THE "LAST HYMN."

The Sabbath day was ending, in a village by the sea,
The uttered benediction touched the people tenderly
And they rose to face the sunset in the glowing, lighted west,
And then hastened to their dwellings for God's blessed boon of rest.

But they looked across the waters, and a storm was raging there:
A fierce spirit moved about them—the wild spirit of the air—
And it lashed and shook and tore them, till they thundered, groaned and boomed,
And alas for any vessel in their yawning gulfs entombed.

* * * * * * * * *

Nearer the trembling watchers came the wreck, tossed by the waves,
And the man still clung and floated, though no power on earth could save.
"Could we send him a short message? Here's a trumpet. Shout away!"
'Twas the preacher's hand that took it, and he wondered what to say.

Any memory of his sermon? Firstly? Secondly? Ah, no!
There was but one thing to utter in the awful hour of woe;
So he chanted through the trumpet, "Look to Jesus! Can you hear?"
And "Ay, ay, sir!" rang the answer o'er the waters loud and clear.

Then they listened. He is singing, "Jesus, lover of my soul!"
And the wind brought back the echo, "While the nearer waters ro'l."
Strange, indeed, it was to hear him, "Till the storm of life was past,"
Singing bravely from the waters, "Oh, receive my soul at last!"

He could have no other refuge! "Hangs my helpless soul on Thee:
Leave, ah! leave me not." The singer dropped at last into the sea,
And the watchers, looking homeward through their eyes with tears made dim,
Said, "He passed to be with Jesus in the singing of that hymn."

A Georgia Idyl.

From the West Point (Ga.) Press.

Six miles east of West Point, in Harris county, live two remarkable old people. They are Benjamin Gamill and his wife, respectively 75 and 76 years of age. They are now living on the same place that they took possession of when their young hearts were first united and they together started out to fight the battle of life. During these long years they have moved but once, and then not more than half a mile. Starting life in poverty they worked together, and many thousands of dollars have been the result of their combined efforts. Sober, honest, and high-minded, the old gentleman has lived to a good old age, and his good wife is still with him to shed light on a peaceful home—and they together realize that a merciful Father will not forsake his faithful children. Many children blessed the union of this happy old couple, eight of whom lived to reach manhood and womanhood. The death of a son and son-in-law placed six additional helpless children under the care of this worthy old couple, and they have lived to see nearly all of them grown and able to take care of themselves. Tongue cannot tell the anxiety, the labor, the care that the rearing of these children has cost. Neither is it possible to tell the amount in dollars and cents it has required to supply their many wants, but those who have had the care of a family know that unusual prosperity must have blessed their lives or the task would never have been accomplished. A most remarkable fact is that the youngest of their children—now the mother of two children—was born after Mrs. Gamill had reached the age of fifty odd years. The old spelling book used by Mrs. Gamill, and from which she learned her A B C's, is now in her possession, and the dates alone show the great age of the book. It has been carefully preserved, and will no doubt be handed down to grandchildren's children as a relic of rare value. A few days since this venerable old couple passed through West Point driving a fine young mule, on their way to visit a son and daughter in Alabama, 50 miles from their home. The old gentleman does his own blacksmith and wagon work, runs a farm, lives at home—and lives like a lord—while the companion of his life for half a century is the same sweet wife that she was when she first vowed for better or for worse she would love and cherish him through life. Well done, good and faithful servants. When the messenger shall come and call them to rest from the toils of life, how pleasant to think they may enter the gates together. So mote it be.

Is Wall Street on the Wane?

N. Y. Corr. of Baltimore Sun.

Another question is frequently asked of late: "Has not Wall street seen its best days?" Thus the inquiry is put, and the questioner generally proceeds to answer his own question by saying: "Wall street reached its zenith in 1881. The disasters that have followed with such startling rapidity ever since that period have unsettled public confidence in Wall street. It will take years before the public will ever be induced in large numbers to invest in stock exchange operations. Stock speculation has seen its best days. Take Jay Gould out of Wall street and how little is left. There is to be an improvement in business, of course, but Wall street will share in it only to a limited extent.

"The public will not soon forget the tragic events of the past two years. They will not forget how thousands of homes have been wrecked, how reputations have been blasted, how confidence has been destroyed by Wall street; and they will not forget that Wall street broke the heart of General Grant and hastened him into his grave."

Dr. W. H. Wilson, of Springfield, Georgia, says: "Hunt's Remedy is the best medicine for dropsy and kidney diseases that I ever used."

Dr. Gilbert Clark, of Warren, R. I., says: "Hunt's Remedy for dropsy and kidney disease, is a standard remedy. aull-1wdeod&w

If Your Liver Reminds You

Of its existence by dull pain or sharp twinges in the right side, or beneath the dexter shoulder blade, accept the reminder as a warning, and regulate the organ without loss of time, by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The above symptoms are usually accompanied by yellowness of the skin, constipation, furred tongue, disorder of the stomach, sick headache and morning nausea. But a reform is promptly instituted by the Bitters, the best possible substitute for calomel, blue pill, and other superpotent and hurtful drugs, erroneously designated as remedies for biliousness. Appetite and digestion are restored, and the bowels resume activity, when an impetus is given to the functions of health by this sterling anti-bilious medicine, which also has the effect of enriching and purifying the circulation, and fortifying the system against malarial infection in air or water. It is also highly beneficial for rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles. aug12-19

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Can you tell who is in the greatest danger of catching any infectious or epidemic disease? "Why," you say, "the person whose blood is in an impure or impoverished condition." Exactly. Such persons take special complaints as dry grass bursts into flame before the sparks of a locomotive. Pure blood is a defense; it means safety, and Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the mildest, safest and surest purifier of the blood. Our chief dangers are within ourselves. aug10-1meod&w

Who does not delight to see a good looking face? Yet erysipelas disfigures the features almost beyond recognition. But this is not the worst of it. This disease is as dangerous as it is repulsive. It is sometimes called "St. Anthony's Fire," and often causes sudden death. Mr. S. B. Carpenter, of Grandville, N. Y., had it in both legs and was cured by Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. The medicine excels all others for the blood. Especially adapted to persons in feeble health. aug19-1meod&w
