A Poor Game of Ball, About as poor an exhibition of ball playing was ever given in Columbia was that of surday afternoon, when the Keystones, of , succeeded in defeating the Colum bis by a score of 10 to 8. After considerable hangling game was called at 3:40, with the visitors at the bat. They were blanked. The Columbia boys made one run in their half of the mning, as did also the Keystones in the second. The Columbias were then treated to a goose egg. This ended what might have been a good game of ball. The Columbia catcher, Hamaker, was struck over the right hand by a batsman, and was compelled to leave the field. Puff was substituted, but could do nothing with Caswell's delivery. The game lasted nearly two hours and a half. is by a score of 10 to 8. After considerable

THE P. R. R'S NEW LINE.

The Difficult and Expensive Section of Messr Keller & Bush, of This City. From the Reading Times.

Next to McFadden's contract between Hamburg and Port Clinton, the most difficult and expensive section on the P. S. V. is the two mile stretch between the Five-locks and Shoemakersville, under contract by Keller & Bush, contractors, of Lancaster. The section extends from about haif a mile above Shoemakersville to the lower end of McFadden's con-half a mile above Shoemakersville to the lower end of McFadden's contract, which commences about 300 yards below the locks. Along the entire section there are numerous cuts, and at some places extensive filling will be required. The deepest cut, 42 feet deep and about 500 feet long, is almost directly opposite Bern station, on the farm of Benjamin Weidman. On both sides of this cut the men have already worked in about 20 yards, extensive blasting being necessary to loosen the solid rock, sometimes over 600 pounds of powder being used.

Work on the contract is being pushed very setively there being no less than 150 men employed, divided into ten gangs. In some of the gangs six nationalities are represented—Americans, Hungarians, Italians, negroes, Irish and Swedes. The negroes seem to be a happy, contented lot, which is in striking contrast to the Hungarians who work without any life, and as a rule they are surly and boorish in their manners. Work below Weidman's farm is not being pushed as energetically as intended, on account of a dispute with the Schuylkill navigation company as to the right of way along the east bank of the canal. Owing to the dispute the P. S. V. R. R. engineers have surveyed another line, the road running 15 feet further away from the canal bank than the original survey. Thus far twelve buildings have been put along this section, six shanties, blacksmith shop, store houses, stable and three, smaller buildings. In front of the Hungarians' shanty a large oven has been thrown up, made of stones and banked up with earth. Keller & Bush expect to finish their contract inside of nine months, and it is believed that the road will be in working operation as far as Hamburg by next January.

To Look After Dead Soldiers A joint committee of George H. Thomas and Admiral Reynolds Posts of the Grand Army of the Republic called upon the county commissioners this morning. Hon, James P. Wickersham was their spokesman and he P. Wickersham was their spokesman and he stated that the bill passed by the legislature of Pennsylvania in reference to the burial of indigent soldiers of the late war, provided for the appointment by the county commissioners of suitable persons to report cases and see that the provisions of the act are enforced. He asked, on behalf of the posts of this city, that they be allowed to name the persons to be appointed. The county commissioners agreed to allow them to do so, and the appointments will be made next Monday.

Parmer Derr's Suppleness Falling Him.
On Whit Monday of last year Natham
Derr, an old farmer residing in Centre Valley, Lehigh county, performed the extraordinary feat of running from his home to Allentown in fifty-eight minutes. Some time ago Mr. Derr expressed his intention of going over the same performance on Ascension day and, if possible, make the distance, which is seven milies, in less time than last year. In fulfillment of his promise Mr.
Derr started from a hotel at Centre Valley on Thursday morning and in forty-five minutes he crossed the Little Lehigh bridge near Schurman's mill site, in Salisbury. Although nearly 60 years of age Mr. Derr did not seem much fatigued after his long run. Mr. Derr weighs 175 pounds and says he will not repeat the performance on the ground that it pays too poorly. ner Derr's Suppleness Failing Him

THE ROLL OF THE DEAD.

David Killinger, of This City, and Mrs. Anna Landis, Mother of Israel L. Landis. David Killinger, butcher, died suddenly at his residence No. 113 East King street, Sunday night at 11 o'clock, in the 72d year of his age. He had been in failing health for four or five months past, the result of a for four or five months past, the result of a bad cold taken early last winter and which badly affected his lungs. He was not con-fined to his room, however, being able to attend to his business up to Saturday. Even fined to his room, however, being able to attend to his business up to Saturday. Even on Sunday he was about the house as usual, and did not take his bed until 7 o'clock in the evening. Being unable to rest he arose again at 10, but was soon afterwards attacked with difficulty of breathing and being put to bed again died within an hour.

Mr. Killinger, was a native of Lancaster, and for forty-one years occupied the house in which he died. Prior to that he owned a fine farm on the Harrisburg turnpike four miles west of this city. About thirty years ago he bought Hardwicke, a fine country seat on the Conestoga a short distance east of this city, but his family after having lived there for a few years returned to their old home in this city. Before and during the war Mr. Killinger did an extensive trade in droving in connection with his butchering business, spending a considerable part of his time in the West, but for many years past his business has been principally confined to this county. He was upright and honorable in all his dealings and held in high esteem by all who knew him. He was a lifelong member of Trinity Lutheran church and regularly attended its services. He leaves a wife, two sons and a daughter, all married and well-known in this city—his daughter being the wife of Amos McCartney, of California. His funeral will take place Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Woodward Hill cemetery.

She was a piou Christian, a communicant of the Reformed church, a good wife and mother, and a kind church, a good wife and mother, and a kind neighbor. She leaves three sons, Capt. Samuel Nixdorf, late of the 79th Pa. Vols., and Frederick and John Nixdorf, all well-known residents of this city. Her only daughter is the wife of George Musser, harness-maker. Her funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Lancaster cemetery.

Ruining a Pastor's Influence. From the Standard of the Cross.

One person—male or female—in a congregation, can weaken a pastor's influence, and finally disrupt the pastoral relation, by persevering and deprecatory criticism. No minister can stand long with a foe or two of this kind in his congregation ; for no man is perfect, and when there is some one to direct the attention of his audience habitually to his defects, he certainly will fail, sooner or later. Unfortunately, in almost every parlater. Unfortunately, in almost every parish, there is some one person who is credited with "bossing the rector." Just keep up the cry, "Oh, yes; he is a good man enough, but he is not as good a preacher as I have heard." Speak it ever so tenderly and lovingly, and that minister is doomed! When he hears it—as he certainly will—let him pack up his grip-sack and flee to the mountains, or—somewhere else—for the storm is near at hand!

A plain, earnest preacher once entered the pulpit of a fashionable church, in which the hearers were supposed to exhort the minister to help them heavenward directly. The to help them heavenward directly. The preacher went right on, as was his duty, telling the people, not exactly rhetorically, but strictly, according to the Holy Bible, that they were sinners against God and in danger of hell. In the audience were a man and his wife—he irreligious, she a professor of reli-gion. No sooner had they reached the pave-ment, at the close of the service, than she began a heartless criticism of the preacher and his sermon—how he was rough, unre-fined, and lacked all the requisites which make the orator—the train of remark was kept until it became noticeable that her hus-band made no reply. She turned and looked nto his face. He was weeping—a convicted sinner.

Let parents beware what they say about the sermon or the preacher before their chil-dren, in whose hearts the Word of God may be seeking a lodgment. Why pray in the morning for the conversion of sinners, and then, by cold criticism of the sermon, neu-tralize the very means by which it pleases God to save? Thoughtless comments at the dinner-table will do this far more effectually than all the profanity the children hear as they pass the drinking saloons on their way to school. Parents, beware!

Don Cameron Sells His Washington Home. Mr. D. P. Morgan, of New York, has purchased the elegantly furnished residence of Senator Don Cameron, in Washington, paying for it $95,000 cash. Senator Cameron asked $106,000 for the property, but finally accepted Mr. Morgan's offer. He never liked the house, though he built it to his own tastes. He found that he had built his house too large and was dissatisfied with it from the time he first moved into it. There was a time he first moved into it. There was a quartet of houses built in the immediate locality of the Cameron house, facing Scott circle. They were all built at the same time. All of them have failed to please their owners. Mr. Windom, who was secretary of the treasury at the time, built the house opposite Senator Cameron's. He lived in it but a short time. For the past season it has been occupied by Mr. Blaine, who leased his own new house at Dupont circle. Minister Pendleton, then a senator from Ohio, built another. He has since sold it. Mr. Robeson built a short distance to the north of Senator Pendleton. His house is understood to be for sale.

Six hundred and fifty conveyances and 2,500 persons attended the funeral of Farmer Jacob Bomberger, a mile north of Lititz, on Sunday. He was buried on his own farm.
