The Lancaster Intelligencer.

LANCASTER, MAY 5, 1885.

The Virtue in Slowness. The Cincinnati Enquirer and the Louisville Courier-Journal have given expression to very opposite views of President Cl and's policy in regard to the federal offices. The first condemns while the latter approves. Mr. Watterson of the Journal writes from Washington, whither he has repaired that he may see just how the cat is jumping; and he finds it to be jumping all right; albeit somewhat slowly; but alowness, he proceeds to explain, is a very good thing in the premises, as it gives opportunity to avoid mistakes. The Enquirer on the other hand thinks that the broth may be spoiled entirely by long cooking, and it agrees with Senator Eustis that the Democratic party will not stand much more of it. Since Editor Watterson finds, as the result of his investigation at Washington, that we have a Democratic administration, it is clear that what the Democracy will not stand the administration cannot afford

But the Democracy will have a great deal of patience with President Cleveland so long as they see the results of his work to be good. They are not troubled so much by the slowness with which his removals and appointments are made as by the fact that some of his selections for office have not been at all good. But as Mr. Watterson, or somebody else.

suggests, and as is obvious to any understanding, mistakes will be made in the best regulated household; and in a change of political administration, which involves the necessity of examining into the conduct of every office, and the fitness of the applicants for every commistakes are par-ticularly asily forgiveable if they are not too many and flagrant. The errors so far have been in Secretary Bayard's selections, and they show that even a very able man may not take suddenly upon himself administrative duties, without being often tripped up in his early essays at government. Secretary Bayard's confidence has been abused by men in whose judgment and recommendation he had good cause to rely; but if he had had more experience as a secretary, he would not so readily have fallen a victim to the confidence game. He would have known that the public officer needs to act on knowledge and may not rely on faith.

If the president's deliberation in removals and appointments is going to keep him from mistakes in them, he is very wise to make haste slowly; and seeing how his secretary has been deceived by the representations of the friends of applicants for place, he perhaps haz become doubly cautions and determined to know just what he is doing before he does it. There are a great many Democrats in the country fit to adorn its official positions; and there are a great many unfit; and the fittest are not always most conspicuous. The president has shown himself to be fully cognizant of this, and the politicians who have thought they had but to ask to have, have found themselves mistaken, and are greatly disgruntled thereat. Fitness needs to go with political service to make the latter a proper recommendation to office; and fitness is far the most important requisite of the two. If the president will find fit officers when he finds them, we can well afford to give him his time to do it; and the people will not complain of his slowness, in sight of his success; nor will the politicians, for they dare not. They must dance to the music.

A "Great Corporation's" Servant.

Whether he so intended it or not, the most significant and forcible part of Senator Lee's fruitful and eloquent address to our agricultural and horticultural society, at its May meeting, was that which related to the freight discrimination abuses of the railroads and the interest that farmers have in the subject. As one of the representatives of the commonwealth in its highest assembly, speaking to the representatives of a great material interest, this theme was an entirely appropriate one; and the fitness of it gained rather than lost, from the fact that Lancaster county's own two senators and six representatives in the legislature have been faithless to their constituents, faithless to their public duty and faithless to their constitutional oath in their attitude to this question. It was very fortunate for Senator Lee and his side of the discussion that one of these representatives, W. H. Brosius, was present to hear what was said, to essay his own defense and to perceive the sentiment of his fellow-members on this subject. He represents essentially an agricultural community, affected in no slight degree by freight discriminations, and he was elected by the liberal support of the class of citizens who heard the discussion between Lee and Brosius. He confessed his own lack of fidelity to their interests when he manifested such apprehension lest he might be suspected of casting a vote "to injure the interests of this great corporation," which has been so regardless of the interests of his constituents and of the commonwealth. Nobody who knows Assemblyman Brosius, in his present political association's, will doubt for an instant that in an issue between "this great corporation" and the constitution, the commonwealth and his constituents, Brosius will be for "this great corporation." His apology is worse than his offense. He simply repeats with faltering tongue the clap-trap that all the obedent legislative servants of "this great corporation" have been taught to prattle, for Brosius, his constituents and the public generally have had great enlightenment on this subject of late. More than ten years ago the Intelligences, almost single-handed among the journals of this state, began the contest for the enforcement of the constitution, which governs all else within the commonwealth's borders, against even "this great corporation" which has repodiated its authority and set at naugh its mandate. Since then we have seev press and people come to our position, until some of the most influential journals of the state lead the fight, and few of them raise their voices on the other side. Even the farmers of Lancaster county have come to realize that it is the local freights of Pennsylvania which have made "this great corporation" what it is : and that it has ridden rough-shod over the very interests which have been the sources of all its wealth and prosperity. The men who girded at Brosius in the farmers' meeting have been reading and observing and thinking, and if they have not been regardful of the fundamental law, they have at least been regardful of their interests, which lie in fair rates and against unjust and unconstitutional disriminations. Having battled for the right and the law all these years, this journal gladly welcomes converts and allies. The issue of the enforcement of the constitution cannot be much longer delayed. If the Republican party shall this year nominate for its state ticket either of the candidates now struggling for the prize, it will invite the combat. Mr. Quay and Mr. Magee, whatever their present differences, have always been the nimble servants and the trusted agents of "this great corporation" in lassoing for its service the innocents like Brosius whom a confiding constituency send to Harrisburg, only to betray their interests.

Go away from home to hear the news.

Ir is disclaimed that Russia has design upon English supremacy in India, and very good ground for this would be supplied in the argument adduced were any other government in the matter than Russia. The size of India is equal to three-quarters of that of Russia and Europe; its population amounts to 253,000,000; its debt which would have to be assumed by Russia in case of annexation, is over $860,000,000, about one-third of that of Russia itself. Although its commerce amounts to a large sum-$260,000,000 of im ports, $417,000,000 of exports—yet as most of this is with England it would probably continue in the same route, it could not at once be changed and go into the hands of Russia by the annihilation of British power in India, nor indeed could Russia factories supply the needs of the Indian market. These are tre mendous responsibilities, it is certain, and any country might well hesitate to assume them. It is a question if England has in the long run profited from them. But to the Russian, bigness is everything. He has great may even take in India.

THE New Era's young man makes a rather prolix and not very novel defense of Abe Buzzard. At all of them the business of packing is being vigorously pushed to prevent the tobacco from being injured by heating in bulk.

The crop of '81 continues to attract buyers, who yisit all parts of the country where desirable goods are to be had; and although there is no increase in prices offered there is symptons of a decline notwithstanding the fact that a very large proportion of the best crops have been bought, and there is not now in the hands of the growers one-fourth of the 34 planting.

From an extensive tour through the lower part of this county as well as a large portion of York, we find the tobacco very nearly all sold; the crops that are left are very few, and only are unsold because they are not stripped. The acreage will be very much decreased for the next season, indeed, many farmers will plant none. Plants are very backward. Following are recent sales reported by our Western Leaf—The week and the month closes with moderate sales. Particulars will be given in our next issue. All the local buyers are doing something here, and some of them something in the West. It was hoped that Spanish favor would be visible in the market this week, but so far as reported it is still among the good things to come.

Seed Leaf—The market has shown a slight improvement this week over the previous one. The new tobacco is beginning to move, and although it fails to bring the prices paid last year for new goods, packers are quite sure of receiving a fair return on their investments. One lot of 342 cases of Wisconsin sold brought in the neighborhood of 25 cents. Last year Wisconsu tobacco was sold for 30 and 32 cents, but that was during a short-lived boom, and the prices paid the farmers for that crop were more than the prices paid this year, hence the 5 and 7 cents less received this year does not come wholly from the packer's profits. It is claimed for the new Wisgonsin that four pounds of it will wrap one thousand cigars, and a black eye for Sumatra is predicted in consequence. Of course these claims are likely to be drawn rather fine, but if it will come any way near doing that, holders of it have reason to feel happy, and will no doubt reap a rich reward for their work. Eulogies of the new Pennsylvania continue to be made with more or less effect. Large holders of the different crops show no abatement in their determination to uphold the good name of the tobacco they possess. Very little old tobacco remains for export. Exporters cannot afford to pay more than 8 cents, and it is difficult to find any one who is willing to part with exportable tobacco at that figure.

Spanish—Havana fillers have been sold to the extent of 200 bales at from 62c. to $1.10. The market continues steady, with a general stiffening of prices. Some fine Vueltas were sold to an out-of-town party. That the 1885 crop will yield a very small quantity of fillers, suitable for this market is no longer doubted. The prospect f Sumstra—ijs hales were taken at from $1.10 to $1.00. The usual amount of business was transacted. Transactions are necessarily limited, as the stock of desirable goods here is amail. Samples of the new goods purchased at the first Amsterdam sale are being inspected by dealers. The second Amsterdam auction sale, which is to take place next Wednesday, is looked forward to with interest. "Smoking—Trade fair, with an increased interior demand for all grades.

Cigars—Increased inquiry reported.

QUESTION ABOUT

Brown's Iron Bitters ANSWERED

The question has probably been asked thousands of times, "How can Brown's Iron Bitters cure everything?" Well, it doesn't. But it doesn't everything? The properties of the profession, and inquiry of any leading cheralcal firm will substantiate the assertion that there are more preparations of fron than of any other substance used in medicine. This shows conclusively that fron is acknowledged to be the most important factor in successful medical practice. It is, however, a remarkable fact, that prior to the discovery of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS no perfectly satisfactory fron combination Brown's fron Bitters do. Brown's fron embination Brown's fron Bitters do. Brown's fron medicine—all other fron Bitters do. Brown's fron Bitters cure indigestion, Billousness, Weakness, Dyspepsia, Maiaria, Chills and Fevers, Tired Feeling, General Debility, Pain in the Side, Back or Limbs, Headache and Neuralgin—for all these attments aminute. Like all other thorough medicines, it acts slowly. When taken by men the first symtom of benefit is renewed energy. The muscle then become firmer, the digestion improves, the bowels are notive. In somen the effect is generally more rapid and marked. The eyes begin at once to brighten; the skin clears up; healthy color comes to the cheek; nervousness disappears; functional derangements become regular and if a nursing mother, abundant sustenance is supplied for the child. Remember, Brown's from Bitters is the ONLY fron medicine that is not injurious. Physicians and Druggitts recommend it. The Genuine has Trade Mark and crossed red these on wrapper. TAKE No
