Nameless, of Lancaster. A close and exciting contest was expected, but the parties present were sadly disappointed. The game terminated at the end of the sixth inning in order to allow the visitors to go home at 6 o'clock. King, of the Columbia team, pitched a good game, striking out twelve men. The score at the end stood: Columbia, 25; Nameless, 7.

embezzlement and larceny. It appears that Pflaumer was superintendent of a mill for the manufacture of coverlets and blankets, near Byerstown, this county; and he is charged by Schum with embezzling about $500 in money and about $150 in blankets, &a. The accused gave bail for a hearing before Alderman Spurrier at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning. Seriously Injured by a Fall. Mrs. Sarah Smith, residing at No. 406 South Queen street, met with a serious accident on Sate day evening. She was return-ing from the cellar, where she gone on an errand, and when on the top step lost her balance and fell backward. To save her head she threw her arm around and fell on it. The bones of the wrist were broken, and she was also otherwise injured. Dr. L. A. Warren was summoned and rendered the necessary surgical aid.

"Christian Women Squeeze God's Life." Dr. Alice B. Stockton writes in the People's Health Journal, that unless a woman pte's Health Journal, that unless a woman has tried loose clothing she cannot conceive how much she gains for health and strength by a dress that gives perfect freedom to breathe. "Sixteen thicknesses of cloth," she says, "is no unusual number to be found tightly fastened about a lady's waist." Concerning this matter she once heard a Chinese woman exclaim: "Christian womsn squeeze God's life."

A NEW ROUTE PROPOSED

By Which the Sewerage of the Northern Part of the City May be Carried Off. EDS INTELLIGENCER—Two articles in the INTELLIGENCER of last week's issue, and one in the New Era, on the subject of drain-age of the northern portion of the city of Lancaster, having attracted attention, with due deference to the authors, the opinion is hereadvanced that little difficulty would at-tend the accomplishment of the object, if, (like most business matters), undertake in the proper way. The true and natural location of a structure for sewerage, is in the low ground of a country, indicated by its water courses; and as this one is designed to empty its contents into the Conestogs creek, below the city water works, the valley starting at Prince and Clay streets, should be embraced and pursued without departure to embraced and pursued without departure to the end.

A brick sewer, of five feet diameter, would be ample. From the base, at a suitable depth at Prince and Clay streets, to one foot above the surface of ordinary water in the Conestoga, it is known from levels taken that there is a fall or descent of 102 feet. The length of the sewer, on the route recommended, would be about three miles. If so, the average fall per 100 feet would be less than eight inches; hence, the necessity of the shortest possible line. The route recommended is briefly stated to start at Prince and Clay streets, in the Ninth ward of the city; follow Clay to Lime street, thence along the various streets best adapted for location, to the city limits at Broad street; along Broad street southward to near the Pennsylvania railroad; the line would then leave that street and cross under the railroad about 350 railroad; the line would then leave that street and cross under the railroad about 350 feet west of Hardwicke run. Fortunately for the project this run has a great deal more descent than the grade compelled to be used, which allows a departure from it, and the running of a nearly direct course on higher ground than that of its immediate valley; cutting off at least a mile of distance, by not being required to follow the meandering of the creek; passing a short distance west of Ranck's farmhouse, and about midway between Knapp's passing a short distance west of Ranck's farm house, and about midway between Knapp's villa and Potts' tayern, on the Philadelphia turnpike, then on suitable ground to the Conestoga creek, about 100 yards below the mouth of the tail-race of the city water works. From personal reconnoisance, this appears to be the only feasible route. One along the margin of the Conestors, from the confluence of Hardwicke run, aside from its increased of Hardwicke run, aside from its increased length, would be impracticable and useless; if for no other reason, that in a distance of about two miles, the fall would only be about 10 feet, judging from the heights of dams at Ranck's mill and at the city water works. An instrumental survey might vary somewhat the line described, but it is believed would generally coincide with it.

the line described, but it is believed would generally coincide with it.

A route that would take Ann street in its course, may be regarded as out of the question, when the excessive cost it would occasion is considered, whether in respect to a through cut or tunnel for the sewer trench. From the start of the sewer at Prince street, the distance to Ann and King street, would be about $,000 feet, at a descending grade of 8 inches to the 100 feet. Ann street point should be 53 feet lower, but as it is 65 feet higher, the base of the sewer would be 121 feet below the surface.

Wanted to Burn His Dead Child's Body. On Sunday morning a crowd of about two hundred persons from Bellaire, Bridge-port and Wheeling, W. V., was that mornng attracted to the little village of West ing attracted to the little village of West Wheeling, on the Ohio side of the river, by the preparations making by a Pole, named Keffler, to cremate the body of his little daughter in one of the ovens of his pottery. The child died last night, and Keffler claiming to be too poor to give it ordinary burial, fired up one of his kilns, wherein he bakes common earthenware, and was on the point of depositing the corpse in it when the authorities headed by Senator David Wagner, interfered and the body was removed and buried. It is reported that Keffler attempted to kill his wife with an axe, saying he had been commanded to do so by the Almighty.

Five Tramps Arrested. Constable Dern and Officers Roadman and Ritchey made another raid to-day on the tramps who have been making the vicinity of Masonville, Manor township, their headquarters. Five unfortunates were capcaptured, brought to this city and lodged in the county prison. One of the farmers re-siding near Masonville stated to a representative of the INTELLIGENCER that his neigh borhood has been overrun with tramps for several weeks, and the farmers were compelled to get the officers to make the raids which has resulted in the capture of twelve knights of the road.

Barn Struck by Lightning. On Thursday evening about 9 o'clock a barn belonging to ex-Sheriff Strine, situated in Martic township, near Rawlinsville, was struck by lightning. The electric current entered the cupola, ran down a rafter to the caves, shattering the rafter and knocking the shingles from the roof; then ran along a heavy timber to the barn door, which is swung on an iron roller, and the lightning made its exit by bursting two or three boards from the door. Notwithstanding the severity of the stroke the barn was not set on fire.

Baptism at Rohrerstown on Sunday. Baptism was administered yesterday in the stream at Rohrerstown, by the pastor of the Covenant United Brethren church of this city. The United Brethren in Christ have not a set mode to perform this rite—leaving that to the choice of the individual conscience. Some were immersed, while others were bap-tized by pouring. In the evening the same ordinance was observed in the church by sprinkling.

An Incorrigible Boy. Charles Ibert, a boy, was arrested this morning by Officer Shay on a warrant issued by Alderman McGlinn, charging him with being incorrigible. The boy's parents are dead and he makes his home with his grandparents in the Eighth ward. For some weeks they have been unable to manage him and had him arrested with a view of having him sent to the House of Refuge.

D. performs a large amount of useful labor in historical research and writing, of which this last work is one of the most notable fraits. Although sanctioned and heartily approved by the highest authority of the church, the responsibility for its publication was imposed upon the author individually, and he has met it very successfully and creditably in every way.

Typographically the book is handsome and complete; it is printed in clear type, on good paper with wide margin; and the frontispiece is very fitly a view of the city of Heidelberg, the cradle of the church in Europe, which branch of it forms the subject of the first book of the work, covering thirteen chapters and 143 of the 432 pages of the complete volume. Other illustrations, portraits of Revs. Dr. Fisher, Harbaugh, Nevin and Max Stern; a comprehensive index, necrology, epitome of the meetings of the synods and a table of comparative statistics are features of the arrangement which add greatly to the value of the book.

The interest, however, centres in the 250 pages which are devoted to a history of the Reformed church in the United States, the progress of the denomination and the development and strengthening of its interests, starting with a recognition of the plausibility of the statement that "the Heidelberg catechism was taught in America before the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock," the author with much conciseness and conscientious accuracy, tells the story of the ploneer preachers of the church. Incidentally the Ephrata community and other prominent features of our local history are touched upon, which, with the account of the church institutions, located in this city, gives the volume a very large local interest. The church in other states than Pennsylvania, its history during the Revolution; the synods, hymn-book, seminaries, publications, doctrine and ter-centennary celebration, together with an account of the peace movement from the frame work upon which has been constructed a very attractive and interesting history, of a denomination
