Applications for positions in the schools were read from a number of teachers not resdents of the city.

The following communication was read by the secretary : LANCASTER, June 18, 1885.

LANCASTER, June 18, 1885.

To the President and Members of the Board of School Directors:

GENTLEMEN—It is now thirty years (1855-1885) since I entered the Boys' High school as teacher. During the past twenty years I have been in charge of this department. For no year's service has my salary been quite $1,000. If, for the ensuing thirty years, or less, your honorable body can make it $1,200 per annum I have little doubt of my ability to spend the additional $210.

Very respectfully,

J. P. McCASKEY.

J. P. McCaskey.

The fixing of salaries for the ensuing year was declared in order and Mr. McCaskey's salary was fixed at $1,200.

Considerable discussion followed in reference to the salary of some of the teachers in the combined secondary, Rockland street and advanced primary schools, but all the motions to change were defeated and the salaries of all, (with the exception of Mr. McCaskey) were left the same as last year.

The election of teachers was proceeded with, Miss Sharp being transferred from the Rockland to the South Duke primary to take the place made vacant by the resignation of Miss McGinnis, and Miss Salome Carpenter was promoted from the New street primary to take charge of the school on South Mulberry street formerly taught by Mary Zuercher.

Mary Zuercher.
For the vacancy in the New street school For the vacancy in the New street school caused by the promotion of Miss Carpenter, the following applicants were placed in nomination: Misses Kate Baldwin, Estelle Bartel, Lizzie Eaby, Sue Harkms, Miss Hoak, Lizzie Shoemaker, Daisy Smaling, Alice Thompson, Hattie Curtis, Carrie Breneman, and the vote was as follows:

Messrs, Baker, Breneman, Brosius, Byrne, Cochran, Johnston, McComsey, McKillips, Reimensnyder and Dr. Levergood, 10, voted for Miss Bartel: Messrs, Brown, Darmstetter.

for Miss Bartel; Messrs. Brown, Darmstetter, Evans, Gast, Herr, Johnson, Wm., Marshall, McEllicott, Nauman, Oblender, Ochs. Raub, Ringwalt, Schwebel, Shindle, Smeych, Sny-der, Warfel and Wickersham, 20, voted for Miss Harkins.

Miss Harkins.

Mr. Eberman voted for Miss Hoak; Dr.
Bolenius for Miss Baldwin; Messrs. Lichty and Spurrier for Miss Smaling.

Miss Harkins was declared elected.

For the primary school in Rockland street, made vacant by the transfer of Miss Sharp, the ballot resulted in the election of Miss Breneman, many of the members having changed from Miss Bartel before the vote was announced. The fact is Miss Bartel had 19 votes before the changes commenced, but after a few directors had changed their votes there was a regular stampede to Miss Breneman and she received the votes of nearly all the members.  Following is a complete list of the teachers elected, and their salaries:

The drawings of the class will then be on exhibition. The practice heretofore has been to exhibit the drawings at the opera house, but the above change was made at the request of the class, as more opportunity is given to examine the drawings.

When the Keg Was Out the Game Was Out. Yesterday afternoon the Fat and Lean nines of this city had their first " meet" at McGrann's park and there was a large audience present to witness a funny game of ball. The gentlemen who played in the nines were as follows:

Fats-Frailey, Beard, McGrann, Stauffer, Hollinger, J. Wiley, Borger, Henderson, J. Copland, Muhlenberg and Porter.

Leans-Madden, Shirk, Keller, H. Copland, Leibley, Albright, Burke, Wickersham and Wiley.

The men were changed around with such

The men were changed around with such frequency that it was almost impossible to keep the positions of the fat team in mind. Beard and Frailey were the battery for the heavy club, and the former had a "drop" which worried the lean men. Porter took Frailey's place after the game had progressed some time. Shirk was the first pitcher for the leans, with Madden as catcher. His delivery was a "Millersville lerk," which would not go, and he was put out early in the game. Burke took his place, but he was worse, and then "Millersville jerk," which would not go, and he was put out early in the game. Burke took his place, but he was worse, and then Keller went in, pitching an "over-the-plate" but swift ball. He was well caught but a least he fielding of the Fats. In the outer gardens Jack Copland, Dr. Muhlenberg and Hop Henderson stood and sweltered. The last named received his release early because he saw fit to sit down under a small tree across the left foul line, while balls were flying around him like hail; Muhlenburg adopted John Shetzline's methods and determined to stop the ball with his feet, much to the disgust of his friend Copland, who, however, did not know how hard the work was, until a ball was driven through him. Of the in-field Stauffer and McGrann worked hard with good results and McGrann worked hard with good result at first and second alternately. In regard to the other players it looked very much as though they did not wish to support their pitcher and like the Brooklyn would not do tigation.

The lean men did the better playing by far. "Bucky" Liebley hugged third base very closely (there was a keg of beer on it.) and scarcely had time to leave it for the balls. He made his big hit running bases, however, and scored no less than four runs. Harry Copland was downed several times in his efforts to keep the fat people from sliding in at second. The outfielders were very tired at times, although all wore wet sponges in their hats. The keg of beer made a great hit, and the players were all anxious to reach third base. It is said that some outsiders got a whack at the keg between innings. It was suddenly discovered at the end of the sixth inning that the beer was gone. The players at once rebelled beer was gone. The players at once rebelled and game was called with the standing 16 to

Al. Edwards umpired the game, and as he sympathy ran with the big men. His decisions were called "rank," &c., by the lean men, who declare they could have won with any other man. They made no kick for a change, however, for they well knew that the eserved umpires on the grand stand both heavies, and with them they t fare worse. It is believed that Mr. Edwards simply did his duty, and that most of his decisions were good. He has had plenty of offers from different associations since the

NECK BROKEN BY A FALL.

The Curious Accident by Which a Well Know Lancaster Baker Lost His Life - Verdiet of the Coroner's Jury-A Brief Sketch of the Deceased

Casper Weaver, baker, was accidentally killed in rear of his residence No. 324 North Queen street, Thursday evening between 5 and 6 o'clock. He and his brother John had been hauling hay, and a few minutes fore the accident occurred, they had taken their load of hay to Sener's hay scales, and thence to the stable in rear of Mr. Weaver's residence. Mr. Casper Weaver was on top of the load of hay pitching it off, and his brother was in the mow taking it away from him, when suddenly the horse attached to the wagon moved a step or two forward. Mr. Weaver lost his bal-ance and fell to the ground. His brother called to him, and receiving no answer, has-ance and fell to the ground. His brother called to him, and receiving no answer, hastened to his side. He found him lying upon his face behind the wagon. He turned him over upon his back and tried to lift him up, but he was dead. Dr. Hyus, who lives near by, was called in and ascertained that Mr. Weaver's fall had broken his neck.

Coroner Honaman was notified and empanciled the following jury to hold an inquest: Dr. A. C. Hyus, Henry Mishler, Frederick Brimmer, John Ripple, John Reese, W. C. Eichler. After hearing witnesses the jury returned a verdict that "Casper Weaver came to his death by a fracture of the upper part of the spinal column, caused by a fall on his head from a hay wagon."

Mr. Weaver was a German by birth, having been born in Hesse Cassel, in 1814. He came to America when only eighteen years of age and settled in Lancaster. For fifty years past he has been engaged in the baking business, and carried it on for more than forty years at his late place of business 324 North Queen street. He married Elizabeth Graham, who died about ten years ago. Five of his nine children survive him—all daughters, of whom two are married and live in Keckuk, Iowa. One is the wife of Policeman Winfield Weaver, and the others are single and lived with their father.

Mr. Weaver was a pleasant, industrious, honest man, well liked by all who knew him. He was a member of Zion Lutheran church and of Montercy lodge L. O. O. F., The time of his funeral has not yet been fixed.

A TRIPLE TRAGEDY. The Crime of a Crazed Lover Committed on

Virginia Island, Wm. Freeman, aged 18 years, Thursday morning, on Chincoteague Island, Va., shot Timothy Hill, a prominent citizen, his wife and daughter, and then killed himself. He had courted the daughter of Hill and she, it is supposed at the instance of her mother, declined his suit. It is feared that all three For some time past Freeman has been enployed as laborer on Mr. Hill's farm. The young man fell in love with Mr. Hill's pretty daughter, who did not reciprocate his affection, but permitted him to visit her oc-casionally, though discouraged by her par-ents. Freeman grew moody and sullen at this treatment and threatened to kill William Bunting, son of the owner of a large fish factory, whom he regarded as his favored rival. We inesday night he was at the favored rival. We inesday night he was at the Atlantic hotel breathing vengeance against Bunting, but he failed to find him and he returned home moody, but apparently nervous and excited.

In the morning Freeman met Mrs. Hill and her daughter in the yard attached to the house and he renewed his advances to Jenma. He was sharply rebuked by the child's mother, at which he became very angry and declared the girl should marry no one else. He walked behind them for some distance, when suddenly he stopped and cried out he her there would be some trouble on the island. At this juncture Jennie said: "Well, Bill, you would not hurt me, would you?" and he replied: "No, but you will see trouble before long." Mrs. Hill and Jennie walked on, but no sooner had they turned their backs than Freeman pulled from his pocket a small pistol of thirty-two calibre and fired twice at the girl. As the women started to run Freeman rushed upon them. Mrs. Hill threw her arms around the infuriated man, and exclaimed: "Oh, Bill, Bill, don't shoot: don't murder me." He again fired twice in succession and his shots took fired twice in succession and his shots took fired twice in succession and his shots took effect.

Freeman turned to fiee, but seeing Mrs. Hill's son coming hurriedly up in response to his mother's cry of murder, he aimed the weapon at his own forehead and shot his brains out. He died in a few minutes. His pockets were full of breech-loading cartridges for a shotgun, one being in his hand when he fell. The women ran bleeding into the house of Mrs. Hill's son Daniel, where they fell fainting on the floor. One ball struck the girl under the right ear and came out at the back of the head. The other entered the skull, just above the centre of the neck. This ball has not been located by the surgeons in attendance. The wound is causing the girl the most intense agony and she has been vomiting blood at intervals since she was shot. It is not believed she can recover.

One ball struck Mrs. Hill in the torehead and glanced off. The other lodged in the back of the head, penetrating some distance in the head. She, too, is expected to die. Up to this time none of the balls have been extricated. All the doctors on the island were called to attend the injured women.

The Hill family are old residents of the island and very highly respected.

Spiegle was a stranger, unable to furnish ball, and rather than be looked up, he raid the amounts claimed. locked up, he paid the amounts claimed $17.99.

PRESBYTERIANS SURPRISED.

Two Ministers Preach the Same Sermon Re-fore One Congregation.

Presbyterian circles generally in Halifax, the fact that two of their clergymen have re-cently preached the same discourse. Last week Rev. Allan Simpson, pastor of Park street church, and heretofore looked upon as one of the cleverest divines in the city, left for Montreal to attend the annual session of the Presbyterian general assembly. On Sun-day his pulpit was occupied by Rev. T. A. Nobleman, a minister of the same denomina-tion from a town near Ottawa, Ont., who preached exactly the same sermon as one de-livered about a month ago by Rev. Mr. Simp-son. The matter will no doubt be the sub-ject of a church conference, the deliberations of which will be awaited with great interest.

The Aldermen's Dismissed Cases.

The alderman of the city held a meeting at the office of Alderman Barr last evening and considered the question as to how they could obtain pay for dismissed cases. They have not been paid since November 1883, and they claim that as they are entitled to pay for them, the matter should be adjudicated. They consulted with their attorneys and their case will be presented to the commissioners at an early day and efforts will be made to have a case stated agreed upon so that the opinion of the court can be obtained.

THE BARTHOLDI STATUE.

IMPOSING CEREMONIES AT THE RE-CEPTION OF THE PRENCH GIFT.

Great Crowds Packing the Thoroughfares and the French and American Flags Commingling-Brilliant Scene in New York Harbor-Mayor Grace's Speech,

New York, June 19 .- Flags are waving this morning from the tops of principal build-ings throughout the city in honor of the formal reception of Bartholdi's statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World." The shipping along the river front and the vessels in the harbor are gaily decorated with flags and bunting in honor of the event. One of the most noticeable displays is that at the pier of the French Trans-Atlantic Steamship ompany's wharf which is fairly covered wit dags of both France and America gracefully entwined. The weather is warm and clear with a cooling breeze. Early morning trains brought thousands of strangers from the surrounding cities and Broadway and the treets adjacent thereto are thronged with people in holiday attire, wending their way to points from which a good view of the military and civic parade attending the reception of the statue can be witnessed. The harbor presents a beautiful appearance this morning, studded with the white sails of boats, crowded to the guards, awaiting the moving of the naval procession.

Shortly after nine o'clock the mayor, the resident of the board of aldermen, the muicipal officers, and the members of the re ception and other committees, embarked on special steamboats and proceeded down the ower bay to the Isere. Arriving alongside of the vessel they boarded her and at once paid their respects to the commander and officers, and the mayor, acting as spokesman, bade them a hearty welcome to New York. The mayor then tendered them the hospitalities of the city and invited them to a formal reception at the City hall this afternoon. After the interchange of a few remarks the mayor and city officials withdrew, returning to the steamboat, which at once swung off and took up a position within ew hundred yards of the Isere.

At 11 o'clock, the fort at Sandy Hook thun lered forth a salute to the French flag which was shortly after followed by 'a signal from Commodore Chandler's vessel notifying the ols to form in line for the naval parade. The vessels fell into line as follows:

The United States steamer Dispatch, with Secretary Whitney and Commodore Chandier and staff on board; United States steamer or Powhaltan, Capt. L. A. Beardsice; United States steamer Omaha. Capt. T. O. Solfridge; United States steamship Alliance, Lieutenant Commander Durand; the French flagship La Flore, Admiral Lacombe; the French transport Isore, Commander De Saune; steamboat with the statue committee on board; steamboat with the mayor and aldermen. Here followed a fleet of yacht of the American steam yacht club, among them Jay Gould, Atalanta and the phenomenal yacht Stilletto. In this position the vessels steamed slowly up the bay, receiving salutes from the forts at the Narrows, Forts Colum-THE NAVAL PARADE.

which passed off without the slightest hitch of any kind, or anything calculated to mar the good feeling prevailing. The French officials express themselves as greatly pleased with their reception. MAYOR GRACE'S SPEECH.

Mayor Grace's speech to the visitors was as follows: "Ot the many causes which as follows: "Ot the many causes which during the last century operated in awakening in the people of France that burning desire for liberty, which was to set all Europe ablaze, and which finally found organized expression in the constitutional assembly of 89, two were pre-eminent—one was the literary influence exerted by a school of writers, whose fierce blows shooks to its foundation the fabric of absolutism so strongly reared by Louis XIV, and found an echo on this side of the Atlantic in the teachings of our own Jefferson and Franklin. The other was the example set by the New World in their successful struggle against the same absolutism which the English king sought to perpetuate over the colonies. The stories told by our allies on their return of the brave deeds done thusiasm was aroused which added the point and meaning of practical demonstration to the speculations of French philosophy. From that time to this the bond of sympathy which united the two people has never weakened. Washington and Lafayette! Their name stand for all that has been highest and noble in the political history of centuries. In the person of Lalayette was embodied the spleit of revolt against the systems of government of the past; in the person of Washington the spirit of hope for the future—a future of free lom which was to bring peace. PREDERICK R. COUDERT'S SPEECH.

Mr. Frederick R. Coudert spoke in sub-stance as follows: "The splendid gift which these gentlemen have carried from their own soil to find a home in our bay is not a gift of a king or an emperor or any government whatever, but the spontaneous offering of a people, and of the only people who stood sponsor for the infant nation that needed help as no nation ever did before. The splengift of the French people, which you have brought to our shores is therefore deeply significant. It is a pledge of the present existence. If those friendly elations which mark the common history of the two nations in the past, and is a pleasant augury of their continuance in the future, as it is to France, and through France to the United States that the spread of popular government in Europe is largely due, so it is but appropriate that an enduring monument at this gateway of the world's commerce should remind all comers of the fact, and the artist has caught the inspiration of history. The conception of Liberty Enlightening the World is deeply poetic, because it is deeply true; and because the idea is a great one, its grandeur demands its association with the rigantic in art which has already risen above and beyond the canon of strict criticism. May it stand as an imperishable monument of the ideas with which it is associated, which are themselves immortal and unchangeable, Show world that the only panacea for the iils that humam society has been groaning under and fighting against during all these centuries is liberty-liberty the friend of morality, of virtue, of truth, of honor, of learning. Liberty, the foe of oppression, of violence, of murder, of cowardice. Liberty, which takes nothing from the man and gives him all, even a remedy for the ills which constantly changing and restless society will ever generate. Thus let us all hope, and if our great statue will preach this esson for ages to come in our own peerless bay, we will bless it, and love it for the giver's sake and for its own."

Roustan, the French minister, to attend the formal reception of the Bartholdi statue, that gentleman in an interview said: "It is true that I have declined these invitations, although I felt honored and proud to receive them. My only reason for declination is that I am too busily occupied here in Washington is the said to busily occupied here in Washington to be able to make the journe to New York. I am tied to the business of the legation here and cannot find the time which such a trip would require. You see it would not do for me to attend one of the ceremonies and not the others, and I should be required to sine at Delmonico's one day, go to the race course another, and so on until a week or even several weeks would be re-quired for my visit. I cannot spare the time, although I should be delighted to ssist at the ceremonies."

CLUVERIUS SENTENCED TO DEATH.

His Appeal Will Delay His Execution Until RICHMOND, Va., June 19.—Cluverius was brought up to the court room this morning and took his seat as usual. His counsel was present and a motion to continue the considration of the motion for an arrest of judgment was overruled, and Hon. Thos. S. Atkins, judge of the Hustings court, asked of the prisoner if he had anything to say why the sentence of death should not be passed upon him. He arose from his seat and in a husky voice replied: "If you sentence me

The judge then pronounced the sentence in an impressive manner, and the prisoner was taken back to jail and solitary confine ment. The day set for execution is November 20th. The case will now go to the supreme court of appeals, where the bills of exception will be considered and the question of a new trial be decided.

NINE KILLED IN THREE WEEK. The Latest Phase of the Hall-Jones Foud HINDMAN, Ky., June 19.—The war is tween the Hall and Jones factions in thi Knott) county, is still raging. Last week one of the Jones party returned from Cincinnati, where he had expended $400 is nixeen-shooters. There was a collision between the parties on Wednesday, and in the fur lade a man named Woodberry was instantly killed. Mack Hall died on Monday leet from wounds received in a battle fought only a few days previous. Talt Hali is still confined from the effects of wounds received in the fight one day last week. His recovery is doubtful. So far, the Jones party have de-cidedly the best of it. Jones and his men travel weil armed and are constantly the lookout. This bloody business will not end until one or the other or the gangs is extermined. There is a good deal of excitement throughout that section. Jones and Hall parties had another yesterday in this county. They quit that is each side lost a man. Two named Hall were killed. They we related. This makes nine men that have killed since these parties started to depond at the county, about three weeks ago, and they have hardly got fairly started yet.
