries of dyspepsia and nervous debility through the use of this wonderful medicine. It is emphatically the best stomach and blood tonic in the world. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street, Lancaster.

IN USE 150 YEARS.

Impurity of Blood, however, generated, is always present in the body when pain is felt; it spreads and ferments wherever a weak spot or low vitality exists.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are the one great and unfailing remedy, because they take hold and expel only what is hurtful; so when sick, have pain, dizziness, rheumatism, colds, or costiveness, take from three to five, an if they do not operate in four hours or so, take three or four more. They cleanse the bowels and circulation from all impurities of the blood, and often save life. BRANDRETH'S PILLS preserve the vigor of youth, and for a long period keep off the debility of age.

HAIR RENEWER.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.
