LANCASTER, MAY 13, 1885.

Who Slew the Bill.

The anti-discrimination bill failed to receive a majority of all the votes in the House, the yeas being eighty-eight and the nays eighty-seven, with twenty-six not voting. Philadelphia and Allegheny voted nearly solidly against it, only six votes in the affirmative coming from the former and two from the latter.

It is a clear exposition of the fact that the influence of the greatest railroad of the state is the president of the measure, which the committee personally before the legislature. The legislators along the line of the road believed that the measure was one against the interest of the Pennsylvania railroad, and like the Drummer Solomon of our county, they were ready to strike anything rather than that corporation.

Another piece of monumental folly, the indigent soldier's monument bill, joins the bygone law on the statute books of the Commonwealth. At the yearly meeting of Friends in Philadelphia, a few days ago, most important alteration of discipline was determined upon. It was the modification of the rules in relation to the marriage between Friends and non-members. Under the rules now in force permission must be granted by the meeting before such a marriage can be solemnized, or the offender can be expelled.

MR. DAVID DUDLEY FIELD is doing a good work in calling attention to the foolishness as well as expense of superfluous words. He not only saves a cost for adoption by the New York legislature which was to do away with superfluous words in legal documents. But the measure seemed too visionary to the legislators and was defeated.

A REMARKABLE suit is now in progress in Erie, being a claim on the part of a lawyer named Rosenzweig for $100,000 damages sustained by being ejected from a train on the Lake Shore railway. With supreme corporate impudence the railway's counsel moved the court for an order to chloroform the plaintiff, that experimental tests might be made on his head.

As to Allegheny county there may be the question raised, whether its merchants do not make more than they lose by railroad discriminations. Pittsburg has a very commanding commercial situation and is able often to bring its railroads to their knees. It has a great trade to be catered to and many rival railroads to serve it, beside water navigation to the utmost parts of the land with which to keep them in check.

THIEVES and suicides seem to be now doing a large part of the running of this glorious county. The House of Representatives has a lively time on Monday with the bill to prohibit the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine, owing to the offering of an amendment by Snodgrass that compensation be made out of a state treasury to all persons who own real estate in Allegheny which has been occupied and used for the manufacture and sale of such article or substance previous to the passage of this act which may be reduced in value by the reason of the destruction of their business. Faunce and Crawford thought it unwise to write out a business without reimbursing those engaged in it. Crawford declared that farmers of Bucks, Montgomery and Delaware counties bought butter oil at the oleomargarine factory to adulterate the butter they sold in Philadelphia. This butter they pronounced good. The House protected the butter dealers by inserting in the prohibitory amendment a clause reimbursing clause. The makers of oleomargarine should receive similar protection. Several other members showed that this species of butter contained very valuable ingredients. The compensating amendment was defeated and the bill passed finally by a large majority.

An Excellent Appointment.

The appointment of Mr. Robert E. James, of Easton, to the important office of national bank examiner in this state, following that of Mr. Ed. A. Bigler, for internal revenue collector, like Mr. Bigler's, is one that will commend itself to the approval of the Democracy of Pennsylvania.

There are many views of it, in which it will commend this approbation. Mr. James is a gentleman of high character, of first-class ability, of unquestioned integrity and of unflinching and well-ried Democracy.

In the House of Representatives, when his party was in a majority and when in a minority, he was among its leaders there; as district attorney of Northampton county and in a general law practice he has proved his ability; as a member of several state conventions and presiding officer of that of 1884, by eloquent and effective service on the stump and in the party councils he has long series of campaigns, he has proved a long party loyalty.

He belongs to the younger Democracy of the state, but there is no intelligent member of the party who will question his deserts; he is a member of no faction and is no man's man, but he has independence and manliness commensurate with his intelligence and integrity.

It will be much colder than it is now when the railroads will not own the present state legislature.

The Emerald Beneficial association of Pennsylvania, now in session in Philadelphia would command respect by the number and intelligence of the delegates from the different branches of the Union that are present, apart from the most interesting and that it has done in its brief career. It has exclusively Catholic in membership, it has directed itself to the making of its members good citizens of the republic, and to the proving that loyalty to the church is no hindrance to good citizenship. The state association was organized in Reading in 1863. It now has one hundred and seven branches, being a gain of twenty-two in the last two years.

IN BOSTON TOWN.

WHAT A LANCASTERIAN NOTED IN THE HUB CITY OF THE UNIVERSE.

Cracked streets that lead upon the famous Boston Common—Vistas to the Banker Hill Monument—the Old South Church—Some Other Historic Points.

Special Correspondence of the INTELLIGENCER. BOSTON, May 7.—It is no wonder that the average Bostonian feels an inordinate pride in his city, for there is good reason for the faith that is in him. Not all the ridicule that is poured at the Hub, its alleged fondness for "culchaw" and baked beans can conceal the reality that it is the most interesting and perhaps the most beautiful of American cities. This is true despite the fact that there is little of the picturesque in Boston's surroundings. A common-place country stretch to the west and north, dotted here and there by little villages, and the entrance to the city from the north by the Old Colony road reveals a great tract of swamp land that is far removed from beautiful.

And yet when the tourist penetrates the rough shell, he discovers an enjoyable kernel within. It may be that Boston derives its chief attractiveness from its prominence as the scene of the first organized resistance to the British crown in the dark days of 1775. However it be, the visitor finds himself wandering through its crooked streets with perfect good nature, though it would require the thread of an Ariadne to lead the modern tourist out of this labyrinth after he is once fairly within. But what matter of the crooked thoroughfares when they nearly all lead upon that world-famous public park, the Boston Common.

THE BOSTON COMMON. This, to the tourist from the Middle States, is one of the most striking features of Boston. Picture to yourself an immense park in Philadelphia, the center of which would be the present site of the public buildings; or a great tract of cultivated land in New York City, the central point of which would be the corner of Broadway and Fourteenth street. Yet in the heart of Boston, where great business streets all leading into it, either directly or remotely, is a splendid park of some two hundred acres, in a state of cultivation. Elms that are more than a century old line the close-trimmed grassy banks of artificial lakes; and broad steam-rolled drives, as well as walks, may traverse the park in every direction. Monuments and fountains are scattered through it with a tasteful propriety. The surface is covered with winter still lingering in the lap of spring. It was not until 1631, when the Common was first laid out, there was place in the city charter a clause that made it the property of the city, which they are constituted, when the result is the consequence of impoverishment of the blood, resulting from imperfect digestion and assimilation of food. The system by which the functions of the stomach, the circulation and gives tone and regularity to the nutritive and excretory organs.

MADEIRA AND SHERRY WINES.—Reigart's Old Wine Store. H. E. SLAYMAKER, AGENT. Established 1868. No. 20 EAST KING ST. 1867.

CHAMPAGNE. BOUCHE "SEC." THE FINEST CHAMPAGNE WINE NOW AT REIGART'S OLD WINE STORE. No. 20 EAST KING STREET. H. E. SLAYMAKER, AGENT. Established 1868.

The emperor has conferred upon her the honorary title of "Imperial Chamber Singer," a distinction shared by only three other females in the world.

THE MAHARAJAH DULEEP SINGH has resolved to leave England, and he is, therefore, proposing to sell his famous sporting estate of Epsom, in Norfolk. The property extends to some 17,000 acres, of which two-thirds are occupied by the owner's game farms. The shooting on this estate has always been very good. In one season 9,000 partridges were shot, also 8,400 partridges, 2,000 hares, and 70,000 rabbits.

Measles in Town. Malaria cases sneaked up through the poorly constructed drains and made baby wet with malarial fever. Baby would have died but for timely use of Brown's Iron Bitters. There is nothing sweeter in the world than the water in its effects, than this malaria from the under-ground regions. Mrs. Melchior, of No. 1115 York, Conn., says, "For six years I suffered from the effects of malaria, but Brown's Iron Bitters cured me entirely. Try it when a headache in and under your constitution. It will give relief."

Unanimous Cabinet Decision. The best Cabinet in England, and all the notable connoisseurs of the world in America, have unanimously decided that Dr. J. C. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is the most perfect and reliable of all the blood-purifiers. While the great chemists certify to its entire purity and the most prominent and successful physicians universally recommend it as a sure preventive of cholera, typhoid, dysentery, typhoid, fever, diphtheria, and the current disorders incident to trying climatic changes. No well-regulated family should be without a supply in the house. Any reliable grocer or druggist will furnish it for $1 a bottle.

Queer reading would be the history of names. We cannot, however, go into the subject now, except so far as to say that Dr. Kennedy's favorite medicine was called by that name, in the English language, when the great chemist dreamed of advertising it for public use. Speaking of it he would say to his patients, "This is the blood-purifier, and its success was so great that he finally spelled the name with capital letters." (2) MYL-HUDOCK W.

House wives, shop girls and sales women all suffer more or less from Weak Back and Stomach Troubles. Superior to all others because they act instant relief. A famous strengthener, 25 cents, druggists.

A Tranquil Nervous System Can never be possessed by those whose digestive and nutritive organs are in a state of chronic disorder. Weak stomachs make weak nerves. To restore vigor and quietude to the nerves, as well as to invigorate and regulate the ordinary functions of the system, the nerves for a while, but they can never, like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, remove the causes of nervous prostration, and thus give a permanent and corrective of disordered conditions of the alimentary organs, has also the effect of imparting vitality to the nerves. The delicate tissues of which they are constituted, when they are the consequence of impoverishment of the blood, resulting from imperfect digestion and assimilation of food.
