Eggs Laid on Sunday Must be Devoted to the Mission Work.

From the New York York Times.

The Rev. Mr. Whitescarver may be in many respects a most estimable man, but he has apparently adopted the detestable principle that it is lawful to do evil that good may come. In a contribution to a recent number of the Richmond Religious Herald he relates the following conversation held by him with a sister in his denominational Israel. "Ought we to let our hens lay on Sunday?" asked the sister, to which Mr. Whitescarver replied, "Yes, but you ought to give the Sunday eggs to missions." How Mr. Whitescarver can justify this advice, except on the plea that the end justifies the means, it is difficult

The utter want of respect for Sunday which The utter want of respect for Sunday which is evinced by domestic fowls is very painful to right-minded people. Hens not only lay eggs on Sunday, but they afterwards cackle over the fact in a noisy and grossly irreverent manner, and then spend the rest of the day in the servile labor of digging worms. The hen evidently has no conscience and no respect for the convictions of her owner. She would as soon lay an egg on Sunday as on Saturday, and reproof and remonstrance have no effect upon her.

In these circumstances what ought the

"sister" mentioned by Mr. Whitescarver to do? Obviously it is her duty to see to it that her hens do not lay eggs on Sunday. To per-mit the hens to go on in their wicked course is manifestly to its manifestly to the sunday. is manifestly to give countenance to wicken-ness. She cannot clear herself of complicity with the hens by giving the eggs to missions. As well might the owner of a lottery try to atone for his violation of the lottery law by estly to give countenance to wickedtving part of his profits to missionaries. If is wrong for hens to lay eggs on Sunday it the duty of the "sister" to keep them from tying. If she listens to the crafty and im-loral advice of Mr. Whitescarvershe will be

The proper course for the "sister" to pursue is to tie strings to the legs of all her hens on Saturday night, and to compel them to swing head downward all day Sunday. No swing head downward all day Sunday. No hen would venture to lay eggs while in such a position, nor would she have spirit enough to cackle. A solemn silence would reign in the hennery from morning till night, and the hens would be taught to keep Sunday it a quiet and happy way. Were Mr. Whitescarver a safe guide he would have told the 'sister' how to protect Sunday from secularization on the part of hens; but alas! he has chosen instead to encourage the sister's hous chosen instead to encourage the sister's hens in evil-doing in order that missions may profit thereby.

An Old Couple's Secret Wealth. For many years Elisha Sands and his wife th lived on a small farm on King street Port Chester, Westchester county, Sands was a book-binder in New fork, and was not supposed to be possessed of much money. He died about two years go, leaving no children. Last Tuesday the vidow Sands died. When Mrs. Sands' effects were examined there was found sewed up in an old petticoat $30,000 in greenbacks. Sank books were also found showing deposants to the full timit allowed by law in savings anks in New York city, the whole amount eding $110,000. There was also found $100,000 in government and other bonds. In addiovernment and other bonds. In addi-to this Mrs. Sands left real estate in Sevth avenue, Elm and Cherry streets and the owery, and the farm, unincumbered, upon tich she resided. The bulk of the estate will go to her four nephews Mortimer Brown, of New York, James and Wm Purdy, of Port Chester, and another in Chi-

"Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or 'dress without belp. I tried several remedies, without much if any relief, until I took AYRE'S SARSAFARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have soid large quantities of your SARSAFARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicing ever offered to the public.
