

ing no provision for so unusual a guest, took him to a druggist near by who kept him for his children, as there was no advertisement for him in the daily papers. Soon after, while visiting at the house of a prominent and wealthy New Yorker, the hostess expressed to him the desire for a tame crow. Thinking the rayen as worthy of a place in that house. the raven as worthy of a place in that house hold as a crow would be, the "gentleman in New York who knew much of Poe's life" induced the druggist to return him the raven, which he forthwith sent to the lady before mentioned, and in whose home itstill (unless recently lost or deceased) lives a quiet and uneventful life.

Legislative Eloquence in Arkansas. Extract from State Senator Crockett's Speech.

Sir, for whom are we legislating? For our selves alone? Alas, sir, heaven will never smile upon such selfish legislation. In a little while you, Mr. President, and my venerable friend, the father of this bill, whose snowy locks are even now being tossed by the breezes of another world, and I will have ed away and quietly sleep beneath the sod. The winter snow will drape the mounds above us with a winding sheet, but the sting of its bitter cold will be all unheeded by us. above us with a winding sheet, but the sting of its bitter cold will be all unheeded by us. The spring birds will sing their sweetest notes in the swinging branches above our graves, though their music will not be heard by us. But Arkansas-God bless her !--like a gentle mother, who fold us to her loving breast and drape our beds with flower-ing vince, sing soft lullables o'er our dreamless rest with the low, sweet music of murmuring winds. After us will come another generation, who, if they find our state standing shoulder to shoulder with her sister states in the battle for development and material prosperity, through our wise legislation, will rise up and call us blessed. But, on the other hand, if they find her dwarfed by unwise and restricted legislation, they should honor. Let us remember that Arkansas is a growing state, and legislate for her on the plan that my dear old mother, of blessed memory, was wont to cut my clothes in my boyhood days. She always cut my breeches two years ahead, and I always grew to them, and, alas, sometimes " got too big for 'em," and when I did-but that was my mother's business. Sirs, let us cut Arkansas' breeches-but I see I must drop my mother's business. Sirs, let us cut Arkansus' breeches—but I see I must drop the illustration or change the sex of our state, which I would not do for the world—God bless her !
