ar Correspondence of INTELLIGENCER.

COLUMBIA, June 27.—George Siewart, a dired plumber and gas fitter, of 916 North hird street, Harrisburg, had his pocket aked here on Thursday evening. Mr. Newart was attending to some business wart was attending to some billing on ursday. In the evening he purchased a ket for Harrisburg. The circus had at-cied large crowds of people from the surrounding towns and consequently the cars were crowded. As Mr. S., who is an old gentleman, was about to enter the car, he found the doorway blockaded by two men. It is the old story ; he pushed to get in while the men endoavored to get out. Mr. Stewart was not long in discovering that his pocket-book containing about $130 was missing. He looked about the crowd ; but of course the light discovering had assand light-fingered gentlemen had escaped.

Breaking up a Nuisance. The attention of the town officers had been drawn to the fact that for the past several months a crowd of young men and boys have been playing cards at the building sit-uated on the old Cooper lumber yard. This habit has been indulged in by a number of very young boys. Officers Wittlek and Gil-bert made a raid on this place yesterday about noon, and discovered a game in pro-gress and a number of boys engaged in watch-ing the players. Their presence at that place soon caused the game to stop rather abruptly and the players made an effort to escape de-tection. The officers secured some of the cards and learning the names of some of the players, although no arrests were made, but a warning given to the boys, to stop their playing. drawn to the fact that for the past severa

This the officers have also de-termined to abolish, and in future all who wish to indulge in the pleasure must do so after sundown. The rafts that line the river after sundown. The rafts that line the river from the coal shutes to Bruner's saw mill are constantly being used for this purpose. At the latter place boys, ranging in years from six to ten, can very often be seen playing in the water, as it is only about two feet deep at this point.

Police Intelligence.

Henry Smith, a cripple, has for the past few days been annoying people with appeals for money. The condition of the man has, in for money. The condition of the man has, in many cases, opened the hearts of the gener-ous, and they have responded to his appeals. With the money thus received the man pur-chased whisky for himself and his compan-ions. Yesterday he got intoxicated and be-having in a disorderly manner was arrested by Officer Struck on complaint of Charles Shillow. He was taken before 'Squire Frank, who sent him to jail for 30 days. Officers Wittick and Gilbert succeeded in finding the buffalo robe that had stolen from Mr. S. S. Detwiller, on last Thursday evening by Edward Shattuck, who is now in jail for 30 days. The article was found under a pile of lumber at E. N. Smith's lumber yard. Among the Churches.

A New Scientific Work

A New Scientific Work. "A Naturalist's Wandering in the Eastern Archipellago" is a valuable and, in many re-spects, good book. The author spent 5 years exploring the Cocos-Keeling Islands, Java, Sumatra, Timor, &c., &c., and here we have the result of his observations in this region, which is a very paradise to the naturalist. Geography, geology, botany, zoology, and ethnology are all enriched by the discoveries of the author, who is a close, competent and discriminating observer. The scientific in-terest predominates. There is not much ad-venture or sensational description. But yet there are some fascinating passages, rich and venture or sensational description. But yet there are some fascinating passages, rich and beautiful in form and matter. While the book cannot aspire to the same level as Alfred Russell Wallace's Malay Archipelago, it will prove, not only valuable to the scientific world, but also entertaining and instructive to every one who has a taste for travel or a love for the beautiful in nature. Excepting a few long and obscure sentences, as on p. 106, the style is clear, the maps and illustrations are careg fully prepared and to the point, and the gen-eral make-up of the book and the mechanical execution are admirable. execution are admirable.
