AN APRIL SONG.

Sing a song of April, sing—
April is the Baby Spring!—
Crying, pouting,—see him frown:
See the tear-drops trickle down
Till his little sister, May,
Tripping up so blithe and gay,
Shakes her daisies in his face,
Fills with sunshine all the place,
Tickles him with rustling grasses,
As she, softly laughing, passes—
Shakes him, saying, "Little brother,
You must now your sobbing smother:
You must brush your tears away.
Come and play, come and play!
Come and dance with sister May.
Chase away the rainy weather:
Come and let us play together!"

—Maria J. Hammond, in St. Nicholas for May.

MR. MACVEAGH'S PERSONAL CHARMS

He Resents the Insinuations of a Blackmailing Lobbyist.

The Washington correspondent of the New York World, having written to that paper about the pictures of the attorneys general which hang in Mr. Garland's office, took occasion to speak severely of the cynical and sardonic face of Mr. Wayne MacVeagh; whereupon he writes this letter to the World:

To the Editor of the World.

I confess to having cherished the vain hope that it would not appear in your columns, but I must admit it has appeared in so many other unexpected quarters that coming across it anywhere ought not longer to surprise me.

I need hardly say that I allude to the familiar Star Route estimate of my physical and mental deformities, with which Mr. Dorsey so frequently adorned his correspondence and Mr. Brady padded his newspapers during the unpleasantness between these eminent statesmen and myself.

The author has always regarded it as his masterpiece, though I really think he did himself equal credit in the traces of his fine Roman hand upon the famous Rerdell affidavit, charging Gen. James and me with subornation of perjury, larceny of books and other trifles of that sort. But even if he is right in regarding the catalogue of my shortcomings as finer artistic work than the affidavit, it is just possible that pride of authorship may lead him to exaggerate the craving of the public for the repetition of it in print.

Indeed, he has become so fascinated with the subject that it pervades all he writes. My homeliness and vices have become to him what Charles I. was to poor Mr. Dick. If he attempts a letter from a pleasure resort he must conclude it by declaring that a man so unattractive and so evil as myself could not hope to be improved by the elevating influences of the mountains or the sea. If he describes a circus he ends with the declaration that the unhappy class to which I belong is unable to enjoy the innocent pleasures of the joke of the clown or the tricks of the trained mule. He once boldly tacked it to a description of a cattle ranch, holding me up in contumelious contrast with the beauty and the virtue of the cowboys.

And he always kindly sends me a marked copy of his effusion. So when this morning's mail brought me a copy of Friday's World, and I saw the fatal lines of ink, I knew what was in store for me. I knew before I read it as well as after that no matter what the subject, he had been compelled to close it with his poor opinion of me. And, alas! this opinion, if possible, more adverse to my appearance than to my character.

Now, as to my character, I have nothing to say. I may not be good, but will not tamely surrender my right to be considered handsome. And so I boldly challenge my tireless pursuer to a comparison on the front page of your next Sunday's edition.

Send him an order for a sitting. Nobody in Washington will now trust the few poor unfortunates who hang upon the skirts of Newspaper Row, and whose blackmailing and lobbying for the Star Route gang brought them to grief; but any photographer will take his likeness on your order. Then reproduce it, and alongside of it, to represent me, you may use any woodcut in your possession or any one you can borrow, with the single exception of the one which the Sun asked a confiding public to accept as a likeness of Mr. Holman. In so delicate a matter as one's personal appearance the line must be drawn somewhere. Then let the 146,852 intelligent readers of the World decide which is the handsomer man. If the decision is against me I will make a modest contribution to your fund for the statue of Liberty. If it is against your correspondent you ought to close your columns to further denials by him of my personal charms.

Sincerely yours, WAYNE MACVEAGH.
PHILADELPHIA, April 25, 1885.

The Electric Light a Preventive of Crime.

From the N. Y. Herald.

The London Electrical Review commends to the authorities in England responsible for the preservation of law and order a recent statement by the police of Hartford to the effect that the electric lights have greatly lessened their labor by diminishing the commission of crimes and offenses. The nocturnal misdeeds in Bushnell park, to quote a single example, have decreased ninety per cent. since the park was electrically lighted, while prowlers bent on mischief find it much more difficult to operate.

The highly important English experiments which have been in progress during the last twelve months at the South Foreland lighthouse show that, with the oil, the gas and the electric lights all at full power under their respective combinations the gas and the oil were lost at ten miles, while the electric was a good light at fourteen and a half miles. The most significant fact is established by these photometric experiments "that the intensity of the electric light is superior in penetration of fog, mist or rain to the larger superficial volume of combustion illuminants." There can be no question, even in the absence of these conclusive data, that the electric light is, with all the defects observed in most installations, an invaluable illuminant for large areas. To serve most effectively as a preventive of crime it should be introduced not so extensively in the great thoroughfares of the city as in the outlying and suburban districts, which have less police protection.

They Must Have Fiction.

From the Altoona Tribune.

The people who would banish all fiction from public libraries and the home in the interest of pure literature are no doubt very honest and sincere folk, but they are the best friends of vile literature. Young people will read stories and if this taste is not recognized and guided into proper channels by parents and guardians it will hew out a way for itself. Most of the readers of vicious literature are the unfortunate boys and girls whose parents refuse to provide them with pure, bright and natural stories with which our language abounds.

HON. ROBERT M. MCLANE, Governor of Maryland, writes:—I have given "Dr. Petzold's German Bitters" a trial and am glad to add my testimony to it, and can cheerfully recommend it as a pure and pleasant Tonic and Appetizer.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

"I never patronize Patent Medicines." Don't you? Why not? You patronize "patent" articles of a hundred varieties—why not patent medicines. "Because they are often worthless." True, but not always. Frequently they are the very best in the world, representing the widest experience. At least we know that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is one of these, and for all troubles of the blood, liver and urinary organs it stands on its merits and not on advertising.

Alternately Shaken and Scorched.

By the paroxysms of chills and fever, the wretched sufferer for whom quinine has been prescribed, essays in vain to exterminate the dreadful disease with that hurtful palliative, which at best only mitigates the violence of the fits, and eventually proves highly injurious to the system. In order to effect a thorough cure of malarial fever, whether intermittent or remittent, or to render the system impregnable to its attacks, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters should be used daily. That this medicine is a searching eradicant of diseases generated by miasma, and a reliable safeguard against them, is a fact so widely recognized in this and other countries that to adduce evidence in support of it is unnecessary; but were it either essential or desirable to do so, it may well be supposed that from the testimony corroborative of its claims, which has been accumulating during the last twenty-five years and over, sufficient proofs might be gathered to convince the most inveterate skeptic. a22c29

CHRONIC COSTIVENESS CURED BY BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

BULLY BUENO MILLS, ARIZONA TER., Jan. 24, 1883.

For the last two years I have been greatly troubled with costiveness, often ten or twelve days elapsing without any movement of my bowels. I have tried many remedies, but none with success, until I used your VEGETABLE PILLS—taking three pills and increasing one each night until I took nine, then decreasing one each night. Since then my bowels have continued regular each day, and my headache, sour stomach and general lassitude have left me, and I feel like another man—which is entirely owing to your pills—and I would not be without them in this new country. Wintry Winds.

Its all right for poets to sing the praises of the beautiful snow, and the merry sleigh bells, and the ringing skates on the glassy ice, but they can't fill the bill with that sort of stuff when one is sitting with his feet in a tub of hot water, his head done up in flannels and with mustard plasters on both sides of his chest. What a person needs then is a thorough dose of Kidney-Wort to act as a cathartic, for nothing will so quickly relieve that congestive, feverish condition which comes of a hard cold. Often these colds cause bilious attacks, lame backs, disordered kidneys, rheumatism, catarrh, etc. Kidney-Wort can be relied on to bring back a healthy condition.

MEDICAL.

DR. KENNEDY'S REMEDY.

$500,000 a Year.

Statement of the American, National and United States and Canada Express Companies, Troy, New York.

The strength of Rome lay not in her multitude, nor in her grain-laden fleets. These were elements of strength, but her never-failing resource lay in the self-control and discipline of Roman soldiers. Discipline—it is the very soul to all the wonderful meaning possessed by the word "veteran." Mr. Benedict, of Troy, is a veteran in the express business. "Thirty-three years," he said to your reporter, "I've stood at this desk." It is the discipline of years of experience which gives him the position he holds in the trust and esteem of these three great corporations. "We have a business of $500,000 a year, and I've been absent from this office hardly a month in all that time, although I must confess that many times I've worked here when suffering great pain, for I have been troubled all my life with biliousness and dyspepsia. My system has become so reduced and weak that I had no appetite, and my digestion wholly disordered. I have tried various remedies, but almost two years ago I happened to hit upon Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. After using only one bottle or so, I began to feel stronger in every way. The great difficulty has been with my digestion, but this seems to regulate it perfectly. I have, sir, great faith in Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. I have bought and given a great deal of it to the poor around here; those, you know, who have no money to buy medicine of any kind, for there are a great many troubled with bilious diseases and suffer on without aid. I always keep FAVORITE REMEDY in the house. I consider it the best medicine for the blood in the market. Well, I must attend to this matter for the western part of the city. Say, you tell the Doctor I am coming down to Rondout to see him in August. I want to know him." I left the veteran, still at his post, rejoicing in health and grateful to Dr. Kennedy.
