Would I were lying in a field of clover— Of clover cool and soft and scented sweet, With dusky clouds in deep skies and hanging over

And scented silence at my head and feet—
Just for one hour to slip the leash of worry
In eager haste from Thought's impatient rusl
And watch it rushing in its heedless hurry,
Disdaining wisdom's call or duty's liu-h.
Ah! it were sweet, where clover clumps a meeting, And daisies biding, so to bide and rest; No sound except my own heart's sturdy bea ing.

Rocking itself to sleep within my breast—
Just to lie there, filled with the deeper branth

That comes of listening to a wild bird's song;
Our sonls require at times this free unsheathing—
All swords will rust if scabbard-kept too long;
And I am tired—so tired of rigid duty,
Bo tired of all my tired hands find to do—
I yearn, I faint for some of life's free beauty,
Its looser beads, with no straight string run through,
Ay, laugh, if laugh you will, at my crude speech;
But women sometimes die of such a greed—
Die for the small joys held beyond their reach,
And the assurance they have all they need.
—Mary Ashley Townsend.

Miss Mamie Larkin Hatchet, the editor of The Southern Woman, published at Henderson, N. C., says in her salutatory: "A callow birdling nestles among you, its un-fiedged wings eager for flight, eager to penetrate the mysteries of the bright far-off canopy of blue and revel amid the dreamedcanopy of blue and revel amid the dreamedof beauties of the wide, wide world." And The Macon (Ga.) Telegraph, which is edited by a mere man, unfeelingly says:
"The Telegraph extends its strong right hand to the callow hirdling. Come, Mamie, and nestle right on top of our exchange pile, where the stained window may shed its soft roseate glow upon your unfledged wings. If you don't want anything you see don't ask for it. Mingle your carol, dear girl, with anything in reach; but drop the spices. They will arouse suspicion. No need to seek a refuge in the alten wood. Keep your seat!
There is no fire in the house! Warble right where you are; but if you're going to stick to journalism, better drop the Hatchet and get an editor."

What It Costs to Bury in Timur. The burial of a relative in Timur is a very serious and expensive business. It involves a gift to the deceased from all the blood rela tives, and, in return, a burial feast. If the deceased is a man of rank, this feast is a matter very often of ruin to his family. The festivity must be given, and at the same time the hospitality is expected to be extraordina-rily lavish. Consequently it often happens that the day of the funeral is indefinitely postponed for months, and even for years, until the family has had time to accumulate sufficient wealth of cattle and substance. In sufficient wealth of cattle and substance. In the meantime the corpse is enclosed in matting, and housed either in a tree or hut and left to itself. Then for days there is a mayage banqueting and revelling, and the interment at last is carried out. Among the more awage races of the Timur Laut islands and Timur the skull of an ancestor is severed after burial and kept as a relic in a place of honor within the house.

Should Begin at Home.

In his address to the students of the Worester Free institute recently, Gov. Robinson said that the teaching of handicraft should begin at home. Boys should learn girls' "work." "I thank my mother," said he, "that she taught me both to sew and to knit. Although my domestic life has always been felicitous, I have at times found this knowledge very convenient. A man who knows how to do these things, at all times honorable and sometimes absolutely necessary to preserve one's integrity, is ten times more patient when calamity befalls than one who has not these accomplishments." as not these accomplishments.

Hardened Liver,

Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism.
Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed upand filled with water. All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters: I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone from my liver, the swelling from my limbs and it has worked a miracle in my case; other wise I would have been now in my grave.

Row to Make Them 50—Keep Them in Health and They Will Take Care of the Rest.

The joy of every well regulated household comes chiefly from the children. Thousands of affectionate parents do not take care of their children. Through ignorance more than culpable neglect they suffer them to fail set and die, when knowledge might have saved them to love and home. Dr. David Kennedy offers his "Favorite Remedy" as emphatically a medicine for the children—gentie in its action, containing no harmful ingredients uchatever, going straight to the blood, which when impure, is the seat and source of disease. "Fivorite Remedy" is the friend of childhood and should be found in every nursery in the land. Keep it in your home for your children's sake, as well as for your own. Try it and you will be glad you saw this article. Make no mistake. The medicine is "Fucorite Remedy" and the proprietor's name and address: "D. David Kennedy, Kondont, N. Y. One dollar a bottle.
