In going carough the raft shute at the dam the raft dove and before it arighted liself it struck with sufficient force to throw the party of their feet, and into the water which poured over the raft. None were injured, not all were wet. The pilot and his men had the greatest difficulty in controlling the ratt, and preventing its staving on Goat Rock, an accident, which had it happened, would have had a fatal ending. Luckily the dangerous point was rounded in safety, and no further matshap occurred during the remainder of the trip to Port Deposit.

Violent Wind Storm.

Violent Wind Storm. torrible wind storm passed over Columbia last night and this morning. Shutters weretorn from their fastenings, window panes broken, chimneys and huge limbs of trees blown down, etc. The opera house clock was injured and stopped running at a minute to seven. Boats along the river were dashed on shore by the furious waves and received considerable damage. Shad fishing had to be suspended for the time being, and not a single successful haul has been made since last evening. This is a great loss to the fishermen who would have made a big catch from the large school of shad which is now in the vicinity of the dam and fish batteries. It was and is unsafe to walk the streets, for besides having one's eyes filled with dust, falling bricks, shutters, etc., endanger one's life. The wind remains high, but it is slowly abating. last night and this morning. Shutters

Among the Churches. Father J. J. Russel, who gave up his charge pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, of lumbia, and accepted a call from Centralia, Pa, is in town well and hearty. Since leaving Columbia his only illness has been a stupid attack of malaria, credited to the change of climate.

An Armenian missionary will lecture in the E. E. Lutharan church this evening, on the habits and the changed, but a collection will be taken to defray his expenses.

Three Remarkable Railroad Travelers.

Three sisters, whose aggregate ages cover
234 years, alighted from the Columbia accommodation train last evening. They were Mrs Justin Gray, aged 76 years; Mrs. Rebecca Rumple, aged 78 years, and Mrs. Hogendobler, aged 80 years. They had been visiting in Marietta. Town Notes.
