SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN THE SALISBURY CABINET.

An English Lord Who is Married to the Daughter of a Wealthy New Yorker-Comparatively Poor Until He Received His Present Cabinet Appointment.

The statement is made that the presence of Lord Randolph Churchill in the cabinet of the Marquis of Salisbury, means the non-renewal of the crimes act for Ireland. If this is the case the Conservatives begin office with the adoption of a policy in regard to Ireland which was Radical until Churchill thrust it down the throat of his party. That he should be able to do this and, at the same time assume the responsible office of secretary of state for India, is the most remarkable fact in connection with the transfer of political power from one party to the other in the United Kingdom and Ireland, Lord Ran-dolph Churchill knows nothing of office rou-tine, and his fitness or non-fitness for the appointment given him has to be demonstrated; but he is a leader and a power which had to be reckoned with in the formation of the cabinet. He is the third son of the sixth Dake of Marlborough, late lord lieutenant of Ire-land, and brother of the present duke. His mother was the daughter of the Marquis of Londonderry. He was born in the year 1846. In 1871 he was graduated at Oxford. Three years after he was elected a member of the House of Commons, and has held the seat ever since. Should Sir Stafford Northseat ever since. Should Sir Stafford Northcote be given an earldom, and hence take a seat in the House of Lords, Churchill would lead his party in the Commons

The young statesman is an able debater, and employs vigorous language in the expression and defense of his views, which as regard to exceptional legislation for Ireland, are sometimes not in harmony with those of his party. He distrusts Russia and is opposed to concession when British interests are assailed. In this respect he and the Marquis of Salisbury are in fall accord. Peace may be maintained with Russia, the Liberal oppo-sition, led by Mr. Gladstone, being the ma-jority in the House of Commons, and being able therefore to displease the ministry should grave occasion arise. At the same time there is greater danger of war now that the Marquis of Salisbury takes the place of the Earl of Granville as secretary of state for foreign affairs. Increased irritation between the

It will be necessary to go away from the city for burial."

PLAYING LIKE SCHOOL BOYS.

Lancaster Defeated by Trenton-Showing Much

Depreciation in Their Playing. For the reason that the Lancaster club had played such good ball on their trip, the people of this city were willing to overlook their defeats in Newark, on Monday and Tuesday. Yesterday a large crowd gathered at the park expecting to see a good game with the Trenton. In this they were disappointed, and before the game was over the audience was throughly disgusted with the home club, Some of them played more like a lot of school boys than professional men, and their errors were made at the most critical times were made at the most critical times in the game. For instance, in the second inning, when there were two men on bases a rather hot ground ball was sent to Flood. He should have stopped it, but it went through him to the fence. After recovering it, he al-lowed it to drop from his hand again and by the time it was fielded the batter bimself and two others were home. Parker was but little better in left field and had a couple of very ugly and dumaging errors. Outside of Knodell, the visitors played well in the field. The catching of that player was miserable and he allowed no less than four runs to be scored on passed balls, while a number of men reached first after having three strikes.

three strikes. Smith pitched for the home club and he was well pounded, especially by the poor hitters of the Jersey team. Tiernan was also hit quite freely, but it is very certain that he is too much by far for the home club. The score, in full, is here : The score shooting, with intent to kill of the Hon. Geo. A. Dunnington, editor of the Sentinel, and one of the best known men in the state. The cause of the dastardly crime is supposed to be set forth in the following anonymous letter received by Mr. Dunnington a few days ago, but which he at the time kept secret : GRAFTON, June 15.

GRAFTON, June 15. GRAFTON, June 15. DUNNINGTON: Wedon't want any dammed traitors in our party. If you have made a bargain with McGraw, come out and say so, so we will know which side you are on. We don't want to take a paper which pretends to be Republican and is published in the inter-ests of the Democrats. McCornick is right, and you are a renegade Democrat. I believe you had better leave this town, or you might wake up some morning and find yourself in hell. I see by the Eagle that you taik pri-vate to McGraw. You had better sell out to him and be done with it. A man who will kick a Republican out of office ain't a good Republican, and ought to be run out of town. Damn you, go, or we will make you. Dunnington saw fit to treat the letter with contempt. Last night he attended the tem-perance state convention as reporter for the Wheeling Intelligencer. After the adjourn-ment he remained in the telegraph office until after midnight. On returning to his hotel a man sprang out of an alleyway and leveled a revolver at his head. Dunnington struck down the pistol just as the trigger was pulled, and the ball passed through his leg. The would-be assassin fled, and, de-spite the closest search, has not been found. #### The Dreadful Series of Crimes of an Apparently Blameless Farmer.

Thomas L. Roach, 53 years of age, resided for more than a quarter of a century on one the most pleasant farms in Indian River Hundred, a few miles from Lewes, Del. His life seemed to be as blameless and his reputation for integrity was so great that for years he was arbitrator of disputes between his neighbors. His wife was some years younger than himself and one of the loveliest women in the county. They brought up six child-ren, the youngest of whom is a 13-year old daughter named Annie. On Tuesday night Mr. Roach committed On Tuesday night Mr. Roach committed suicide under shocking circumstances. For some months past Mrs. Roach had noticed that her husband was growing melancholy and morose, and that their youngest child seemed to be failing physically and anxious to avoid the other members of the family. Annie's strength gave way, and on being closely questioned by her mother she con-fessed that she was about to become a mother and that the father of her child was her own father. Mrs. Roach was almost heartbroken, father. Mrs. Roach was almost heartbroken, and it was many hours before she showed any signs of recovery from the nervous pros-tration the daughter's revelation had caused Upon hearing that his crime had been ex-posed the i ther grew desperate. He went to his room and took from a bureau drawer a razor, with which he cut his throat from ear to ear, but not deep enough to cause death. He then went to the topmost part of the house and jumped to the ground, but even this attempt at self-destruction failed, and he only suc-ceeded in breaking an arm. Besmeared with blood and dirt and with torn garments and a gashed neck, he made a third and successful attempt. He wont to the barn and to a rafter tied a rope, and climbing up on a high box, fastened the noose and gave the fatal jump. The body was found hanging from the rafter and was so warm that it was evident that death had occurred not more than thirty minutes previously. The grief-stricken mother is guarded to prevent her from taking her own life. The child, Annie, is in a precarious condition.

The ninety-first annual commencement exrcises of Linden Hall seminary were held to-day, and the quiet village of Lititz was thronged with visitors, many of whom were the relatives and friends of the graduating class and the young ladies attending the sem inary. The exercises this morning were held for the first time in the beautiful Mary Dixon Memorial chapel. The only decorations were ivy twined around the nillars on which the chandeliers rested and two large vases filled with flowers, placed each side of the pulpit.

The members of the graduating class were: Misses Ella Hacker, Lititz; Bessie Mayer, Lancaster; Annie Stubeline, Bethlehem; Annie Zook, Fort Worth, Texas; Edith Bailey, Lancaster ; Helena Hoch, Lancaster. The exercises were begun promptly at 10 o'clock, and the following was the protramme :

GEN. GRANTS CONDITION. His Case Stated by Dr. Shrady from Medical Standpoint.

Mr. McGREGOR, N. Y., June 25.-Dr. Shrady this morning prepared the following official statement of Gen. Grant's condition for the Medical Record : The progress of the disease from which Gen. Grant is suffering is, barring accidental complications, necessarily slow. Comparing the condition of the patient with what it was a month ago the changes which have taken place can be appreciated. Taking this period of time nto consideration it can be said that the swelling under the angle of the lower jaw on the right side has in creased, and has become harder and more deeply fixed. It has shown a tendency to progress in a direction downwards and forward upon the right side of the neck. The infiltration extending in the neighboring glandular structures and the pains in these parts, although fortunately not frequent nor severe, have a significance which can not be ignored. The ulceration on the right side of the base of the tongue has become deeper and more irregular, although its superficial area has not perceptibly increased. This is the seat of pain occasionally in swallowing and when certain examinations of the throat are made. The destructive process on the right side of the uvula is apparently quiescent, although a new portion of the margin of the palatal curtain is showing a tendency to break down. The voice has been reduced to a whisper, due partly to inflamation, involvement of vocal chords and partly to nervous atony of the latter. There is some improvement of the general's strength and some loss in weight, although the appetite is unchanged and the usual amount of nourishment is taken. The removal to Mount McGregor has so far proved beneficial. It has enabled the patient to recover lost ground, and this in a measure counterbalanced the effects of his local malady. Gen. Grant's condition shows no change since yesterday. He had a passable night with the usual wakefulness. which was offset by the morning's sleep. It is quite warm to-day and toward noon the general came out on the porch, wearing a skull cap and a sick room gown. The chair was thickly pillowed and with a blanket wrapped around him from the waist down he submitted to an out door photograph. He

THE DEAD GORDON'S DIARIES.

The Shaking Up He Gives the English Govern

ment for Its Indecision. A cable dispatch to the New York Post says of the "Diaries of Gordon at Khartoum" to be published by Kegan, Paul & Trench at London, that the contents are awaited with the liveliest interest.

The diaries fill 395 pages, and there are 154 pages of appendix. The diaries are a strange medley, and were written evidently in perfect sincerity, but varying in style, manner and subject from page to page. One page will be an abstruct discussion of the social and political aspect of the Egyptian problem. Then follows, perhaps, a page problem. reading like a Biblical commentary, with many scriptural quotations and cross refer-ences giving Gordon's peculiar views, which the editors have been compelled to make a great effort to explain in foot-notes. Then suddenly will come a bit of reminiscence of of reminiscence of life in England or elsewhere, or a story about some Arab child. Then he turns aside to discuss his own feelings and habits, and ends perhaps with a funny sketch followed by the claration that he is resigned to God's will.

Much is underlined. The following extracts will give an idea of varying character of the diary and of Gordon's opinions: "I am tossing up in my mind whether, if this place is taken, to blow up the palace and all in it, or be taken and with God's help maintain the faith, and if necessary suffer for it. I think I shall elect for the last."

"From a professional military point of view, speaking materially, I wish I was the Mahdi. I would laugh at all Europe."

Mahdi.' I would laugh at all Europe." "For my part I an always frightened, and very much so. I fear the future of all en-gagements. It is not the fear of death; that is past, thank God. But I fear defeat and its consequences to us. The near approach o the Mahdi has not troubled me. I have always felt that we should meet face to face ere the matter ended." (It will be remem-bered that Gordon's head was taken before the Mahdi, according to the latest ac

If you say, 'Make a rapid retreat and leave Senaar to its fate,' I will say, 'No, I would sooner die first.' If you say, 'Then you are no longer governor general,' then I am all right. All responsibility is on you." This is repeated again and again, and is the key of Gordon's whole view. whole view.

" If any emissary letter comes ordering me to leave, I will not obey it, but will stay here, fall with the town, and run all risks." The last entry is on December 14, and says : "Now mark this: If the expeditionary force (and I ask for no more than 200 men) do not come in ten days, the town may fall. I have done my best for the honor of my country. Good-bye."

The appendix contains a letter of nine pages from the Mahdi to Gordon, telling of the capture of Stewart and the consuls, giving the contents of many of Gordon's dispatches and adding: "Mo never miss any your news," and summoning him to become a Moslem or surrender. Gordon's only comment on this letter was, " Come on." Throughout the diary it is stated that the help of Turkey was the solution of the Sou-tion, sent in his resignation last night to the president of the league. The Lancaster pitchers cannot blame others for the miserable work this week. The hits made on them in the last three games have been: Wetzel, 17; Deagle, 16, and Smith,

Cut His New Wife's Throat and His Own.

Early Wednesday morning, on Meridian street, the most fashionable thoroughfare of Indianapolis, Ind., the apparently dead bodies of a man and woman were seen lying in an alley with their throats cut. The patrol wagon removed them as speedily as possible. The bodies were found to be those of Pobert Phillips, a colored laborer, and his wife. The husband had cut her throat and then his own, using a common case-knite. The wound are frightful lacerations. The woman was dead, but Phillips is still alive. It is believed he cannot recover. They had been married but three months. Jealousy is supposed to have been the cause of th

School Children Married.

After the graduating exercises of the boys' and girls' high schools in the Academy of Music, Reading, on Wednesday, it leaked out that two of the graduates, Charles P. Hoffman and Miss Sue E. Bickley, had been married as far back as April 9, last. The groom is the son of Rev. P. P. A. Hoffman, who is without a charge, and the bride is an orphan, and when she becomes of age will have a fortune of nearly $150,000 from her father's estate. The groom's father performed the ceremony, and the bride has taken her residence with the Hoffman family. She is only seventeen years of age.
