A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

A LITTLE GIRL FEARFULLY ACALDED AT CORDELIA.

The News from the Northwest Quarter of the County-A Runaway Accident-Held for Stealing Cigars-Close of a Fair. The Picule Season,

Regular Correspondence of INTELLIGENCER. COLUMBIA, Pa., July 22.-Clara Eshleman, aged three, daughter of Mr. John B. Eshle-man, living at Cordelia, met with a terrrible man, itving at Cordena, met with a terrifore accident at her home on last Saturday after-noon. The child was playing on the porch and by some mishap fell over a bucket of scalding water that was standing near by to be used for cleaning. The result was that the little girl was scalded very badly. Dr. George W. Berntheisel, of town, soon responded after being sent for and partially relieved the sufferings of the child. The larger portion of the child's body received the hot water and the most intense suffering was endured by the little girl. At first it was thought that the scalds would be of a fatal nature, but the child is on a fair road for recovery, although still suffering considerable Runaway Horse. The horse and wagon belonging to Chris tian Musser, a farmer living near Columbia was tied to a post in front of the store o Fred Bucher, yesterday afternoon. Becom-ing frightened the horse began backing to and fro and at last succeeded in breaking the post to which he was attached. When the horse got loose he ran up Locust street at a rapid gait with the post hanging about his legs. The horse was captured after running a few squares. No damage was received by either the horse or wagon. Held For Trial.

Joseph Hoffman, who was arrested on last Friday, for stealing cigars from Henry Eberly, at Durlach, had a hearing this morning at Squire Evans'. Mr. Eberly was pres ent and testified that on the night of the 28th of June, a man was seen prowling about the store. In the morning 2,200 cigars were missing. The party stealing them had first entered the basement of the store, but not being able to get up stairs, got a ladder and in this manner made an entrance into the second story. The cigars were hid in a coal bin at a brick school house near the store, and were taken 1,000 at a time and sold through-out the country. The man could not be identified by Mr. Eberly, but as the cigars were in his possession and he had admitted ent and testified that on the night of the 28th were in his possession and he had admitted the guilt, Squire Evans sent him to jail to await a trial at the August court.

The Brotherhood of the Union held a fair in the Armory during the latter part of last May and at its close had several articles that were not disposed of on account of not having a sufficient amount of money on each different article. heree fire was raging. The fact of the fire was not generally known to outsiders until this morning. For the past two days a large force of men have been engaged in fighting the fire, which is now reported to be under control. Owing to a strong current of air, which carries off the sulphur fumes, the mine on the west side of the shaft continues to be worked steadily.

$75,000 Loss at Pittston.

A $75,000 fire broke out in Pittston on Fuesday afternoon and destroyed two store-houses, the Pittston Milling company's grist mill and Henry Conway's and Michael Berry's dwellings. Ross & Co., are the milling company, and their loss aggregates nearly $60,000. Ford owned the old cracker factory, used as a storehouse and his loss is probably $3,000. Other losses will aggregate $5,000. One span of the Ferry bridge was destroyed, and in falling carried four men with it, but none were seriously hurt. Wilkes-barre and Scranton fire companies yere pres ent and rendered efficient aid. The bridge will be at once repaired.

and battery. It appears that Van Nostran accosted Mrs. Binkley on the street at high noon yesterday, and walked some distance with her; that Mr. Binkley overtook them near the corner of Lime and Chestnut streets; and, walking up behind them, struck him a blow that felled him in the gutter. Mr. and Mrs. Binkley then walked home arm in arm. Van Nostran's account of the affair is that he wanted to see Prot. Woodward, and called at the plano store in East King street, above Duke and finding the door locked, he sat down on the steps. Mrs. Binkley, whom he did not know, was standing some doors above and bowed to him. On reaching the corner of King and Lime she dropped her parasol, and after picking it up, again nodded to him. Thinking she might be a freind who at that distance he did not recog-nize, he followed her. When he came up with her, she begged to be excused, saying she had mistaken him for a gentleman from whom she had bought a pisno. He said he had not sold her a piano, but was in the plano business, adding if he was infrud-ing he hoped she would excuse him. She said no harm was done, or words to that effect, and they walked on together until Mr. Binkley' came up and assaulted him. Mr. Binkley's side of the story will be heard to-morrow at 3 o'clock p. m., when the hearing comes of at Alderman Deer's.
