RALPH BAGALEY BEATEN.

HIS MOTION FOR AN INJUNCTION OF THE SOUTH PENN DENIED.

Chief Judge Sedgewick, of the New Fork Supreme Court, Decides That the Plaintiff's Interest is in No Way Jeopardized and Refuses the Injunction Request.

Chief Judge Sedgewick, of the New York supreme court, on Wednesday handed down his decision on the application of Ralph Bagaley for the appointment of a receiver of the property of the syndicate of the South Pennsylvania company, and for a temporary injunction restraining further proceedings under a syndicate agreement with the American construction company pending a suit brought by him against W. K. Vanderbilt, the American construction company, the South Pennsylvania railroad company and others, including William H. Vanderbilt, W. C. Whitney, and James B. Colgate. In his opinion the judge thus states the case and

"The complaint asks a judgment which shall, among other things, adjudge that the syndicate agreement and the contract of the committee with the American Construction company are incapable of performance by reason of the incapacity of the South Pennsylvania railroad company to carry out the con-tract and further shall adjudge this plaintiff to be relieved of his obligations under the syndicate agreement by reason of the violation and alteration thereof by the committee and the other parties thereto and the other matters set forth in the complaint, and shall dissolve the syndicate or association of subscribers and shall wind up the affairs. The motion is for an injunction and receiver. "In case the plaintiff does not show that, if he should hereafter obtain the judgment now asked, his interests, as he states them will not have been in the meantime changed will not have been in the meantime changed or affected. He paid to the committee $220,000. His complaint asserts that he is not bound to pay any further upon a call by the committee. If his position be correct he cannot be con pelled to pay or risk any fur-ther amount of money. His only interest, then, relates to the money he has already paid.

paid. "The proportion of these shares and bonds to which the plaintiff would be entitled on a view favorable to him is 11-150ths. If he has judgment now in his favor he could have no more of this property than the part repre-sented by such a proportion. So long as no new call is made it cannot be shown that the defendant now intends to attempt a forfeiture of the plaintiff's interest and if it is made hereafter the plaintiff can obtain the proper protection. The only object in appointing a receiver would be to have the bonds and afe for the plaintiff if he have a judgment that he is entitled to a part of them. There is no proof or likelihood that the bonds and stock will not remain untouched until judgment.

"The motion is denied with costs and the plaintifl is required to give $1,500 security for

WHAT BAGALEY SAYS.

Ralph Bagaley says of the decision in New York as to his suit against the South Pennsylvania syndicate that the result gave him learly all he sought. He had not expected that a receiver would be appointed, but the decision secured him against future calls of the syndicate.

The present decision," he continued, " is a direct notice to the syndicate that the original contract, which was the only one I evecuted, is held inviolate and will be enforced by the court when the case comes up in regular form, which will be in October decision will by no means interfere with the building of the road."

GRANT TO BUCKNER. The Sufferer's Testimony to the Peace and Strength of the Nation. When General Simon B. Buckner, of Ken-

He said afterward, in a manner indicating that he was deepty affected by what had passed between them, that the visit had been purely of a private and per-sonal nature and that he did not feel at liberty to disclose what had transpired. "It was a wish on my part," he said, " to renew the old associations which existed between us before the war that led me to make the trip," General Buskner, while he refused to make public any portion of the interview, carried away with him a number, of slips of paper on which General Grant wrote ans-we's to his various inquiries. After some conversation as to their old contradeship and the general condition of public attairs, Gen-eral Grant wrote out, in a slow and steady way the following sentences:

Grant's Boyish Conceit.

In his "Personal Reminiscences" General Frant relates : "I was impatient to get on my uniform and see how it looked, besides probably wanting my old schoolmates-particularly the girls—to see me in it. But the conceit was knocked out of me by two little circumstances that happened soon after the arrival of the clothes, and which gave me a distaste for military uniform that I never recovered from. Soon after the arrival of the suit I donned it and put off for Cincinnati on horseback. While I was riding along a street of that city, imagining that every one was looking at me with a feeling akin to mine when I first saw Gen-eral Scott, a little urchin bareheaded, barefooted, with dirty and ragged pants held up by a single gallows—that's what suspenders were called then—and a shirt that had not seen a washtub for weeks, turned to me and cried out, 'Soldier, will you work ? No, sir-ee! I'll sell my shirt first.' The horse trade and its dire consequences were recalled to mind." The latter allusion is to an incident of which he thus tells There was a Mr. Raiston living within a

THE NORFOLK DEFEATED.

The Norfolk club played the first of their three games, in this city yesterday afternoon, and the attendance was about the same as usual. Deagle was in the box for the home elub and was batted rather freely by the Norfolks, who showed a great deal more strength with the stick than did the Lancas ter against Hughes. The Lancaster started out by making three runs in the first inning and the strangers followed with two,

In the sixth the home club made four more, and in the eighth the Norfolk tied the score by making five. It then looked like anybody's game, but Lancaster settled it by making two runs in the eighth inning, while their opponents were unable to get any more men across the plate. The errors of the two teams were equal in number, but those of the Norfolk were much more damaging, and Norfork were much more damaging, and their catcher had more passed balls. Parks, the umpire, left Lancaster in disgust yesterday, and when game was called a young fellow named Baird, from Pittsburg, was put in to fill the position. He seemed to know nothing about the game, and his de-cisions were of the worst kind. The audience cisions were of the worst kind. The audience hissed and jeered him, and finally, in the third inning, Powell, of the Norfolk, askeil for another umpire. Hofford was put in and he gave satisfaction. The score, in full, was :

KEYSTONE POLITICIANS CONFERRING. Randall, Curtin, Sowden, Scott, Storm, and Ermentrout Talk all Night. From the New York Tribune.

Pennsylvania Democratic congressmen filled a large share of the lobby at the Fifth Avenue hotel yesterday morning. A Tribune reporter saw there Samuel J. Randall, whose good-natured smile and twinkling eyes were overtopped by a big old-fashioned straw hat; ex-Governor Cartin, who looked taller, older and more lank in form in a suit of light tweed than he has ever been in a suit of light tweed than he has ever been pictured; W. H. Sowden, short, stubbed and sandy-whiskered; W. L. Scott, of Erie, slender and brown-faced, and shrewd in look and appearance, pulling continually at his long brown mustache; J. B. Storm, of Stroudsburg, and Mr. Ermentrout, "the Reading Dutchman." There was a rumor that these and other gentlemen had held a political conference on the previous night. They smiled and smiled and denied and de-nied each and every one of them, when ap-proached on the subject. "Why should we come all the way from Peunsylvania to New York to hold a conference ?" asked Mr. Ran-dall. "We could meet at home if we saw iit." man

"What was the object of your gathering ?" "I came to New York to see Mr. Tilden. "I came to New York to see Mr. Tilden, I shall go out to Greystone this afternoon. I came to the Fifth Avenue hotel last evening to dine with Mr. Scott, by his request and invitation. I am net disposed to talk for publication. There you have my brief." for publication. There you have my brief. With this the Pennsylvania leader closed his any conference of which the public should be apprised, nor have I anything to say for publication. I don't know anything of pub-lic interest. I have been at home, in Bellefonte, practically out of the world, since March. If there has been anything going on that the newspapers havcn't found out I don't know it. I came here to dine with Mr. Scott, being in the city on business." . "Why do all the reporters insist that we are holding a conference ?"said Mr. Sowden. "Nonsense. I'm here on business, the other gentlemen are here on business. We happened to meet, that's all, 'Bill' Scott knew some of us were here and made a din-ner party. Politics are slow in Pennsylvania. There are some removals of postmasters my way. There will be some more. I guess we shall get our share of offices in due season.

We are satisfied with Democratic victory." Mr. Ermentrout gave this reason for the gathering : " If you won't give me away, I'll tell you all about it. One of 'Bill 'Scott's I'll tell you all about it. One of 'Bill 'Scott's best race horses got a nail in its hoof. My grandfather was a blacksmith and Sam Ran-dall knows all about horseshoeing, and so we came over for a consultation over Scott's horse. We'll get him on his feet if you let us alone." Mr. Storm escaped on the morning train. Mr. Scott smilled when asked to "give up" the details or nature of the conference, slowly removed a Havana from his mouth, and mildly and blandly remarked, "You be blanked; this is our affair." Mr. Randall visited Mr. Tilden yesterday and all the gentlemen had departed from the city last night. The best attainable informa-tion is that the conference was held to come to an understanding and agreement as to the distribution of offices in Pennsylvania, and also had reference to movements in the coming state campaign. Mr. Randall and Mr. Scott are reported to hold the belief that Quay can be defeated by certain concessions in the make-up of the Democratic ticket. There is some difficulty between Mr. Scott and the state department that has prevented Pennsylvania from receiving recognition in the forcing service which was also a subject the foreign service, which was also a subject of discussion. The conference lasted until 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

the Navy Department to Find Out Why Three Cruisers Remain Unfinished-Appointments by the President of Several Postmasters-Other Notes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.-By the terms of the contract signed on July 23 and 26, 1883, by Mr. John Roach and Wm. E. Chandler, then sceretary of the navy, the three steel cruisers, Chicago, Boston and Atlanta, were to have been completed in Is months time from the date of the contracts. The period thus allowed for completing the vessels expired 23 and 26 of last January, nearly 5 months ago, and the cruisors are yet unfinished in Mr. Roach's yard at Chester. It is thought, however, that Mr. Roach may not be entirely to blame for this delay, and it is said that the secretary of the navy, before taking official action in the natter, will institute an investigation, with the view of learning just how far Mr. Roach is to be blamed and how far he has been legitimately delayed by the navy department and that upon the result of this investigation,

General Grant's Conditio

Mr. McGREGOR, S. Y., July 16-General Grant was wakeful last night until about twelve o'clock, but after that he slept very well. His pulse, when Dr. Shrady made early visit was 72, at dof good volume. There were no changes over night from the encouraging condition noted at yesterday's exemination. This examination showed no arrest of progress of the disease, but only a subsllence of the inflammation in the tissue and outlying parts. This inflammation is liable to reappear suddenly, and the purpose of the quiet enforced upon the general is to keep him from bodily and mental fatigue such as would surely bring back these annoyances Obtrusion like that of last evening, in which the offender was a Methodist clergyman from New York, is what is most feared. The general's disposition is to spend as much time as possible out of doors, which his physician want him to do. But nothing is more important than that he should be undis turbed by meddlesome people.

The New Congo State.

LONDON, July 16.-Henry M. Stanley, the African explorer to-day, received a delegation of prominent citizens who have formed a committee for the purpose of promoting English emigration to the Congo. They submitted a scheme for establishing an emigration bureau in London, having for its object the ssistance of families emigrating into the Congo district from the over-crowded wards in London, and explained the various details of the proposed plan. Mr. Stanley highly complimented the committee on its under taking and heartily endorsed the plans submitted. He expressed the belief that such a scheme as the committee proposed under government patronage could not fail to meet with success.
