WHAT IS NECESSARY.

The President Demands that "Offensive Parti-sanship" Must be Proved. New York Herald Dispatch.

In speaking of the appointments of presidential postmasters made, Postmaster Gen-eral Vilas said that, in addition to the re-movals for offensive partisanship, there were as many more cases, in which, after consider-ation, it had been decided not to remove the postmasters. In those cases, although evi-dence of offensive partisanship had been presented, it was regarded as insufficient, the president not being disposed to seize the opportunity for removal, but to require the existence of partisanship to be shown as an undeniable fact.

As showing the spirit of fairness and deli-As showing the spirit of fairness and delicacy that has animated the president in dealing with the presidential postmasters, the postmaster general said that there were eighteen such presidential appointments made by President Arthur in the last days of his term, in cases where vacancies had occurred, and which had been confirmed by the Senate, but no commissions had issued. In all of these cases, as a matter of legal right, President Cleveland could have made appointments, because the act of appointment had not been completed by the issuance of commissions. But he thought it only considerate and fair But he thought it only considerate and fair that he should give the commissions in com-pletion of the act of appointment, and it had been done in all classes but one, and in that case there had been a resignation by the ap-pointee before the commission issued.

There were ninecouples of young people in the party, and although the surprise was complete Miss Musketnuss and her family were much delighted and they and the young folks passed a jolly evening.

Strawberries Getting Searce. There was a dearth of strawberries in the New York market yesterday. Good berries were from 35 to 40 cents a box, and hard to were from 35 to 40 cents a box, and hard to get. The supply from the South has ended, and Northern berries are received only in limited quantities. The Northern season began last Thursday. It generally ends about July 10. There is every prospect of a short crop and high prices. The late season and cold nights have killed the plants in New Jersey and Westchester county, and whole salers predict that prices will remain high.

VACCINATION AGAINST CHOKENA.

Professing to Weaten the Virus by Transmi Dr. Wesley Miller, who as long ago as July 28, 1873 published in New York a paper in which he advocated the use of the attenuated virus of the disease to prevent tubercular consumption and cure it in its earliest stages is about to prepare vaccine matter to use in pre-venting cholers. When asked how he would

is about to prepare vaccine matter to use in preventing cholers. When asked how he would do it, he said:

"I will take a piece of the tissues of a deceased cholera patient and insert it under the skin of a healthy calf. This will give it to the cali, and, when the disease has advanced sufficiently, a piece of its tissue will be put into a second calf, and so on for a third and perhaps a fourth. The object sought is to get a virus sufficiently attenuated. The virus from the last calf will give a man a modified form of cholera, just as the small-pox virus gives a man a modified form of small-pox. The modified form will be neither contagious nor dangerous to human life, but it will prevent an attack of cholera just as common vaccination prevents small-pox.

"How does it do that?"

"It simply destroys in the system the nidus in which the cholera feeds. Until that nidus is renewed by the lapse of years the person is safe from contagion."

"It is said that the Spanish government has prohibited inoculation."

"That was a proper thing to do. The inculation was done with virus taken from a cholera patient direct. But what I propose to do is to vaccinate with virus passed through the tissue of calves, which is a very different thing. The disease propagated by inoculation is contagious and may be fatal, but an attenuated or vaccine virus can be neither."

CLUBBER SPEECE CATCHES A TARTAR.

He Uses Unnecessary Force to Make an Arrest and is Sat Upon. Policeman Speece, popularly known as "the Ninth ward clubber," has made complaint against George Breen, Christopher Columbus Amweg and Andrew Miller, all of whom he charges with drunken and disor-derly conduct. He also charges Miller with resisting an officer, and Breen and Amweg with interfering with an officer while making an arrest. The parties were held for a hearing before Alderman Pinkerton, on Thursday evening next at 7:30.

It is said that the accused having been on a sort of jamboree on Saturday night, were returning to their homes, when Speece overhauled them at Prince and James street. Words passed among them. Speece, as is his habit, drew his billy and whacked [Miller over the head. Miller evidently was not as drunk as he was supposed to be, for he bounced the big policeman, took his billy from him, knocked him down with his fist from him, knocked him down with his has and sat down on him to rest. Breen and Amweg pulled him off, and are sued for in-terfering. Speece was rather roughly handled, but a citizen who saw it all says he has only himself to blame, as the men would have gone quietly home if Speece had kept his hands off of them.

WHINKY-GIVING TREE STUMPS. How Lawbreaking Retailers Arrested in Penn sylvania Supplied Their Customers. An extensive illegal trade in whisky, de moralizing the laborers, delaying work and causing loss to the contractors, has been carried along the line of the South Pennsylvania or Vanderbilt railroad, in Bedford, Fulton and Somerset counties, for some time, and the United States authorities, under direction of Secretary Manning, have determined to break it up. This illicit traffic and the to break it up. This illicit traffic and the drunkenness resulting from it have at various times caused a total suspension of labor, especially at Siding Hill and Laurel Hill tunnels. Eleven persons, charged with selling the liquor, have been lodged in the Bedford jail. Two of these—Fletcher Guent and David Ruby, both of Huntingdon—escaped, and three others, Frederick and Herman Kasefong, father and son, and Patrick McNeil, have not yet had a hearing. The other six have been committed to jail at Pittsburg for trial.

other six have been committed to jail at Pittsburg for trial.

Peculiar methods were used in corrying on this business. Some of those engaged in it openly peddled the liquor, but the more general way was for those wanting it to place their bottles and money on a stump and then go away. On returning they would find the bottles filled and the money gone. There were stumps all along the line that mysteriously swallowed the coin and poured out whisky. At other places shanties, one and awhisky. At other places shanties, one and a-half stories high were built. The lower story was open to the public and the upper one occupied by the proprietor, who never made his appearance. Through a hole in the wall a small elevator or dumb-waiter could be reached on which the noney waiter could be reached on which the money and bottle would be placed. The customer would then shout "Moses" to the man above would then shout "Moses" to the man above when the dumb-waiter would ascend and shortly return with the bottle filled. It has not been ascertained where the liquor is obtained by these retailers, but it is believed there is a moonshine distillery somewhere in the mountains near the road. Search has been made for it, but it has not been found. Deputy United States Marshal Beegies, of Bedford, has the names of many of the dealers, and will arrest them.

The Pompelians First to Can Fruits. We are indebted to Pompeii for our great ndustry of canned truits. Years ago when he excavation were beginning a party of Americans found, in what had been the pantry of a house, many jars of preserved figs. One was opened, and they were found to be fresh and good. Investigation shows that the figs had been put into the jars in a heated state, an aperture being left for the steam to escape, and then sealed with wax. The hint was taken, and soon after fruit canning was wis taken, and soon after that caning was introduced here, the process being identical with that in vogue at Pompeii twenty centuries ago. There are many ladies among us who can tomatoes and peaches for domestic use, and do not realize that they are indebted for this art to the people of Pompeii.

A Tough Bull Tossed by a Locomotive. From the Easton Argus.

An Alderney bull, belonging to Philip Dietrich, of South Orange, started yesterday to cross the rails in front of a swiftly moving train. His chain became entangled in the railroad ties and held him on the track. He faced the locomotive, and the engineer tried to stop the train, although he thought he had to stop the train, although he thought he had at last met the veritable bull that considered himself strong enough to toss a locomotive from the track. The engine flung the bull twenty feet into an adjoining lot. A number of men attempted to drag away the animal ten minutes alterward, but the bull resented the rough handling, and, springing to his feet, walked away seemingly uninjured.

A Scene in Kentucky.

From the New York Sun. Kentuckian (rushing into a saloon in great aste)—Here, give me a drink of whisky. Bartender-I'll have to go down cellar and tap a fresh barrel, colonel; the old one has run out. But it won't take me ten minutes. Kentuckian—All right, go ahead, but be quick about it. I've just heard that my house is on fire, and I've no time to lose.

Rib Broken and Hurt Internally. At the railroad crossing at Landisville yes-terday afternoon John Sheirich's horse scared at an approaching locomotive and jumping away from Mr. Scheirich who was holding him by the bridle, knocked him down. The wagon to which the horse was attached went over Mr. Scheirich, breaking one of his ribs and injuring him internally. Dr. Shenk attends him.

John Moore, arrested by Constable Wiggins, of West Lampeter township, for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was committed to the county prison last evening by Alderman Barr for three days.

Appointed Notary Public. Jacob Kemper, of Akron, Ephrata township, has been appointed notary public. His commission, which was received at the recorder's office to-day, bears date of June 15 and is good for three years.
