Why the Tramps Thrive.

The tramp nuisance is getting to be a serious one in this city and county. Our citizens are daily exposed to injury and insult from these frequently malevolent creatures and nothing is done to abate the evil; which yet may very readily be abated. The constables and aldermen who find their offices made fat by arresting vagrants at the cost of the county have no inducement to suppress the nuisance. Their profit comes from its continuance. The more tramps, the more chances for fees; and our court seems to have no desire to check the efforts of the police and justices in this direction. On Saturday last it gave a new trial to the Columbia justice and constable, who were convicted on the clearest testimony, of having robbed the county by committing men as vagrants for the sake of their fees. It was shown that they seized upon respectable men who were in no sense vagrants to make their few dollars out of their commitment.

Judge Patterson said, in granting the new trial, that he never thought that the conspiracy to defraud the county had been made out. Maybe he did not. It would be rash to deny any assertion he may desire to make concerning his blindness. Nevertheless it is clear enough that these officers conspired together to cheat the county. The case was a very flagrant one, and it is a gross wrong to the community that the just verdict of the jury is set aside.

The wrong is greatly aggravated in this special instance, because by disturbing the verdict of the jury that tried Struck and Frank, a conviction for their offense is practically rendered forever impossible. It will be remembered that by various devices the trial of the defendants was postponed at t[illegible]rts, and though they were returned [illegible] April term of 1884, they secured a continuance to May, to August and to October; during all of which intervening time the witnesses necessary to make out the commonwealth's case, being poor men and non-residents, were kept here or were regularly brought here at much trouble and expense. Upon the trial the defendants' counsel argued very strongly the same point upon which Judge Patterson gave them a new trial, that the testimony did not support the charge of conspiracy. Judge Patterson then, after a full consideration of the matter, allowed the jury, the proper judges of the facts, to determine them. If no case was made out he should not have left it to the jury; but having so left it, he disturbs their verdict and usurps their functions, because they did not agree with his view of the case. This is an invasion of the jury's prerogative and an abuse of the judge's power, which in the case under consideration is a very serious public concern.

For if the opinion of the court was so very clear, as to the error of the jury, the verdict could have been set aside at once and the defendants could have been tried again or upon another charge, when the witnesses were within reach. Instead of this prompt administration of the law, Judge Patterson withheld his opinion from last December, when the rule was argued, until last Saturday—a period of four months—and then coolly announces, without filing a scrap of paper to show that any deliberation was required or any delay needed, that in the minds of himself and his colleague there never was any doubt that the defendants were improperly convicted for conspiracy. If no doubt, why this long delay?

Meanwhile the witnesses against Frank and Struck are scattered and gone; one of them, we understand, being on the high seas, and all beyond the jurisdiction of this court. Another trial of Frank and Struck for conspiracy, for extortion, for illegal fees or offense of whatever technical name, arising out of these facts, is of course impossible, made so by Judge Patterson's delay in filing an opinion, about which it seems he was clear in his own mind, and was reinforced in his opinion by his colleague four months ago.

Justice being thus balked in the court of justice, the tramp business will no doubt continue to be manipulated for the benefit of the constables and justices, and not for the relief of the community.

They Will Please Observe.

A young man shot his mother and sister and himself the other day in Connecticut, during a walk by the pleasant sea side, to which he had invited them. He had no sane motive for the deed apparently. There was no quarrel, and their relations were pleasant. They were people of wealth and the slayer was a graduate of Yale college, where he had borne off high honors. Upon the surface it was a very deliberate murder. He went out armed with a pistol with which he first shot his mother twice, then his sister, as she turned to flee, finishing up the tragedy with himself. Yet undoubtedly it was not murder, as the law interprets it, but an act of insanity. This is clearly shown to any ordinary intelligence by the relation of the parties and the lack of motive; and, furthermore, the slayer left behind him a letter of explanation, declaring his deliberate purpose and claiming that he did it for the good of the slain. In this letter he declares his suspicion that he may be insane.

The Pennsylvania board of pardons and the judge and jury and governor, who, among them, hung the Altoona doctor, who slew his wife, will find in this Connecticut slaughter a kindred case. The Altoona slayer was a man of education and intelligence, who killed his wife without a reasonable motive. The mistake he made was in not slaying himself. He should have yielded so much deference to the theory of the Pennsylvania board of pardons, and the governor and Dr. Hammond, that crazy people who kill should die for the good of society. The insane people of the state who hereafter kill, will please observe the practice set in Connecticut and finish up the job with themselves, if they have intelligence enough left to incline to save trouble to the hangman, governor, pardon board and courts.

THE county officials must be satisfied that the committal of vagrants to the jail does not check the nuisance, but promotes it. The remedy is the work-house. Every wayfarer should be provided with food and shelter, but should be made to pay for it by his labor. When Almshouse Superintendent Cox put these men at stone-breaking before feeding them, they passed us by on the other side. Why has this method of treating them been discontinued? Is there no desire on the part of the authorities to abate tramps that they do nothing effective towards it. In the New Jersey cities they are put to work on the streets, and they are scarce therefore in that thoroughfare of travel. Let us also put them to work.

IT is a wise coal dealer who now goes into the ice business.

CLEVELAND is so plain of speech that even the Oklahoma Boomers were made to understand.

No sooner is chill winter gone than sun strokes, forest fires, and deadly water spouts put in an appearance. Without doubt, man was made to mourn.

IT appears that the trade dollars that are so mysteriously disappearing in this country are finding their way to China. American firms buy them up in large quantities at a slight advance over the price offered at the mints and ship them to the Celestial Kingdom. There they are restamped by the Chinese government, which act forever ends their American character, and prevents any possibility of their redemption. Thus easily does China obtain a coin for herself and at the same time aid Congress in evading its duty to redeem at par this depreciated currency.

THE cry that "the tramps must go" seems to be understood by those gentlemen of the road to refer to ingress to a house by the first open door they see.

EVEN Ouida descends from her habitual perch in the regions of sentimentalism to animadvert on the criminal foolishness of attempting to fill the juvenile mind with hard facts of knowledge, after the manner of packing sardines in a box. It matters little that her plea for the little ones is contained in a very inartistic and bad poem, that is intended to be in dramatic form. She talks about what is true, and this fact gives a value to her words that they might not intrinsically possess. The little urchin, who holds forth in the drama, is made thus to complain:

"The ciphers jump about my bed all night,
And when I shut my eyes I see the slate!
I try to learn; I try with all my might;
I s'pose I'm stupid; learnin's such a weight,
And, do 'em how I may, they won't come right."

And yet the temperance hygiene crowd would pile additional burdens on the juvenile backs in a senseless law, adding a senseless text book to the now too large list. O Tempora, O Mores!

FOR those who were restrained by the inclemency of "Arbor Day" from planting a tree, the present balmy spring weather offers many opportunities for attending to this pleasing and salutary duty. If a shade tree is desired, the Norway maple, acer platanoides, will be found to well fill the bill. It blooms in mid-April, its flowers having a most brilliant color that gives to the tree at a distance the appearance of a golden veil. The foliage is dense, deep green and graceful, remaining until late in the autumn. As a shade tree, it ranks with the best, and those who plant this variety of tree may count upon a beautiful and useful adornment to his premises for many a year.

THOUGH the Hessians fought for King George III for pay in the war of the Revolution, it seems to have been the first and last instance of German opposition to American institutions. A paper read before the German society of Philadelphia on "The German Soldier in Our War," by J. G. Rosengarten, briefly chronicles the debt of gratitude due this brave race from the country of their adoption. During the Mexican war German soldiers who had learned the art of war in the Fatherland did yeoman service in the cause of the United States. When the rebellion broke out the Germans were among the first to rally to the support of the Union, and to their efforts under Sigel is mainly due the fact that Missouri was not part of the Confederacy, and the whole German population of the Northwest helped to keep the rebellion below the Mississippi. The statistics of the nativity of the soldiers in the Union army are not at all complete, but out of an estimated German element of a little over a million, nearly 200,000 were in the army. This is a great record for a class of foreigners who form one of the best elements in the composite population of the country.

SOME clergymen in Pittsburg are opposing the carrying of mails on Sunday, and a Schenectady minister is introducing a brass band to play regularly at Sunday service. So runs the world away.

Persian Baths.

Teheran Letter from Minister Benjamin.

There are two remarkable restrictions in every Persian city. No Christian is ever permitted to enter one of the public baths. These baths are on the plan of what are called Turkish baths in America. The women bathe in the morning and the men in the afternoon. After the bath the bathers lounge in an outer room and gossip and smoke. For the women, especially, the weekly visit to the bath is like resorting to a woman's club. They take their sewing and embroidery, and after the bath sit for hours chatting, sewing and smoking the water-pipe. When the woman returns home from the bath she is full of the gossip of the neighborhood and has plenty to talk about for a week to come. In Turkey all sects can visit the bath, but the Persians allow no one to bathe with them but the faithful followers of the prophet.

The Fatal Electrical Current.

People who were in the vicinity of Madison and Clark streets, Chicago, early Wednesday evening were horrified by an accident of a peculiar and most painful character. Charles B. Schultz, an electrician, stood on the top round of a ladder, fourteen feet from the sidewalk, adjusting a dimly-burning electric light. Losing his balance he grasped both rods which support the lamp, and through which a current was passing. He was unable to let go, and hung writhing to the swinging lamp until some one stopped the engine that worked the current, when he fell to the sidewalk dead.

A Strong Association.

A stock growers' association in Wyoming territory which twelve years ago was organized with ten members, owning 20,000 head of cattle, valued at $150,000, to-day has 435 members, owning 2,000,000 head of cattle, whose estimated value is $100,000,000.

KILLED HER LOVER.

HE WAS ON WITH THE NEW LOVE BEFORE HE WAS OFF WITH THE OLD.

The Tragedy that Was Enacted on the Streets of Philadelphia on Wednesday Evening. How a Jealous Woman Carried Out a Very Deliberate Revenge.

Annie Cutler, a young colored woman, shot and killed her lover, William H. Knipe, in front of 1,025 Arch street, Philadelphia, shortly after eight o'clock Wednesday evening. The woman, who is only twenty-one years old, was brought to Philadelphia from Boston about three years ago by Knipe. They continued their relations after arriving there under the agreement, the girl avers, that after a time they should be married. About two years ago she obtained employment as cook in Mettler's concert hall, at 835 Race street, and has lived there ever since. She was frequently visited by Knipe. The latter kept up his visits until a night or two ago, when the girl learned that he had been married to another woman about three months ago.

She obtained this information on Tuesday and began drinking heavily. At night she was drunk, but Knipe did not call as usual. Wednesday afternoon she left the saloon and, it is supposed, procured the revolver with which the murder was committed. She drank little, but was moody and preoccupied. She left the saloon at about half-past seven o'clock and went directly to Arch, above Tenth.

After waiting in front of the boarding house at 1,025 Arch street, where Knipe was employed for some time, she began pacing up and down the block. At a quarter past eight o'clock Knipe left the house and started westward on Arch street. When near Eleventh street the woman sprang from her concealment behind a flight of steps and confronted him. As he started back she drew a revolver from a pocket in her dress and hastily cocking it fired at his head. He reeled, and in falling turned his back towards her. She fired again as he was pitching headforemost to the pavement. She was about to fire again when three citizens ran across the street and pinioning her arms succeeded after a hard struggle in disarming her. As one of the men tore the smoking weapon from her fingers she yelled:

"For God's sake give me another shot!"

The shots were heard by Officers Hartshorne and Nagle, of the Sixth police district, who arrived at the scene of the tragedy at the moment the woman had been disarmed. She struggled violently for a time, not to escape, but to make a further attack on her victim, who lay perfectly still where he fell. In a few minutes two other officers arrived on the scene. These carried the wounded man to the Homeopathic hospital and the other escorted the woman to the Sixth district police station.

Knipe died a few minutes after his admission to the hospital. An examination by Dr. Mercer showed that the first ball took effect in the face, a short distance below the left eye and passed out at the back of his head. The other and presumably the fatal ball entered the back below the shoulder blade and passed through one lung and possibly touched the heart in its course.

When the woman was taken to the station house she was calm and collected. Magistrate Pole obtained a sworn statement from her, in which she rehearsed the wrongs she had suffered at the hands of her murdered lover. She talked calmly and showed no regret for the crime she had committed. Later in the evening she was visited by her employer, Joe Mettler, but he was not permitted to see her. She refused to talk to Lieutenant Walton or make any statement to the police officials.

At the time of the shooting Knipe was on his way home. He lived, with his wife, at 1,412 Gulielma street, a small thoroughfare running east from 515 South Fifteenth street, in the Seventh ward.

RESULTS OF A WATER SPOUT.

Several Families Caught in the Big Block of Water—Cattle and Crops Destroyed.

A dispatch dated Tuesday at Medicine Lodge, recounts fearful results of the water-spout or cloud-burst to the residents of the Medicine river, which seems to have been the same that filled the Ninnescah to overflowing.

The water rolled down over the low lands east of Medicine Lodge city five to twelve feet perpendicular, carrying death in its wake. Several whole families are known to be drowned. Wednesday morning parties who had gone out to give relief found men, women and children clinging to trees, with nothing but their night clothes to protect them and some without any clothing whatever, but still alive. Their cries could be heard as early as four o'clock in the morning above the waving waters. Three attempts were made to rescue parties beyond the river, but each boat in turn was swamped and the occupants only saved themselves by swimming to trees. Five bodies had been recovered up to the hour of the writing of the dispatch, which was sent over to the first railroad point by mail. Another body was in sight but could not be reached.

There were eight movers' wagons camping in the bottoms and one old man has recognized the bodies of three of his family, his wife and two children. James Gibbs and his daughter and niece were washed away with their home. A Mrs. Harris and her little girl of eleven years old were found drowned. G. W. Paddock and family, consisting of a wife and four children, are thought to be all drowned. Frank Shippeler put his wife and child on the roof, and his house went down. He was knocked off by a projecting limb and swam ashore several miles below, but of the fate of his wife and child nothing is known.

The people in Medicine river bottoms had earlier warning and all escaped with their lives. Hundreds of cattle were drowned and great fields of crop ruined. Hundreds of dead animals also line the banks of Elm creek. The rise started at dark on Monday night, and rain poured steadily for six hours, which was followed by a great cloud burst north of the town. Among those known to be lost are the following: G. W. Paddock, wife and four children, bodies of wife and three children recovered; Jerry Gibbs and daughter; Mrs. Harris and daughter, bodies of latter two recovered; wife and four children of Samuel Maddox, bodies of the woman and two children recovered. Four wagons containing "movers" have not been heard from, and it is thought all the occupants have perished. No news is yet received from the country below Medicine Lodge, but it is feared there has been very serious loss of life.

A STRONG MAN.

Who Lifts Nearly Half a Ton and Bends Iron Bars With Ease.

From the Louisville Post.

Louisville comes to the front again with the strongest man in the country. His name is John Bernhardt, but he resembles the divine Sara in name only, though he is a native of Alsace, in the south of France. Bernhardt is a new-comer to Louisville, and is employed in the foundry department of a down town factory, where his feasts of strength are daily exhibited to the astonishment of his fellow laborers. He is 27 years, 6 feet 4 inches high and weighs 256 pounds, and with no surplus flesh. He is not fat, but is the finest specimen of muscular manhood seen here for a long time. A Post reporter called in to see him this morning, and had a short interview with the brawny Frenchman. He is of magnificent build, straight as an Indian. His chest is broad and deep, and his chin and cheek bones indicate great strength; but his arms are wonderful and around the biceps they measure seventeen inches. His hands look like bacon hams. His skin is smooth and red, though he never drinks a drop of intoxicating liquor of any kind whatever and was never drunk in his life.

He gave the reporter a few exhibitions of his strength. Taking a piece of iron, which was afterward found to weigh forty-three pounds, Bernhardt held it horizontally at arm's length for several minutes. He then raised a huge piece of block iron from the ground and placed it on the scales. It pulled 864 pounds. Taking a piece of bar iron two inches wide and one inch thick, and placing it against his knees, he bent it easily. He took hold of a 42-gallon barrel of water, and, balancing himself against a post, he went through the motion of drinking out of the bung-hole. He took a piece of seasoned oak, about the size of a wagon spoke, and broke it with his hands. He did various other wonderful things which demonstrated the possession of most extraordinary strength.

Bernhardt says he was never in the prize ring, but says he is not afraid to meet John L. Sullivan or any other man. He professes to fell an ox with his bare fist, and often killed hogs in that manner while employed in a Chicago pork-packing establishment. His hands are as hard as wood, and a stroke from one of them would not differ much from a stroke of a mallet.

HENRY SIGOURNEY, of a well-known Boston family, has married one of the coryphees in the ballet of a Boston theatre. Mr. Sigourney is about 30 years old, and has an income of nearly $60,000 a year.

MRS. BARRIOS, widow of the late president of Guatemala, and her seven children, arrived at San Francisco from Panama Wednesday. It is reported that President Barrios had $8,000,000 invested in the United States.

REV. DR. LEONARD WITHINGTON, a well known Congregational minister, died Wednesday in Newbury, Massachusetts, at the age of 90 years. He was author of the books, "The Puritan" and Solomon's Song," and was a frequent contributor to the press.

CAPTAIN THOMAS PHELAN has been reappointed superintendent of the workhouse in Kansas City, Missouri. He started for New York, Wednesday night, to appear as a witness against Richard Short, at the latter's trial for murderous assault upon him in that city.

ANDREW CARNEGIE, of Pittsburg, has been invited in writing by a committee of Liberals to stand as Liberal candidate in the coming Parliament election for the North-east division of Edinburgh, and contest the district against the Right Hon. George J. Goschen, the present Liberal member for Ripon.

SENATOR EVARTS is famed for his egotism. A well known clergyman, meeting him in Washington during the seven day's fighting before Richmond in 1862, asked him eagerly, "What's the news?" and he replied with perfect unconsciousness of the real subject of inquiry, "I feel quite well to-day."

COLONEL JOHN Y. CULYER, of Brooklyn, who has had a good deal to do with the public schools of that city, says that there are many children under ten years of age who cannot tell the time of day from a clock or watch. He suggests that a large paper dial, plainly figured and provided with movable hour and minute hands, be placed in each class-room in the schools, and that a few minutes be given each day to instructing the pupils how to read the time.

HENRY RANDALL, a brother of Congressman Samuel J. Randall, died suddenly on Wednesday afternoon at his home in Germantown, Philadelphia. He was one of three sons of Josiah Randall, all of them lawyers, of whom the ex-speaker is the most widely known. Henry Randall was a very retiring and unostentatious man, and took no part in and had no taste for public life. He attended closely to his law business, which consisted mainly of the management and settlement of estates. He was the eldest of the three brothers, being in his sixty-third year.

Careless Slaughter of Innocents.

Ancient massacres of defenseless young could hardly surpass the careless sacrifice of innocent youth now. Needless neglect often develops a slight cold into a malignant diphtheria or scarlet fever, and the youthful sufferer is lost, where a prompt and thoughtful use of DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY would surely have saved and restored a happy life. This is the best possible remedy to successfully meet diseases that work so quickly, and a supply should always be kept at hand for ready use. Price, $1 per large bottle, of any reliable grocer or druggist.

William McKnew, 124 Fayette St., Baltimore, Md., says: "I believe 'Favorite Remedy' is a good medicine. It is doing me more good than anything I ever tried, and I have tried almost everything, for I am a sufferer from dyspepsia." While "Favorite Remedy" is a specific in Stomach and Bladder diseases, it is equally valuable in cases of bilious disorders, Constipation of the Bowels, and all the class of ills apparently inseparable from the constitutions of women.

A Skeleton.

It is unpleasant to have a skeleton in the family, although it is said such things are very common. But it is still more unpleasant to be a skeleton. And it is even worse to be "a skeleton full of neuralgic pains." This is just what Mr. P. H. Carson, of Santafee, Florida, says he was. But in writing about it he says, "Brown's Iron Bitters restored my health." Take the hint from this improvent. To put flesh on your bones, drive out neuralgia and invigorate your system, take Brown's Iron Bitters.

"Independence, Texas, Sept. 26, 1882.

Gentlemen:

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Has been used in my household for three reasons:

1st. To prevent falling out of the hair.
2d. To prevent too rapid change of color.
3d. As a dressing.

It has given entire satisfaction in every instance. Yours, respectfully,

WM. CAREY CRANE."

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is entirely free from uncleanly, dangerous, or injurious substances. It prevents the hair from turning gray, restores gray hair to its original color, prevents baldness, preserves the hair and promotes its growth, cures dandruff and all diseases of the hair and scalp, and is, at the same time, a very superior and desirable dressing.
