The Milk in the Coceanut.

Along comes Mr. Quay and gaily shies his castor into the ring. He says he is a candidate for the Republican nomination of state treasurer; that he is a candidate for himself, in his own interest, and that he has come to stay.

The announcement creates some surprise. because it has been understood that the politicians with whom Mr. Quay trains, nd whose most active agent is Mr. Chris Magee, had some time ago cheny and Lancaster counties, as the next for this office. Those to whom nouncement of Mr. Quay's candidacy brings surprise may not know or may have forgotten that he has an unsettled acount with Mr. Magee, brought over from the state convention of 1883; which he may now aspire to pay off.

Upon that occasion Mr. Quay understood that Mr. Passmore was to be the nominee for state treasurer; and that Mr. Cameron so understood it, and had made Mr. Magee so understand it. But when the convention met, with Magee in command and Cameron in Europe, Livsey was taken and Passmore was left.

If Mr. Quay is a candidate it may be aken for granted that he has one eye on he future, as well as one on the past. He has a peculiarity of vision that gives him foresight as well as hindsight.

The Bullitt bill is not yet passed; and Senators Mylin and Stehman have not as yet manifested any very cordial sympathy

A New State Capital.

It is certainly true that a good many members of the legislature do not comport themselves in the capital city with that decency and dignity which should be ry to command for one at home or abroad the courtesy due a gentleman and public official. Those who do not deserve it have no right to expect it; and those who merit it no doubt obtain it in as large degree in Harrisburg as they would any where else, though it is not the most hospitable of cities, nor the most attractive.

There are better reasons for a new capitol building, perhaps, than for a removal of its location. A great deal of money is being spent annually on the old rat-trap, and it gains little of comfort or respectable appearance from the outlay. If the people of Pennsylvania could have some guarantee of an honest and judicious expenditure of their money, we do not believe they would begrudge the necessary outlay for a fitting capitol. We are away behind most of the older and larger states.

quite agrees with the INTELLIGENCER that until Judge Livingston opened his mouth and spake no one knew what had been done by the county commissioners " with the approbation of the court," to secure the arrest of the desperadoes who have terrorized the eastern end of Lancaster county for the past few months; and therefore it was "entirely competent for the grand jury to make the recommendation it did," in doing which it only voiced "a sentiment that finds free and full expression in every part of the county."

The New Era notes the same phenomena that others have observed, viz: that since the commissioners threw out dark hints a month ago "that some repressive measures" had been undertaken, in a mysterious way, "with the approbation of the court," the outrages have increased in number and boldness rather than other-

Perhaps the detectives have joined the gang. Certainly if they are not brighter and bolder than the officers whom the prison inspectors had on "the hill" some months ago, a scarecrow taken out of a last year's Salisbury cornfield and mounted on Blue Rock would catch Abe Buzzard before they did.

A Good Riddance. The Republican postmaster of this city, who has been one of those "offensive partisans" whose heads have not rested easy since Mr. Cleveland's election, has tried to recognize the fitness of things in securing the appointment of a Democrat to a vacancy occurring in his force of letter carriers. In so doing, of course, he took the chances of incurring not only the animosity of his own party, but of strengthening the Democratic demand that he should fall a victim to the policy that the administration's agents in executing the public service be in political sympathy with the head of the government.

There will not, however, be any two nions about the indecency of the conduct of Carriers Hensel and Hoffman, who, without any notice or just cause, tried to obstruct and embarrass the postoffice service and inconvenience the public by refus ing to work on the force with a Democrat. dr performance is characteristic of them, and only helps to prove that they had disgraced the service too long; the postmaster here in no way showed his

THAN WAS EXPECTED.

It may seem somewhat premature to discuss election possibilities of next fall, but it is well in time of peace to prepare for war. There is a great deal of Domocratic blossom in the several state contests which the conservative administration of President the conservative administration of President Cleveland is doing much to ripon. Virginia elects a governor, lieutenant governor, at-torney general, half the Senate and theentire House of Delegates. Mahone will make a desperate effort to hold the legislature which chooses his successor, but all signs point to an overwhelining expression of desire for his return to private life. The state now rejoices in a most efficient Democratic organization and those who gamble on Democraticsuccess Heavy deliveries of new tobacco continue to be made at the city warehouses, which prove that buying has been going on actively, though the buyers have not been trumpeting their purchases. Since it has become evi-dent that the Pennsylvania crop of '84 will not aggregate by many thousand cases as nuch as was supposed earlier in the season, buyers who held aloof for fear of an over-stocked market have taken heart, and for a and those who gamble on Democratic succes week or two past have been gathering in all they could get, while these who were earlier in the field have continued purchasing. The result is that the crop which so long remained are certain to win. Ohio elects all her state officers, and if she can hold her present Democratic legislature, Senator Sherman must bite the political dust. The chances in the hands of the growers is rapidly dis-appearing, and will soon be entirely lifted. Prices for good leaf remain firm, white trash, or plantings affected by white vein, sell low. Following are some recent sales of Havana favor the Democracy for the reason that they are always most successful in the Buckeye state in "off" years. New York also elects choose Warner Miller's successor. Cleve-land's state will see to it that he is furnished with an additional bulwark in the chair of the chief executive by Democratic victory. Iowalikewise offers a promising field. There Garfield's plurality of 78,059 in 1880 was changed to a Blaine plurality of 19,796; and a solid Republican congressional delegation in the same time was broken into by the Seed leaf—The market continues dull and dreary. A few small parcels of new tobacco have changed hands. Jobbers are inclined to "look before they leap," and it is doubtful if the new tobacco will be purchased in as large lots as in previous years. A Water street jobber said to us a day or two since:—"I am not going to buy any of the new tobacco until I see my way clear to sell it. In previous years I have bought packings of several hundred cases at so much through, and have taken my chances. Sometimes I would make, and then again I would lose, but it is a 'hand in the bag' business, and this year I am going to buy the new tobacco as I need it." This is all very fine in its way, but will packers sell piecenseal at the same rates that they sell whole packings? It is to be presumed not. If they dispose of their tobacco in a jobbing way they will charge jobbers' prices undoubtedly. A good quantity of 1881 Pennsylvanis was taken; in fact, more of it was sold then of any one particular kind and growth. It is in a fair way to redeem its good name, and if the stock of it holds out will probaby do so.

Spatish—Havana fillers have been taken to be extent of 300 bales, at from 68 to $1.15. The market remains quiet and a steady running trade is being done. Sumatra—200 bales were disposed of at from $1.13 to $1.60. Business was rather improved this week. Considerable was sold to a Western buyer, some placing the number of bales taken by him at 130. Fine dark goods are wanted, and this class of Sumatra is becoming very scarce. Prices ruled high, very little being sold for less than $1.40, and some as high as $1.68.

Plug—The demand for this variety of tobacco has been fair, though not as brisk as it ought to be at this season of the year. The exports were 129,747 pounds.

Smoking—For smoking tobacco there has been rather more inquiry the past week, and sales of some magnitude are reported.

Cigars—Both manufacturers and importers appointed by the because of single prices.

Cigars-Both manufacturers and importers announce slightly increased activity.

From the U. S. Tobacco Journal we learn that "the monotony of the market was broken this week by numerous inquiries from abroad as to '81 tobaccos. It seems that the tobacco crops of Germany have proved a failure, and that substitutes must be had. The inquiries that substitutes must be had. The inquiries came principally from England and Germany. The effect here has been increased activity in the purchases of new, especially low grades of tobacco in the growers' district. In Pennsylvania, the prices of such grades being especially low, purchases are now being made with energy and haste. Our '84 Havana seeds, are to a great extent, better tobaccos than we have had for years. The absence of such tobaccos caused a larger demand and consumption of Sumatra than would have otherwise occurred. It, therefore, stands to reason that this country will not demand and consumption of Sumatra than would have otherwise occurred. It, therefore, stands to reason that this country will not use more Sumatra this year than it did last year. There having been raised about 35,000 bales of Sumatra in excess of the previous year, the influence of this can only tend to a downward move in prices and force importers and manufacturers to purchase leisurely and cautiously. Our leaf market may fairly be divided into two factions. One is the packers of '84 Pennsylvania. In former years packers of leaf divided their finances among various crops. This year they have in the main, so to say, placed their eggs in one basket; and as finances in general have met with modification and contractions from the several years of depression in trade and values, an extended spread in that direction cannot be indulged in exactly with ease and comfort. So then each of these factions is blowing its own instrument, and often the arguments and altercations in this direction are, if not altogether elevating and instructive, very amusing indeed. Especially edifying are the antics of the Pennsylvania packers. Nearly every one is emphatic in the statement that there is very little fine and veinless tobacco in the crop, but of the little there is, he has been fortunate enough to secure a little. May all this be as it is, the fact cannot be disputed that there has been tobacco raised last year that is unusually fine, adapted to form, if not a strong, at least a balancing competitor to Sumatra. The transactions in old tobaccos were of a routine character, aggregating about 1,505 cases at former figures. Binders continue to be the favorite article of inquiry with manufacturers.

D. H. MOFPAT, who is president of the First National bank of Denver, an institution whose deposits are over $3,000,000, was approached by Ferdinand Ward about a year ago, with a request for a loan based on promises of enormous profits. Mr Moffat in speaking of it the other day said: "Ward wanted $100,000, and said he could make for me $50,000 on it in sixty days. I told him I didn't know why he should be so good to me; that I had never done anything for him. I guess he understood me, for he went off. The Genuine Tar-Heel Kiss. From the Wilson (N. C.) They had just been made man and wife, and their souls must meet and "swap a swap" of lablal endearment. And now, how can we describe that osculatory performance? It was not a spasmodic kiss, like a stopper flying out of a champagne bottle; or a suctionary kiss, like a cow pulling her foot out of the mire; neither was it one of those long lingering, languishing kisses, which lovers give when hid by clustering vines from the glance of the moonbeams. It is true but few first-class leafy wrappers are to be found, and those are held at high figures. As a result, Sumatra, on account of its yielding qualities, is bought, or manufacturers await the issue of the crop of 1884. For old leaf the price is usually low, while the quality of a great deal is very line.

At Baldwinsville, N. Y., there has been a small boom, some 600 cases of old tobacco having been sold at private prices. For new tobacco the highest prices paid is 12 cents; the lowest 5 cents; so that the market can be said to range between 5 and 12 cents; the highest price being paid only for the choicest lots, the majority of the purchases being made, however, for from 7 to 10 cents.

The Wisconsin market is practically closed and packed. Little has yet been done towards preparing seed beds, on account of the cold weather that has prevailed.

A correspondent of the Tobacco Journal says: "It is only a question of time before it will be seen, that the East cannot compete with the West in the cultivation of "seed leaf" tobacco, and there is no doubt but Southern Wisconsin, Northern Illinois, and the middle and western portion of Jowa have the best soil and climate of any other states in the United States for producing seed leaf, especially the Spanish variety. Their greatest advantages over the Eastern states lies in their soil, which is unexceptionally good, being a rich dark loam, and is not so affected by drouth as the clayey and sandy soil of the East, and let me say right here, that a fruitful cause of white vein is a check in the growth of the plant, and not only this but poor colors, and a lack of silky texture found in steady growth, and it is very seldom the above mentioned states have this to contend with—as their soil will stand A GREAT SUCCESS,

They need no bone dust, plasters, guano-beds, or other fertilizing to enrich their land as they have thousands of acres, rich enough in its natural state. Manufacturers never complain about Western tobacco burning poor, but they complain of the handling and not without cause. As most Western growers are poor handlers, being neither skillful nor painstaking. The most they think of is pounds and price. This they are learning, for every year shows them the need of more careful handling. There has been a noticeable improvement in this respect in the last three years, while the prices paid this season will stimulate them to more careful handling than in former seasons.
