MURDERED IN TEXAS.

Thomas J. Downey Slain By His Herdsman Death of a Lancastrian in the Southwest. Thomas J. Downey, of Abilene, Kansas was murdered by herdsmen on his father' ranche at Cotulia, Dommitt county, Texas. The murdered man was only about 18 years of age. His father is a brother of the late David Downey, of Lancaster, and his relatives are well-known in this city. The Abilene (Kansas) Gazette, of June 9, gives the following particulars of the murder:

"We have just received a few particulars of the horrible murder of Thomas J. Downey, of the norrible murder of Thomas J. Downey, at Cotulla, Dommit county, Texas. It seems that Thomas Downey, sr., and Thomas J. Downey, his son, had been stationed at Cotulla for some time, and as the spring clipping was over and little work to be done. Thomas Downey, sr., made known his inten-tion of going back to his home in Abilene, leaving his son in charge of the ranch. He had only gone as far as San Antonio, when the news reached him of the murder of his had only gone as far as San Antonio, when the news reached him of the murder of his son by the Mexican herdsmen in their employ. He hastily returned to Cotulla, only to find the news to be true. The murdered boy was only 18 years old, and was buried in San Antonio."

No cause is assigned for the murder. We learn from Mr. Charles E. Downey, of Lancaster, that this is the second murder in the Downey family in Texas by the sheep herders in their employ. Mr. Sam'l Downey, who left Lancaster about twenty-seven years ago to engage in sheep-raising, and who carried on the business extensively and successfully for many years, was murdered by his herdsman on the 13th of January, 1879, on the same ranch on which the recent murder was committed. After his murder his brother, Dr. J. B. Downey, left Lancaster for Texas to look after the interests of the estate. The estate was divided, and in the settlement Texas to look after the interests of the estate. The estate was divided, and in the settlement one part of it fell to Dr. Downey, who is still living upon it at Carrizo Springs. The portion of the estate belonging to the other heirs passed into the management of Thomas Downey, sr., his brother, then and now living at a bilance Kanney. ing at Abilene, Kansas. Recently he took with him to Texas his son, Thomas J. Dow-ney, to assist in the management of the ranch, and he was murdered as above stated. The ranch is quite an extensive one, and last year there were upon it from 8,000 to 10,000 head of sheep.

DOUBTS CONCERNING A WILL.

trange Sequel to a Wedding in Brooklyn. The Death of a Cleveland Merchant, About three weeks ago Gustavus P. Reed, one of the oldest and wealthiest dry goods merchant of Massillon, Ohio, went to New York, as it was supposed, on business. He York, as it was supposed, on business. He was married in Brooklyn to Miss Harriet A. Butler, aged forty-four. He died within twenty-four hours after the coremony. The body was prought home accompanied by the bride of a day and her brother, Mr. F. W. Butler, and was buried on Wednesday afternoon. Since the interment a will of Mr. Reed has been produced, which bequeathes to the wife all his property, including the homestead in the city and all its contents. Since his father's death ten years ago, Mr. Reed has been a dutiful son to his mother, now eighty years old, and that he should virtually eighty years old, and that he should virtually turn her penniless from bome, seemed so unnatural to her friends that doubts of the son's sanity at once arose, which have broad-ened into suspicion of a graver character Suit has been begun to contest the will and Attorney Baldwin, who has been retained to prosecute the case, said that the will and the marriage were transparent frauds and that he had sufficient documentary and oral evidence to establish the fact that the imbe-cility of the dead merchant had been taken cility of the dead merchant had been taken advantage of by the parties interested for sinister purposes. The will itself is a peculiar document having been torn in pieces and then pasted together. It describes the property conveyed in such language as to leave little doubt that it was prepared by an insane man, or by some one not conversant with Mr. Reed's affairs. Mr. Reed's property is worth about $50,000, against which are lia bilities of $13,000. The case promises to de-velop many sensational features when it

For Boisterous Kissing on the Street. from the New York World.

You are charged with kissing a woman on the street," said Justice Gorman to an old man who was well-known to many persons in the Jefferson Market court as a wealthy Harlem resident, who is known by the so-briquet of "Pig-head George." He gave his name as John Mowatt.

"That was my servant girl, judge," re-plied the prisoner. " How old are you ?"

"How old are you?"

"I am sixty-five years old."

"Old enough to have better sense."

Officer A. M. De Nyse, of the Ninth, said:

"It was 9 o'clock last night when my attention was called to the kissing. This old man had a young woman with him. They were walking along West Fourteenth street and kissed each other repeatedly, attracting a crowd of people, who shouted and laughed. I arrested them both."

Mowatt owns $100,000 worth of property on the Boulevard. He gave his residence as Eighth avenue and One Hundred and Forty-sixth street. He was fined $10. The young woman gave her name as Jane Mowatt, 25 years old, residing at No. 201 West Twenty-sixth street. She said "George was a dear old acquaintance of hers." She too was fined $10

Said to Be" a Lawyer.

From the Washington Republican.

Mr. H. J. Ramsdell, never had a very high pinion of the attorney-general under Mr. Arthur's administration, and seldom lets an opportunity pass for indicating his views on the subject. A few weeks ago some one in the West wrote to the office of the register of wills to learn whether a former noted secre-tary of the treasury had left a son er son-in-law a member of the bar. The register, it is reported, seized his pen and grimly wrote:
"Benjamin Harris Brewster, a man of some local prominence in Philadelphia, is married to a daughter of Robert J. Walker and is said to be a lawyer."
