A STOCKHOLDER KICKS. An Injunction Granted Against Transferring the Franchises of One Reading Gas Company to Another. Judge Sassaman, of Berks county, hg

granted an injunction against the Reading ras company, restraining that company from leasing its property to the Consumers' gas company. A sharefulder of the Reading company, who nied the bill in equity, in his affigivit sets forth that the officers and hanagers of the Reading gas compropose and are about to execute or transfer of the entire plant company for a period of ninety-nine years, and to invest in that company for a period of ninety-nine years, and to invest in that company the sole and exclusive control of said property : and that the proposed lease is without authority and warrant of law : that the Comsumers' gas company has not since the time of its in-corporation, July 31st., 1882, proceeded to manufacture and supply gas to the public of the city of Reading, but has threatened to the officers and managers of the Reading com-pany to erect a competitive plant, unless the pany to erect a competitive plant, unless the Reading company would execute and make such transfer, and have thus used their char-ter for the purpose of compelling the execu-tion of such transfer. In the bill the plaintiff sets forth that the Reading company has no authority or power

Reading company has no authority or power in law to make such a leass, and that by at-tempting to do so it will turnish reason for a forfeiture and annulment of the charter of the company, at the instance of the common-wealth; that the Consumers' company has no authority to make such a lease or transfer; that it has forfeited its charter pursuant to the provisions of the act of June 13, 1853, entitled, a supple-ment to the act to provide for the incorporament to the act to provide for the incorpora-tion and regulation of certain corporations ; and the stockholders of the Reading company have no assurance that the agreement pany have no assurance that the agreement on the part of the Consumers' company will be performed, and, if the lease is made, it will be made to a corporation that is poten-tially and civilly dead. A draft of the proposed lease of the Reading gas works has been prepared by the counsel of the two companies, and Henry Baum-gardner, of Lancaster, Wm. L. Elkins and M. Malone, of Philadelphia, are examining it. After it has passed through their hands

After it has passed through their hands it will be submitted to the directors of the Reading gas company, and after the lease has been approved by the managers of both companies it will be submitted to the stockhold ers of the Reading company to vote upon the question of leasing the works to the Consimiers' gas company.

DEATH OF A SOLDIER.

Member of Geo. H. Thomas Post Killed at

Scranton

H. A. Mullen, of this city, a member of George H. Thomas Post 84, G. A. R., was killed at Scranton on Sunday. The Scranton Republican gives the following particulars of the accident :

the accident: "H. A. Mullen, a machinist who came to Scranton a few weeks ago and obtained em-ployment in the Iron company's shops, climbed over the fence skirting the high em-bankment between the Lackawanna avenue bridge and the D. L. & W. railroad bridge on Saturday afternoon. The top of the embank-ment is inclined. Mullen sat down and went to sleen. Presently he rolled over the emto sleep. Presently he rolled over the em bankment and made a sheer descent of twen-ty feet. He struck upon the Lehigh and Susty feet. He struck upon the Lehigh and Sus-quehanna railroad and was killed. The jury which Coroner Dean empanneled came to the conclusion that Mullen's death was caused by his rolling over the embankment while in a stupor. Mullen had no boarding house and slept about the shops. λ Grand Army of the Republic badge was found in a coat that Mullen left in the works. Messrs. A. B. Stevens and T. J. Thomas identified him as corporal of the Color Guard, 2034 Pennsyl-vania volunteers. The funeral will take vania volunteers. The funeral will take place to morrow. This is the first case in Lackawanna that comes under the new law requiring the county to pay for the burial of old soldiers." The deceased was about 40 years of age and son of the late Patrick Mullen, of this city Mary Mullen, his mother, with his wife and one son reside at No. 518 North Duke street. The decoased was a good mechanic and worked at Blickenderfer's foundry, and the shop of A. C. Welchans and others in this city. He left Lamouster before last Christmas in search of work. For several years he worked in the West, and came East about three years ago. An effort will be made to have the body brought to this city.

Askew, says that the difficulty arose between them in this way. He contracted with the firm to furnish them with a safe, and the price of the sait was to be taken from that of the sate. Because the safe did not come as soon as the clothiers expected it, Stiffel says, the suit was brought. Alderman McConomy says the testimony taken before him was to the effect that Stiffel went to the store of the complainants and bought a suit of clothes ; they declined to let him have the clothes unless he paid for them ; he said he would pay if they fit him, but he wanted to take them home and try them on ; if they did not fit him he would bring them back ; if they did hit he would give them a check for the amount. He took the clothes home, kept them and neither gave give them a check for the amount. He took the clothes home, kept them and neither gave check or money for them. He was repeatedly asked to pay for them and neglected to do so for some months. They threatened to prosecute him and he then asked them to take a safe in payment. Bather than get nothing they said they would take a safe. Stiffel showed them a catalogue of a York firm, of which he said he was agent. The prosecutors selected a safe and Stiffel promised to send it, but he did not do so. The prosecutors wrote to the York firm and received a reply that the firm would sell them a safe but that Stiffel was not their agent. Then they prosecuted Stiffel for larceny as bailee, and the alderman returned the case to court, as has been stated.

Family Reunion. A pleasant family reunion was held at the residence of Valentine Brobst, esq., at Rehrersburg, the occasion being the 72d birthday of Mrs. Valentine Brobst. Twenty two children and grandchildren were pres ent from Bernville, Leesport, Schuvlkill Haven, Myerstown, Womlesdorf and Lititz. The aged lady was the recipient of many presents and was congratulated. She is held in high esteem by her children and other relatives.

Another Cremation. From the Baltimore Sun. The remains of Mr. Frederick Eversman, sr., who died at his residence, $1 South Bond street, on May 31, will be taken to the erematory at Langaster, Pa., to-morrow for inclueration. It was the desire of the deceased to be cremated. The body has been lying in the vault of Balti-more cometery since Mr. Eversman's funeral.

attached to Fast Line at 6:05 this morning. They met at their asylum at 5 o'clock and headed by the City band marched to the Pennsylvania depot. Including the band seventy-six persons went on the trip. They will return to-night at 12 o'clock.

Letter Held. A letter addressed to Nellie Nelson, No. 1,038 Drosy street, is held at the Lancaster postoffice for better directions.

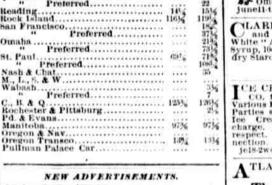

A Pretty Office.

Cyrus II. Colvin, who is again in the livery business at the old stand, has just fitted up one of the prettiest business offices in the city. It was made out of the old barness room in the yard. The room has been hand room in the yard. The room has been hand-somely papered, wainscoted, and provided with new gas fixtures. The furniture is of the best kind, and the office presents a very pretty appearance.

Not From " 'Squire Thon's Diary." A few days ago I visited my friend, Mr. Joseph Risser, of West Donegal, and he took speep Risser, of west bongal, and he tool great pleasure in showing me his young colt, a beautiful bright bay of good size and noble form. While trotting around the lot he showed very fine action. He is quite a trot-ter. This colt was sired by Col. Tom Scott, ter. This cold was sired by Col. Tom Scott, out of a fine large mare of very good breed and action, and Mr. Risser thinks he is the very best in the state. It may be so, but in speaking of it I find other patrons of Mr. Satton's famous sire lay claim to the same distinction. Therefore, I would suggest that all those people who have good stock, exhibit them this fail at the coming county fair, and then receive proper credit for their pains-taking in breeding good stock. CONSTABLE DERN'S RAID.

Twelve Tramps Committed for Short Terms to the County Prison.

Alderman Barr's office was crowded this morning, the occasion being the hearings of the twelve tramps arrested by Constable Dern and Officers Ritchey and Roadman in Manor township. The tramps gave the names of James Regan, Joseph Ryan, John Fisher, Wm. Reynolds, Nicholas Haus, Wm. Wogan, Wm. Simpson, John Souder, John Hans, Peter Lewis, David Martin and John McGuire. A number of farmers residing in the vicinity of Masonville testified that they were greatly annoyed by tramps this summer loitering on their farms and building fires on their land. They directed Constable Dern to arrest them, and the capture of the twelve above named was effected by him, assisted by the two Lancaster officers. The officers testified that they found the men lounging around the camp fires built on Mr. Martin's farm.

Mr. Martin's farm. Ten of the accused alleged that they had come from New Jersey and expected to get work from the farmers of our county during harvest. All claimed to be working men, and said their meeting on Martin's farm last week was accidental. The alderman commit-ted saves for dury and for for algorithm ted seven for five days and five for eight days.

An Historical Correction.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 23, 1885. EDITORS INTELLIGENCER-GENTLEMEN My attention has this day been called to an interesting sketch of the life of my friend, Col. Samuel Shoch, in your issue of the 3d inst, The truth of history constrains me to say that in a minor matter, a mistake has been made in the introduction of my name. I know nothing about the "serenade" referred to, except from rumor. I learned from James H. Weir, late cashier of the Harrisburg bank, that he was one of the screnadors on the occasion referred to. I hope the error will be corrected, more es pecially, if the article referred to, is re-pub-lished. Very Respectfully Yours, HAMILTON ALRICKS. HAMILTON ALRICKS. [In the article referred to it was stated that Mr. Alricks helped to get up a mock sere-made for Gen. Ogle and Ann Royall, on the occasion of that fumous woman's visit to Harrisburg over 60 years ago, when Gen. O. showed her such marked attentions.—Eps. [NT.]
