BEVERAL HUNDRED CASES OF OLD LEAF DISPOSED OF BY PACKERS.

The '84 Crop Now Nearly all Cased-Much of the '85 Planted, But in Some Sections Rain Needful Before the Setting of Plants Can He Done.

The Lancaster market during the past week has been without special feature. There have been light receipts of '84 leaf at some of the warehouses, where packing has been going on briskly, white others have finished their packings and "shut up shop." There have been sales of a few hundred cases '84 which is increasing in favor as its curing Farmers are yet engaged in setting out the dants for the '85 crop. In the vicinity of Lancaster the planting has been almost com-pleted, and the plants are doing finely. A drive of fifteen or twenty miles around the city a day or two ago shows that the acreage is, or will be, when the plants are all set, alis, or will be, when the plants are all set, almost as great as last year. In some other sections, however, the conditions are not so favorable. For want of rain not one-half the plants have yet been set, and of those that have been, many have been destroyed by the cut worm or killed by the sun, and in some of the townships the acreage will be much higher than last year. Not a few of the farmers who believe in "signs," and who failed to get in their plants during the first week in June, will not plant until the sign of Aquarius or Pisces come round again in the first week of July.

From the Tobacco Leaf we condense; Western Leaf-The feature of the week in this market was the purchase by the Messrs. Reynes, Bros. & Co., of about 500 hogsheads for Spain. Beyond this noticeable transaction there is little to report so far as an-nounced, the usual retail transfers only hav-

Virginia Leaf-Little doing in Virginia leaf the past week. No sales of any note were made. Manufacturers seem inclined to send South for their tobacco and pay more than by buying in this market. Seed Leaf—Although not as much as last week, the sales for the current week foot up a very fair aggregate. The new goods are being purchased cautionsly and in small lots. There is considerable inquiry for them, and knowing ones seem to think that, in the course of a few days, some large transfers will take place. Recent sales have been so very private as regards price, that there is some anxiety to learn just what the ruling price is, more especially for Wisconsin. Old Connecticut binders have almost, it not altogether, disappeared from the market.

Spanish—Good Vueltas are in fair demand; there were somewhat neglected. Sales, 400 bales from 60 to $1.12\c. The market holds firm and prices are fully sustained. Holders are perfectly satisfied that old tobacco is ex at property and that money will be of it. Vueltas have received the largest share of buyers' attention. Reports from Havana say that old tobacco is being bought from cigar manufacturers there, who are fortunate enough to hold a quantity of it, at a good murgin of profit to them. Sumatra-Absence of desirable styles becks transactions. Sales, 200 bales at from $1.25 to $1.60. There is considerable life in the market, and all that is needed to insure a good business is a good assortment of tobacco. The arrival of tobacco purchased at the in-scription on the 6th inst. is looked forward to with interest. It is expected to reach here interest. It is expected to reach here time next week, and the conflicting resome time next week, and the conflicting re ports as to its quality will then be set at rest. The fact that firms here, who have represent-atives in Holland at present, are buying quite liberally in this market, indicates that quite liberally in this market, much on the they fear not getting all they want on the other side of the Atlantic.

Tobacco Journal says: After the darkness reigned in the market the early part of this week; then the pyrotechnic play form and a more diversified shape. While '84 Wisconsin wrappers, which last week played such a prominent part, became ne-glected, the seconds of this crop became a great favorite. About 1,000 cases of this stock found buyers at an average figure of 11 to 12 cents. This is greatly due to the high figures that are being asked for '84 Connecti-cut seconds, which are being bought up quite rapidly. The whole business in seconds emphatically illustrates the reign-ing opinion in cigar manufacturing circles. Manufacturers are not convinced as yet that the '84 crops contain a sufficient mass of wrappers suitable to take a partial piace for Sumatra wrappers; they all run short of thin Sumatra wrappers; they all run short of thin binders last year, and to avoid similar experience they provide themselves now. There exist no reasons why good binders should be scarce this year; there is a sufficiency of material in most of the Havan seed crops suitable for the purpose, packers may call it binders or wrappers.

Altogether it is too early to expect any solid demand for '84 wrappers. Manufacturers will not buy new wrappers by packers' ers will not buy new wrappers by packers' samples, except in particular cases. In about two months the sampling will begin, and this will decide whether Sumatra will again this will decide whether Sumatra will again assert supremacy in the market. No fixed opinion regarding this can be found anywhere. Importers of Sumatra are buying very little on the other side. They want to see something definite in seed leaf; jobbers and manufacturers act similarly. Exporters, who are not packing, but who buy in open market, also hold back; they calculate on an export of about 50,000 to 75,000 cases, provided they can buy cheap enough. What this term implies cannot be solved with but one degree of certainty, and that is, that the difference between their price and that of the seller cannot be above 10 cents; below that they will go, very much so, if they can; they will go, very much so, if they can; above that—never.

Sales of see'l leaf tobacco reported for the INTELLIGENCER by J. S. Gans' Son & Co., INTELLIGENCER by J. S. Gans' Son & Co., tobacco brokers, No. 131 Water street, New York, for the week ending June 22, 1885; 800 cases 1881 Wisconsin, Havana, 6@20c.; 350 cases 1884 New England, 13@16c.; 150 cases 1884 Ohio, 51/@51/c.; 300 cases 1883 Pennsylvania, 8c@12c.; 150 cases 1881 Pennsylvania, 6@10c.; 100 cases 1883 Wisconsin Havana, 12@20. Total, 1,850 cases.

Hard manufactured tobacco is dull; fine cuts moderately active ; smoking kinds unchanged; cigars slightly better. Seed leaf is improving and packers of '84 are feeling hopeful. Old leaf is selling well but at low prices. Sumatra is in good demand and Ha-vana holds its own.

Receipts of Maryland are moderate for the season and sellers very firm, in view of the requirements of shippers. Some little buying for France has been done, but no large lots reported. The inquiry for Ohio is fair, and we note sale of of 217 hogsheads taken for Duisberg. Holders are firm.

Wisconsin Markets.

The crop of '84 was brought up long ago and packers are enjoying a vacation. Farmers have set out an increased acreage and the young plants are doing well, notwithstanding the recent cyclones and the dament of the base of the second cyclones.

A large proportion of the '84 crop of Mas-sachusetts and Connecticut is yet in the hands of growers, many of whom are pack-ing their own plantings and awaiting for purchasers. The '85 crop will be one fourth less than last year and almost exclusively of seed leaf. They regard Havana seed "no good."

Heavy Loss of Tobacco.

The report of the loss of 14,000 bales of Sumatra tobacco on their way from Sumatra to Amsterdam, is confirmed by letters received from trustworthy Amsterdam parties. They state that the name of the steamer carrying the tobacco is the Deucer, and that she col-lided with another vessel off the coast of Por-tugal, near Lisbon. The tobacco lost was in-tended for the inscription at Amsterdam to come off on the 25th of June.

On Tuesday last the steamer Guyandotte, of the Oid Dominion line, from Norfolk, was sunk in the North river, New York, through the stupidity of one of her firemen. Nearly 200 hogsheads of Virginia tobacco went to the bottom of the river.

of gathering eigar stumps in the street, and confessed that he got 10 cents a pound for them from a eigarette maker. Paste this in your son's new straw hat.—New York World.

The falsity of this statement is prima facic. A eigarette manufacturer wouldn't pay 10 cents a pound for "stumps" when he can buy the original raw material and the only kind of tobacco fit for eigarette purposes at much less money.—Tobacco Journal.

"The original raw material" for a eigarette costs about ten cents a ton, and the heartless manufacturer uses this vile stuff instead of the more costly and tony eigar stumps, and palms off his bogus goods on the innocent dude as the genuine article the regular "two for." This is a refinement of cruelty to dumb animals.

Yesterday John Grady, a catcher of the Newark club, umpired the game with the Lancaster, and, although the hitting of the home nine was very hard, it is safe to bet that Grady compelled Wetzel to put the balls right over the plate. In Jersey City, Jake Knodell, a Trenton man, umpired the game. Curry and Parks were the only regular umpires that officiated. It is a rather bad state of affairs when an association like the Eastern League is without umpires, or even substitutes to do the work, and it is a shame that players must be put in. Some of the umpires who have been serving are very bad, and Parks, the new man, caused great dissatisfaction at Atlantic City yesterday. Jack Holland seems to be among the missing lately, but it is a great pity that men of his kind cannot be secured to fill all the places. President Diddlebock is responsible for this state of affairs and he should remedy it, or players and audiences will become disgusted.

Rev. Dr. C. F. Knight's Narrow Escape From Death at the Pennsylvania Station.

This morning at six o'clock, at the P. R. R. station, Rev. Dr. C. F. Knight, of St. James' P. E. church, attempted to board the Philadelphia express, which was more than three hours late. The train was in motion, and with a satchel in his hand Mr. Knight tried to get on the rear end of the smoking car. He caught hold of the hand-rail with one hand, when he was suddenly thrown be-tween the cars. He held tightly to the irons, however, and Officer Pyle, of the railroad rescuing him from his perilous position. Had Mr. Knight relinquished his hold he would have been cut to pieces. As it was he had a narrow escape. After waiting for the next train he left for the East. He will be gone for six or eight weeks, on a summer

THE NORTH BEND HORROR

THE THREE MEN SLAUGHTERED RE TWEEN ATGLEN AND CHRISTIANA.

Full Particulars of the Direful Calamity-Killer in the Twinkling of an Eye-How the Mud Train Swung Around the Curve and

A reporter of the INTELLIGENCER visited the place where the tragic accident occurred on the Pennsylvania railroad, on Monday morning, in which three men lost their lives and additional particulars were learned. The exact place where the men were killed is at and about three quarters of a mile west of Atglen station. The deceased belonged to a gang of men who work under John Dono were Harry Kennedy, William Conover and Joseph Mulvaney. There are and Joseph Mulvaney. There are more men in Donovan's gang, but the others were engaged cutting grass along the side of the road some distance away when the accident occurred. Harry Keller had been with those killed, but when they were struck he was away for water. The accident was witnessed by Mr. Scott Stewart, a very ntelligent young farmer, who was ha ing corn in a field on the south side of the track at the time. He says that the three men were working on the south track while a freight train was passing west on the north track. Suddenly the mud train came around the curve. It consisted of eight dump cars, which were being pushed by an engine is the rear. Before Mr. Stewart had time to do anything the three men were struck, and he saw their hats flying in the air. He ran at once to the track and the train had been stopped by the engineer in a short space. The three men were horribly cut, and all had been in-stantly killed Mulvaney was knocked from the track and his skull was terribly crushed. One arm was also cut and he is supposed to have been terribly injured internally. The other two men were run over by nearly all of the tighly between two tracks at a switch that it tighly between two tracks at a switch that it was only taken out with great difficulty. He was literally cut to pieces. The car wheels passed over his hip which was mashed. One leg and two arms were cut off and his intestines were out. The cars also passed over Conover and both his legs were cut off below the knees. He was also terribly cut about the head and body.

CLOTHES STRIPPED FROM THEIR BODIES The clothing was almost entirely torn from the bodies, and pieces are along the track for ome distance. Their boots were almost cut from their feet. There were large pools of blood at different points, and pieces of bones brains &c., was scattered in all directions. The shovels and forks used by the men were broken up. Immediately after the accident the mangled bodies were placed upon a hand car and taken to the station, at Atglen, where they were laid out in a tool house. A large crowd soon gathered and the excitement was intense.

Deputy Coroner Jas. A. Reynolds at one empanelled a jury, consisting of Robert Futhey, Hugh Rambo, esq., Dr. C. I. Reese, John B. Baldwin, Theodore Whitson and C. McGowan, and viewed the bodies of the men. The testimony of the following wit-nesses was heard. Harry Keller, repairman, who had been with the deceased; Scott Stewart, farmer, and the men employed on the train, which did the killing, viz: James Witherow, engineer; Thomas Waldron, flagman; John H. Hook, conductor; Frank Hamilton and Jacob Linville, brakemen, and

John F. Brown, fireman.

The testimony of the conductor and Brakeman Hamilton was to this effect. They were on the front of the train and the en-gine was pushing behind. On account of gine was pushing behind. On account of the very short curve and the other train passing west they were unable to see the trackmen until their train was within a few cars lengths of them. Hamilton at once yelled to them and signalled his engineer to stop. On account of the noise made by the other train it is supposed that the workmen did not hear the warning. The engineer stopped the train after it had gone about its own length but it was too late, as the men were under the wheels.

The engineer testified that he had whistled loudly before entering the cut, and had stopped his train as soon as possible after receiving the signal from Hamilton. The other witnesses testified to the facts as related to the facts as re-

The jury held a long conference and were anxious to render a just verdict. They found that the men came to their death accidentally, and released the trainmen from all blame. They consured the railroad company for running a train in a reversed position, as in this case, as they think it very dangerous. THE MUD TRAIN.

The train which did the killing is called the "mud" train. It is drawn by engine No. 232, and is used to haul dirt from the cut at Gap to a point just east of the cut at Gap to a point just east of Atglen, where a new road bed is being made. The train usually consists of from ten to fifteen cars, and in going east from Gap the engine pushed the cars from the rear, as they had no turn-table at either end of the trip. In this way it is impossible for an engineer to see what is in front of the train, and he must depend upon the persons occupying positions in the front. In case there is an object on the track he cannot stop as quickly as ject on the track he cannot stop as quickly as he could if he were running in front of the train. The curve at this point is very sharp, and the men in the front car could scarcely have seen the trackmen before they did.

WHO THE MEN ARE. Immediately after the inquest the bodies of the men were given in charge of Under taker Isaac Wilde, who washed and prepared them for removal to their homes where they were taken about 5 o'clock. Jos Mulvaney is the youngest man of the three, being but 19 years of age. He was a son of David Mulvaney, who resides in West Sads-bury township, Chester county, a mile and a-half northeast of Atglen. He was unmar-ried and had been employed on the railroad ried and had been employed on the railroad since the first day of May.

William Conover was 24 years of age. He resided at Atglen, and leaves a wife and one child. He was formerly a resident of Lan-caster county, having moved to Atglen from the neighborhood of the Nickle Mines some years ago.

Harry Kennedy was also a young man, his age being 23. He resided in the village of Atglen, and a wife and one child areaeft

WHAT TWO BERKS COUNTIANS SAW.

Mr. Thos. C. Zimmerman, of the Read-

Mr. Thos. C. Zimmerman, of the Reading Times, writing of the driving tour recently made by him and Judge Schwartz through this section, says:

After a short stay at Adamstown, they proceeded to Reamstown, the home of a thrifty population and the native place of the Mishlers, the Buchs and the Bushongs—all well-known and influential citizens of Reading. Here was readily recalled the old-time Battalia, which gave to Reamstown a reputation almost as wide as the state itself. In fancy we could see the Militz "mit Welschkornshoeck un Hoeke-shitel" parading the streets of that venerable town. streets of that venerable town.

"Es gross Battalia war in Mai.

For muschtere'un danze;

As Drum un Peif un bissel Geld."

A short distance beyond Reamstown, historic Ephrata, with its capacious hotels and charming residences, is reached. There is an air of refinement about this place—made so by the adornment of beautiful homes with bright mosaics of flowers in great pro-fusion—that is wonderfully attractive to the sojourner, as it must be a source of constant delight to those living there. The landscape around Ephrata is pleasantly diversified with hill and dale, and the people are intelli-gent and well-to-do.

BEAUTIPUL SCENERY. The country between Reading and Lancaster is more than commonly picturesque. Mountains and meadows, fields and flowers, woods and vales are delightfully intermingled, and at this season of the year all mingled, and at this season of the year all are eloquent with the songs of birds. The hill-sides are still glorious with the blossoms of the rhododendron, while all the roadsides are white with the flowering branches of buckthorn and blackberry vine. The air is laden with the fragrance of the eglantine and wild-rose, the leaf of the former when slightly pressed between the fingers being strikingly suggestive of the aroma of a freshly-plucked ripe apple, and yet bearing marked traces of the rose—the real inspiration of its fragrance. The crops along this portion of the route—we mean between Roading and Lancaster—are, on the average, fairly promising. This are, on the average, fairly promising. This is particularly true of the country lying im-mediately east and west of Lancaster, where the grain fields look well. In some places, in the several counties already visited, the hay-makers have already gone afield. The grass crop, however, is very poor.

THE CITY OF LANCASTER. The city of Lancaster, which was reached in the evening, in worthy of its fame, highly prosperous as its people are, and situated as it is in the midst of probably one of the most fertile agricultural dirtricts in the world. Its soldiers' monument, with its well-cut figures soldiers' monument, with its well-cut figures and splendid proportions, is one of the mos striking features of the place, occupying as it does a large space in the centre of the public square. It erection, we believe, was due to the generosity of the county—an example of patriotic devotion by the memory of its heroic dead, which ought to be emulated in every dead, which ought to be emulated in every county in the state. The newspapers—and the city has a number of them, all in a prosperous condition—are exceptionally well-equipped and well-edited. * * * * * * * The ride from Lancaster to York was attended with a great deal of pleasure on account of the good condition of the main public road which connects the two. Many of the farm buildings are of colossal proportions, but (to the conservative Berks county eve) they seem to be highly extravagant. eye) they seem to be highly extravagant. It is not an uncommon sight to see fields of extraordinary dimensions along this route fields of 80 to 100 acres each.

HON. RICHARD T. MERRICK DES A Review of His Long and Illustrious Career

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.-Hon. Richard T. Merrick, whose serious illness has been chronicled for the past week, died ortly after ten o'clock this morning.

has been chronicled for the past week, died shortly after ten o'clock this morning.

Mr. Merrick was 57 years of age. He was born in Charles county, Maryland, in 1828, Mr. Merrick came from a well-known Maryland family, his father William D. Merrick, having served in the United States Senate from 1838 to 1845. When the war with Mexico broke out, Mr. Merrick, although not of age, raised a company in his section, and under his command it did gallant service during the war. Before the conclusion of his services in the field he began the practice of law, and was also sent to the state legislature. Shortly before the late war he went to Chicago and formed a coparinership with a personal friend who was a leading member of the bar of that city. He was a delegate from Illinois to the Democratic National convention in 1860 and supported Stephen A. Douglas. In 1864 Mr² Merrick married a daughter of James McGuire, of this city, and shortly afterward removed from Chicago to Washington. In the twenty years that he has practiced in Washington he has held an eminent place at the bar, and has been engaged as counsel in some of the most important cases before the bench of the District of Columbia as well as the supreme court of the United States.

He was one of the principal counsel before

United States.

He was one of the principal counsel before the electoral commission, and in recent years was for months daily before the public in his able prosecution of the Star Route cases. He has never since the war been a candidate for any political place, except when he ran as the nas never since the war been a candidate for any political place, except when he ran as the Democratic candidate for delegate to Congress from the District of Columbia, under the territorial form of government. His Repub-lican competitor, Mr. N. P. Chipman, was elected. While a resident of the district he has always taken an active interest in the politics of his native state and his savings. politics of his native state and his service have always been in demand in the political campaigns. He has always maintained a concampaigns. He has always maintained a con-trolling influence in the politics of Mary-land, where his extensive acquaintance with the public men of the day has given him prominence in national politics. Mr. Mer-rick's personal qualities have commanded for him a large circle of friends and acquaintances, and the generous hospitality which he has dispensed at his home here has always formed one of the delightful features of formed one of the delightful features of Washington society.

Mrs. Merrick is very ill. She has been suffering the most excrueisting pain from abscesses in both ears, and she was sent away from home, as it was thought her presence as a witness of the suffering of her husband might endanger her life. One of the daughters is in Philadelphia under treatment for a spinal trouble, and another has a severe nervous complaint, which, aggravated by her falber's filness, has rendered her temporarily blind.

MITCHELL AND BURKE.

Arranging for a Contest for Supremacy—What the Former Says. CHICAGO, June 23.—Charles Mitchell came in from San Francisco yesterday. He looks well and weighs 171 pounds, about 10 or 11 pounds above his fighting weight. Mitchell went out to the driving park to see Jack Burke. The two men have long been anxious to get together, and it did not take five minutes to arrange a match. It was agreed to spar six rounds at Battery D on M evening next for the gate receipts. This will be the fourth time the twain have faced each other in the ring. Burke's first fight was with Mitchell, four years ago in England, where they fought with bare fists for an hour and forty-seven minutes, and then the referee declared it a draw. The fight was for the championship of England, and both men have since claimed that honor, as well as Alf. Greenfield. However, the champion ship is still a matter of dispute. Burke and Mitchell next faced each other in New York in a four-round contest that was also declared a draw, and shortly after they met again, but the sparring was so spirited that haven't the time, but I must make a good showing Monday night. It's to be my last match for a long time. I go out to do the

MADE MAD BY PANATICISM. A Recent Convert to the Salvation Army Run

minstrels, opening July 31st."

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 23.-A member of the Salvation Army, David Williams, created quite an uproar in his neighborhood this morning by rushing out of his house into the street with a butcher knife in one hand and a revolver in the other. People fled before him terror-stricken. An old woman named Davis, who was unable to get out of his way, was severely stabbed and a little girl playing on her parents' stoop was knocked over and tramped on. The maniac tried to kill his little granddaughter by tying her to a bed post and then hacking her with a knife. She was rescued by her mother before the murderer could carry out his threats. Williams has hereto fore been a hard working and industrious miner. He had only joined the Salvation Army last month. He says the Lord came to him last night and told him that to be a successful worker in God's cause he must make a human sacrifice. With that object in view policemen to capture the lunatic, who defied the 200 surrounding him to touch him.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 23 .- The white prisoners who escaped from Big Bear arrived at Middleton's camp this morning. They say that they had a hard, rough time of it, but it might have been worse. McLean says, while the Indians had plenty of provisions they were comparatively comfortable, but after that they suffered from hunger. The Wood Crees split off from Big Bear and urged the latter to give up the prisoners, who were allowed to start in for Pitt three days ago, alone. The Wood Crees have gone back to get a cache of provisions near the Catholic mission, on Beaver river. The prisoners are all in good health. McLean says no personal insult was offered either to himself or any member of his family. What a Reckless Shot Did. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 23.-Saturday last Carl Wall, 14 years old, son of Dr. C. Wall, went to the door of Parson's drug store in Gainesville with a rifle and fired at a crowd of boys who were standing by the counter. The ball first struck Charlie Mc-Clamrock in the side, glancing off one of his ribs. It then cut a lock of hair from the head of a little son of Leonidas Stedman and then struck Telfard, another son of Mr. Stedman, in the left eye and lodged in his head, where it still remains. Telfard Stedman cannot recover. Young Wall was arrested and placed under heavy bonds. He gives no explanation of the shooting.
