LANCASTER, PA., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 10, 1885.

GLADSTONE GOES UNDER.

THE DEFEAT OF THE BUDGET MORE THAN HE COULD STAND.

The Cabinet to Submit a Com the Queen, the Result of Which Cannot Be Known for a Few Days-The Forecast of a New Ministry Already Made.

Gladstone and the members of his cabinet have sent their resignations to the queen. A cabinet council was convened at noon and the subject discussed was the proper line of conduct to pursue in view of the deteat of the government in the House of Commons Tuesday night. All the members of the cabinet were present. The public manifested great interest to learn the result. Great surprise was pretty generally expressed at the defeat. It was expected that an effort would be made Tuesday night to prevent the proposed in crease of duties on beer and spirits, but there was no idea that the opposition would over turn the cabinet. Men of all parties seemed turn the cabinet. Men of all parties seemed to be of the opinion that the government should at least remain provisionally until after the general elections. The cabinet was in session for over an hour. Then it was learned that its members had decided that it would be incensistent to remain in office longer and had resolved to tender their resig-nations to the queen. The report of this de-cision caused a feverish feeling on the stock exchange and consols dropped 3-16, while exchange and consols dropped 3-16, while Russian securities were ½ lower. On all the financial exchanges the weak feeling in financial circles was more marked.

ANNOUNCING THE RESIGNATIONS.

The attendance at prayers at the opening of the House of Commons Tuesday alternoon was unusually large. The report that the ministry had designed had been circulated pretty thoroughly throughout the metropolis, and great crowds of people surrounded all the entrances to the Parliament buildings, caser to catch a glimpse of the ministers when they should enter. The members of the House of Commons stood about in the lobbies and eagerly discussed the situation. Nr. Gladstone entered a few minutes after four o'clock. His appearance was that of a firm man perfectly undisturbed. He at once proceeded to the speaker's desk and entered into a conversation with Mr. Peel. During the conversation the premier was evidently in briefly spirify and he was lowedly cheered in bright spirits and he was loudly cheered by the Radical members of the House. When he seated himself in his usual place his very selfssion seemed to enthuse his admirers and the chamber was fairly rent with cheer after cheer and the applause became an ovation. At last Mr. Gladstone arose in deference to He said the cabinet on assembling thought they were under obligation to submit a dutiful communication to the queen. [Cheers.] It would be premature on his part of that communication just now. He would say, however, that, as on former occasions, a few days must elapse before the result of that communication could be arrived at so as to be made known to the House. During the interval, Mr. Gladstone concluded, the House would follow its usual custom in refraining from the transaction of its ordinary business, and he would move that the House on rising, do adjourn until Friday. His motion was carried into effect and both the House of Commons and House of Lords adjourned until that day.

THE CONSERVATIVES TO TRY IT. The Conservatives are divided on the question of the expediency of assuming power. The majority of them favor trying the experiment. It is expected by the Torics that the Marquis of Salisbury will be ready by Friday next to accept an invitation by the queen to form a provisional government. It is rumored that Mr. Gladstone intends to ntirely abandon political life. Lord Randolph Churchill was asked if the Conservatives would form a government. He answered : "Most certainly." Lobby gossips mention the Marquis of

NO USE IN VETOING. MARRIAGE LAWS IMPERFECT. The Objectionable Items in the Appropr

Bill Passed Over the Overnor The item of $35,550 to pay Senate officers and employes was passed over the governor, on Tuesday, by a vote of 147 to 22. Those voting to sustain the governor were Baer, Crilly, Deck, Donahue, Ealer, Engleman, Fegley, Gregory, Horne, Lane, Lee, Maloy, George Morgan, Mott, North, S. Phillips Reeder, Rhone, Shaffer and Sponager, Dem cerats, and Fuller and Lowry, Republicans. The Democrats voting against the veto were Bowelt, Carberry, Eckels, Evans, Faunce, Gaines, Gentner, Schnatterly, Smith, Schwartz and Sweeney. A considerable number of the Democratic members declined to vote. The next disapproved item was that appro-priating $48,750 to officers and employes of the House. Great precautions were taken by some of the beneficiaries of the item to keep some of the beneficiaries of the item to keep the members within the hall, but this was not necessary, as it passed over the veto by a larger vote than the preceding one. The vote did not vary much on the other items disap-proved by the governor and passed over his veto, ranging from 147 to 157 in the affirma-tive and the negative vote from 14 to 22. The bill for the relief of the legislative offi-cers and employes of 1883 was passed over the governor's veto by a vote of 158 to 10. Lowry was the only Republican voting to sustain the governor.

sustain the governor. The two bills give the cleaks and em-ployes of the Senate and House about $60,000 more than the law, according to the interpretation of the governor, contemplates they shall receive. Chief Clerk Coehran having also been chief clerk of the Senate in 1883, also been chief clerk of the Senate in 1883, will receive under the two bills passed over the governor, $7,850 for services in 1883 and 1885, while the law fixes his salary at $2,500 per annum. Chief Clerk Pearson of the House, will get $3,950 for services at this ses-sion. Both of these clerks are allowed at the rate of $25 a day. The reading and jour-nal clerks are allowed $15 and the message clerks $10 a day for every day of this session, covering 158 days. The law also fixes the salaries of these clerks at certain sums per annum. There are rumors that proceedings will be instituted to restrain the state treasu-rer from paying clerks and employes in ex. rer from paying clerks and employes in ex-cess of the amount to which the governor

Says they are entitled. In the Senate the vetoed items in the general appropriation bill were called up. Several Democrats asked for a postponement of their consideration, but a motion to that effect was voted down—yeas, 19; nays, 22. The Senate then took a recess to enable the The Senate then took a recess to enable the senators of each political party to select two of their number to count the vote for state treasurer next January. After this duty had been performed Reyburn made a motion, which was adopted, that action on the general appropriation veto be postponed until Wednesday morning. This concession to the Democrats was due to the existence of a fear that if a vote were pressed it might result in sustaining the governor. in sustaining the governor.

They Will Get the Extra Pay.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 10 .- The Senate passed all the vetoed items in the general appropriation bill, notwithstanding the ob jections of the governor, and took similar action on the bill for the relief of officers and employes of the legislature of 1883. The vote ranged from 34 to 40. The first vote exactly reached the necessary two-thirds. It is probable the governor, through the attorney general, will restrain the state treasure from paying the excess to officers and employes which the governor vetoed. The House by a vote of 147 to 26 to-day concurred in the Senate resolution asking the governor to remove Judge Kirkpatrick of Pittsburg, from the bench on account of physical and mental condition. The Senate bill prohibiting railroads from crossing streets at grade in cities of the first class was reported negatively. A Veto Sustained.

A message was received from the governor announcing his disapproval of the bill fo the publication and distribution of the biennial message of the governor, pamphlet laws and reports of departments. The veto, which was sustained, is based on the extravagance of the measure, which the governor estimates would reach nearly 100,000 volumes The following Senate bills were passed finally: For the better protection of the wages of labor ; providing that preference shall be given to labor for work done in write of execution, assignments, or settlement of estates of decedents ; requiring telegraph companies before erecting poles in cities of the first class to secure the consent of the municipal authorities. by the Jersey City Club. The New York Sun of this morning says Thomas J. Cummings is manager of the leasey City team in the Eastern League, and Nicholas Bradley was its left fielder. Last week Cummings found fault with him for being late and for carelessness. Bradley re plied offensively and he was suspended. He expected to be reinstated, and yesterday morning he waited with the Jersey team in the Jersey City hotel, Exchange place, to meet Cummings and go on to Lancaster. When Cummings arrived he handed Brad ley a note informing him that at a meeting o the directors on the previous evening he had been dismissed. Bradley called Cummings several names, TRICT OVER. Stubborn and Prolonged Contest for th Collector of This District-Decided Finally in Payor of Lancaster County. The Appointee not an Applicant.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 10 .- The pres dent to-day appointed the following name concetors of internal revenue:

Geo. N. Davis, 4th district, Michigan. J. T. MacGonigle is ex-mayor of Lancas ter, Pa., and his nomination is the outcom of a prolonged struggle for the place in which there participated candidates from nearly every one of the dozen counties comprising the district. There have been various con solidations and changes in the revenue dis tricts of Pennsylvania until they are reduced in number to six, but, since the beginning of the system and with all its changes, an office has always been maintained in this city There was an effort made some time ago to make Harrisburg-the geographical centre of the district and where the United States the centre of the business Mr. Samuel E. Ard, of Mifflintown, and

Mr. Samuel E. Ard, of Mifflintown, and one or two aspirants from Harrisburg, dropped out early in the race; and it seemed to be conceded that no candidate could be successful without the endorsement of Hon. J. A. Swope, ex-member of Congress, and member expectant from the York-Adams-Cumberland district. He was not unfriendly to the candidacy of Hon. James North, of Juniata county, member of the legislature ; but he was embarrassed by the candidacy of Edw. Stuck, an active young Democrat from York, and editor of the Age there; and of D. B. Saxton, of Carlisle, another candi-date also from Swope's district, for whom he put on file a letter of endorsement. Thus situated he declined to take any further active part in the contest.

situated he declined to take any further active part in the contest. Pending the announcement of any candi-dates from Lancaster countians visited Washington in the interest of Hon. James North, and his recommendations and papers filed made a voluminous record, only rivalled by those of Mr. Saxton. When there seemed to be little chance for the appoint-ment of Mr. Stuck, there was at one time seemed to be little chance for the appoint-medi of Mr. Stuck, there was at one time something of a concentration of the politi-cal elements in Swope's congressional district in favor of Adam F. Gresy, the effi-cient chairman of the York county Demo-cratic committee. But with the apparent weakness or yielding of Saxton and Stuck, the friends of Mr. North renewed their pres-sure. Hon. R. M. Speer, of Huntingdon, visited Washington and warmly urged North's appointment; and a recommenda-tion of him, signed by all the judges of the supreme court of the state, except one, was put on file. The president, secretary of the treasury and commissioner of internal reve-nue, anxious to make an appointment, signi-fied their intention of soon determining this

Mr. Hensel, in the same paper, presented the names of five persons in Lan-caster county whom he had been mean the table, which the strangers refused to give caster county whom no had heard were willing to accept the office, none of whom he believed would seek it, nor send wrangling delegations to Washington and solicited re-commendations of their own merits. From these Mr. Hensel represented that a selection could be made which would be agreeable to Langester accenture of words.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 10 .- Doc Harris, the notorious leader of a gang of horse thieves now operating in Western Texas, was captured by Capt. Smith, of the state rangers, and brought in and surrendered yesterday to the sheriff of this county. There are thirteen separate indictments hanging over Harris, the aggregate sentence under which would be about 200 years imprisonment. When Harris was captured he was on the eve of shipping fifty head of stolen horses to Kansas City. The horses were found in the stock pens of the International railway com-Within the large territory known pany. Crockett and Pecos counties,

It has been recently learned that they have organized with a view of going into the cattle-stealing business on a large scale, driving the cattle to North Texas, and shipping them to Kansas City and St. Louis just as regularly as cattle-owners do. The ranch owners in Crockett county have begun an open war on this gang. The sheriff of Valverde county responded to a summons on Monday, and with a posse of fifty men has started for Crockett county to take a hand in the capture or annihilation of the entire band. The Crafty Game That a Cutter in the E ploy of the Establishment Practiced Order to Rob His Employers-Successfully Trailed by a Detective.

CLEVELAND, O., June 10 .- For several months Felsenheld Bros. & Co., whole cloak dealers at 177 Bank street, have mi large quantities of valuable goods. The case was put into the hands of Lew Whitney, local detective, who soon spotted Willing Englesdorf, a cutter in the employ of the above firm, but the closest surveillance failed to detect the thief in the act of removing the goods. Finally, however, the detective ascertained that the stolen goods were sent to Chicago, and were received there by a woman named Mrs. Anna Stark, who keeps a hospi-tal for indiscreet young women, at 199 Fulton street. Whitney, upon representing to the woman that he had a patient for her, persuaded her to accompany him to Toledo to assist in removing the girl to Chlcago. No sooner had the train crossed the line into Ohio, than Whitney confronted the woman and accused her of having received the stolen goods. Mrs. Stark at first protested her in-nocence, but when the detective told her that the dress she wore was made of the stolen silks, she broke down and confessed. She was brought to Cleveland and taken before Englesdorf. He at first protested that it was a mistake, but finding that the evidence against him was conclusive confessed and was placed in the county jail. He had carried the goods off, wrapped around his person, and had shipped them to Mrs. Stark, who was living with him as his wife. Felsenheld & Bros. do not know the exact amount of their loss, but say it amounts to many thousand dollars. The case will come up for trial to-morrow. TELEGRAMS IN BRIEF.

The ministeral circle takes the defeat with equanimity. The Rev. Mr. Crapsey dives up the Use Eacharistic Lights.

The Rev. Algernon S. Crapsey of Roches-ter, N. Y., and Right Rev. A. Cleveland Coxe, bishop of the diocese of Western New York, have disagreed about a ceremony in troduced into the service of St. Andrew's aurch, of which the former is rector. About two years ago Mr. Crapsey began to make use of eucharistic lights, lighting them during the reading of the communion service. For some time it has been understood that Bishop Coxe objected to this practice, and during his visit to the city last week he for-mally requested that it be discontinued.

mally requested that it be discontinued. Accordingly, the ceremony which had proved odious to the bishop was omitted on Sunday morning. The omission was explained by Mr. Crap-sey by the reading of a long letter which he had written to Bishop Coxe defending his opinion. He tells the bishop in this letter that he submits in the interest of peace, and not because he is convinced that he is wrong. He cites Bishop Doane, of Albany ; Bishop Potter, of New York, and other high authori-ties for the correctness of his position, and plainly states that he thinks the ceremony in accordance with the ritual of the church, and accordance with the ritual of the church, and one with which the bishop has no legal power to interfere. The reading of the letter caused a sensation in the congregation, which almost REPUBLICAN HUMILIATION.

A Prediction That the Party Cannot Long Withstand Its Present Corruption.

From the New Era. It is somewhat humiliating to Republican who are Republicans from principle and who do not make politics their trade, to know that political morality as developed in our primary elections is not improving. It is admitted by those who are in a position to know that several thousand dollars were spent at the late primary, and in defiance of the law against bribery much of it was used in the direct purchase of votes. And the "practical politicians" who had charge of the interests of certain candidates openly accuse each other of cheating and using the money given in the interest of one candidate to pro-mote the success of an opponent. The bad blood created thereby among men who had started in the campaign as bound by a common the was apparent on Sunday, when certain unex-pected results began to be known, and the air around the headquarters of the different local bosses grew sulphurous with pro-fanity and desceration of the Sabbath. As usual, the existing primary system is do nounced, and it has become so corrupt that its friends have nothing to say in its de-fense. It is certainly founded on correct theory, but in practice it is in one sense a farce and in another sense a crime against de-out civilization. Respectable citizens begin cent civilization. Respectable citizens begin to shrink from being candidates because they will not engage in the practices which seem to have become necessary to success, while others are so disgusted that they will not even turn out to vote. Unless these abuses are reformed the Republican party of Lan-caster county, strong as it is, will eventually be riven by the threes of a popular earth-ouake. quake.

Quietly and Satisfactorily.

From the Examiner. Our primary election passed off very quietly and satisfactorily.

Political Impartiality in Lancaster From the Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Republicans of Lancaster county are evidently slaves to impartiality. Between their admiration of Colonel Quay and their local appreciation of Mr. McDevitt they find it impossible to show any preference, and so they divide their delegation with evenhanded and scrupulous fairness. Each can didate is given a fair start with half the Lan-caster county delegation, and so is permitted to fight it out on equal terms throughout the rest of the state. Possibly the Lancastrians wish that there were two state treasurerships, so that they could vote in favor of giving one present to our present caldidates. But as that so that they could vote in favor of giving one apiece to our present candidates. But as that is impossible, they will do the next best thing by distributing their favors equally as far as that impartiality is followed. Perhaps the example is not a bad one. If every county in the state should divide its delegation equally, neither Quay nor McDevitt could complain of any preference being shown, and the convention might nominate some one else.

He paid glowing tributes to those who had died since the last convention. enumerating among them the late Hon. Thos. E. Franktin, of this city, who, it was stated, was a deputy from Pennsylvania in the general convention of 1871, at which the separa ion of the diocese from the original was consummated. The sermon continues : The three diocese The sortion continues : The three dioceses contained in this commonwealth have now all concurred in the expediency of organizing under the canon which allows the formation of a federal council whenever jurisdictions so related desire it, and all have appointed deprelated desire it, and all have appointed dep-uties to represent them in such a boy. There are many matters in which they have a common interest and on which their joint expression of judgment and con-cert of action would prove more potent and effective than their soparate, perhaps variant proceedings. Whenever any legisla-tion is required for the security and improve-ment of public morals or for the protection or deliverance of the church, the olea would obdeliverance of the church, the plea would ob-tain a much more favorable hearing from the civil power of the church in her majesty or speak with strong, united voice her deep con-victions and most positive desires. It is no-torious that in this, as in almost every state torious that in this, as in almost every state of the Union, the laws on marriage and di-vorce are very lax, and that home life is thereby lamentably degenerated in tone, in purity and stability. The bishop, after refer-ring to the law in some states where the town clerk issues a certificate before a mar-riage ceremony can be conducted by a minis-ter or other official, says: "If the legislature cannot be induced to erect even this slight obstruction in the way of secret, hasty and ill-advised marriages, I could wish that at least in this church the old practice of pub-lishing the banns on three successive Sun-days might be revived and made oblidays might be revived and made obli gatory. The civil contract idea on which most of our loose legislation, respecting marriage is predicated, has almost crowded out the recognition of its sacredness, and consequently alliances are lightly formed; and being in many cases found to have be unwise and productive of misery. A widely disseminated public sentiment has called for and has secured legislation which prevents their easy dissolution. Laws that inake di-vorce easy on insufficient and demoralizing pretexts, are the natural and logical and complement sequel of laws that make chandestine and precipitate marriages easy. It is high time that the religious world gave attention to the iniquities that multiply in the land under the sanction of these licentious laws." Bishop Rulison also delivered a brief ad-dress to the convention dress to the convention.

Pistols After Prayers. News has been received in New Orleans of a serious difficulty which took place in the Greenwell neighborhood, a few miles from Alto, in Richland parish, on Tuesday evening, June 2. For some time past bad blood had existed between the young men of this neighborhood, and the parties were split into two factions, headed by Tom Chapman and others on the one side and George Gilly and four more on the other. On Tuesday night the Free Methodists held services in their the Free Methodists held services in their church, and all the parties attended. When the meeting was over the Gilly party started home on foot. About 50 yards from the church Chapman stepped out from the brush and, presenting his pistol, ordered Gilly to throw up his hands. Gilly did so and then drew his weapon and fired upon his as-sailant, wounding him in the arm and leg. A man named Nichols then fired upon Gilly the ball taking effect in his jaw. The shoot-ing then became general and persons coming
