THE SUPERINTENDING COMMITTEE. Mr. McComsey, from the superintending committee, submitted the following report: In accordance with a resolution of the board, your superintending committee re-port the following names of foreign pupils in our schools during the term just closed: Emma Sheaffer, South Duke street school, Miss Bundell, teacher, whole term. Henry Vogle, New street school, Miss Smith, teacher, whole term.

John Hartman, Ann street school, Miss Stahl, teacher, three months.

Jacob Hartman, Ann street school, Miss Lichty, teacher, three months.

teacher, whole term.

Mr. McComsey stated the above names had been gathered with considerable labor and over $200 was due for tuition. Many of the children had attended our schools for a number of terms and it was not right to tax our people to educate other people's children, and he made a motion that the secretary make out the bills and place them in the hands of a delinquent tax collector. The motion was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Hartman, from the property committee reported that the officers of the board had executed a deed to G. B. Marrow for the

The committee asked for authority to advertise for proposals for coal for the coming year and for instructions as to repairs to the buildings during vacation. The heating apparatus in several of the schools. Mr. Hartman said, required overhauling, and in those buildings in, which the furnaces failed to heat properly last winter additional heating apparatus would be necessary. The board by a unanimous vote authorized the committee to do what in their discretion was necessary to properly heat all the schools and also to advertise for proposals for coal.

Dr. Herr, from the book committee, made a verbal report. He stated that the committee had met with the teachers in consultation in reference to a proposed change in the readers. The teachers were divided as to the series of readers to recommend. At the meeting of the committee held this afternoon an agreement

Dr. Herr, from the special committee, appointed to investigate the difficulty following the admission of a pupil to Miss Suydam's school, submitted the following report:

Lancaster Cfry School Board.

Gentlemen: Your committee appointed to investigate the matter between Dr. McCormick and Miss Suydam relative to the admission of the Gormiey child to school, beg leave to report that they gave the matter sufficient consideration to justify them in saying that while they commend Miss Suydam for her strict interpretation of the rules, they found that Dr. McCormick seted only upon a custom, that when a child does not reside in an infected house, but simply visits it seldom, that the sixty day rule does not apply, but only a reasonable time is required to elapse before readmission. We therefore believe that the entire matter was a misunderstanding and would resolve that the committee be discharged from any further consideration of the matter.

A. Oblember.

The report was received and the committee discharged from any further consideration of the matter.

Mr. Hartman called up the question of adopting readers, as unfinished business.

Mr. McComsey said it was time the matter was settled, and he moved that the board proceed to select a series of readers.

Mr. Eberman favored a motion continuing the consideration of the matter until August, but the motion was laid on the table.

Mr. McElligott, as a member of the bool committee, submitted a report recommending the adoption of the Swinton readers, and he had read the communication as to the prices of the books. prices of the books.

Dr. Herr, chairman of the book committee submitted a report favoring the adoption of the Butler series of readers.

Mr. Byrne, the third member of the com mittee, did not submit any report.

The secretary read a communication from Lippincott & Co., setting forth the terms on which they proposed to lutroduce their series of readers.

Mr. Hartman moved that the board proceed to vote for a series of readers.

Dr. Wickersham quoted the state law governing the selection of readers, which requires that before books can be adopted, there must be a meeting of the teachers and directors, between the time teachers are elected and the opening of the schools. He had not understood that such meeting had taken place.

It was argued by several markets.

It was argued by several members that as the text book committee had met with the teachers, they represented the board and the provisions of the law had been compiled

Mr. Johnson raised the point that the board is not governed by the general state law re-lerred to by Dr. Wickersham, but the Lancas-ter city board is governed by special acts of assembly.

Mr. Eberman made a motion that the matter be postponed until the August meeting and that the teachers and directors meet on that evening in the girls' high school room.

As there were legal questions involved as to whether or not the board is governed by the state or a special law, that question was referred to the judiciary committee.

The chair ruled that Mr. Hartman's motion to proceed to a vote on a series of read-sion.

Mr. Eberman's motion to postpone until August was adopted by a unanimous vote. CURRENT BUSINESS.

The city superintendent was directed to ex amine Miss Margie E. Berner, an applicant for a school, as she was absent from it the county when the applicants for schools were examined. A Franklin and Marshall college scholar ship, to which the board is entitled, was voted to Charles Emory Long, son of John B. Long, a graduate of the high school.

NAM MATT PRIDY THE COMING MAN FOR STATE TREASURERS

Man is to Be Entered in the Race. Is It to Best Quay or to Crowd Out Candidate McDevitt ?

Fridy, who is now a justice of the poace at Mountville, and was lately prothonotary of Lancastor county, was for many years a clerk in Quay's office of secretary of state and is attached to him personally and to his political fortunes. In the last primary contest he parted company with most of his old political associates, opposed McDevitt and supported Quay. The Lancaster delegation is divided, but it is believed it could be made solid for Fridy. His friends, among whom are Senators Stehman and Mylin and Senate Clerk Cochran, conceive the notion that Quay recognizes the growing public distrust of his nomination and is looking for a soft place to drop; he could not find a more agreeable candidate than his long-time associate. On the other hand Magce is willing to accept any result rather than the triumph of Quay in his own nomination. Neither looks with favor on the movement for Longenecker, who is too much tinetured with Independent associations to suit any of the Stalwart rivals. Hence Fridy's friends have hopes that all the warring elements may be concentrated upn his support.

An act requiring the names of principals and their agents registered in the recorder's office in the county wherein their place of business is located.

An act requiring the names of principals and their agents registered in the recorder's office in the county wherein their place of business is located.

An act to enable city, county, township and borough tax collectors to collect taxes for the payment of which they have become personally liable, without having collected the same by expiration of the authority of their respective warrants, and to extend the time for a period of one year from the passage of this act. The governor sees no reason why these collectors should be reinvested with their official authority to save them from the consequence of their neglect.

An act for the better protection of the wages of labor and providing the manner in which the same may be collected. The governor says; "There are many good enactments in this bill, but it contains one provision so repugnant to justice and so unfair to employers that I am obliged to decline giving it my approval. Its third section, among other things, provides that no note, due-bill or other written security or evidence of the whole or any part of such wages, whether bearing interest or not, shall be deemed to be a bar to the protection of this act in the hands of such employe or his or her assigns, but the same shall be preferred and paid as if the said note, due-bill or, other written instrument had not been taken.' That is to say, if an employer gives to his employe a due-bill for wages, and the employe indorses and sells the due-bill to another, yet the employe can obtain his wages out of any execution against his employer, and the employer for the same wages held by an innocent purchaser of the due-bill. It is only necessary to state this proposition to show its manifest injustice."

THE TROUBLE ON THE RETURN TRIP. On the return trip of the ten cars up Madison, little trouble was found until Canal street was reached. From this point up to crowd of men and boys, whose sympathies were unmistakably with the strikers. At either corner of Halsted and Madison stood tifteen stalwart policemen, while at intervals of three blocks rested the wagons of the police patrol, manned by seven men, and ready to quell the first signs of an outbreak.

ready to quelt the first signs of an outbreak.

Arriving at Canal street the crowds broke into shouts of derision, and filled the air with deafening howls. The police guard were prompt to act, and quickly leaping to the sidewalk collared every turbulent person who could be found, and hustled them into the car which was now rapidly being filled with a motley gang. There was a delay of fully twenty minutes in three blocks mentioned. When again the train moved at a walk the crowd sullenly fell back in wholesome awe of the uplifted clubs and death
