A Card F rom Mr. James B. Best. EDS. INTELLIGENCER: Referring to hallenge in your issue of February 27th, for contest with the Union or No. 1 fire engine a contest with the Union or No. 1 fire engine which I purchased from the city, I would state here, that I do not accept a challenge of that kind, as they do not state what results they propose to accomplish, and do not think it would amount to anything if I did, as my impression is that all fire apparatus is property of the city, and not of individuals. I am well pleased with my bargain. The enrine has been thoroughly tested and found to be A No. I, in every respect. It is now in the hands of the painter, Mr. Jas. B. McKillipa, and when finished I will give a public exhibition, and then let merit win; and to prove that I hold no animosity against any one in this matter, I hereby tender the use of the engine to the chief engineer of the fire de-engine to the chief engineer of the fire de-partment, should occasion require, and will furnish the engineer and fireman without cost to the city.

Yours truly, JAS. B. BEST.

Shooting at the Park.

This is the first day of John H. Cline's pigeon shooting tournament at McG-ann's park. Owing to the terrible cold weather, the crowd is not as large as was expected, but there are many gunners here from a distance. If the weather is better to-morrow that will be the big day. Many gunners are expected from Philadelphia this evening and to-morrow morning. The tournament may be prolonged to three days in case of the cold weather to-morrow.

They Will Make Fight. At a meeting of the local policy-holders of the New Era Mutual Life Insurance company, in this city, yesterday afternoon, it was almost unanimously resolved to resist the attempt of the company to collect assessments from persons who long ago forfeited their policies by declining to respond to further levies.

THE EDISON INCANDESCENT. Its Superiority as a Light and Its Economy as Against All Competitors.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer. Since the gas company has sent our circulars proposing to reduce the price of gas to large con-sumers, considerble interest has been awakened in the public mind as to what effect this will have on the beautiful Edison incandescent lamps that are so rapidly coming into general immps that are so rapidly coming into general use. The Enquirer man meeting Mr. A. Stuart, the genial, whole-souled manager of the Edison company, asked him it the proposed reduction in the price of gas to large consumers would ma-terially affect the Edison business.

"So far as the reduction in price is concerned." said Mr. Stuart, "it will not interfere with our sales in the least. The Edison incandescent light can be and is produced by parties who have their own plants at a rate equal to gas at from thirty to seventy cents per one thousand cubic feet, according to the amount of light used. Even if gas were reduced to thirty cents per housand (which is about one-third what it cost to make coal gas), it would hardly interfere to an appreciable extent with our business, as the Edison light being so much superior to gas in point of brilliancy, convenience, safety and desnliness, it would still be introduced fully as apidly as now."

"Is it true, Mr. Stuart, that the Edison light gives out no heat, and does not vitiate the atmos-"Yes. There is only about one fifteenth as much heat emitted by a sixteen candle power power Edison lamp as by a five-foot gas jet, which gives about twelve to fourteen candles of light. There is no consumption of air, as the electric current merely passes over the carbon, making it glow in the air-exhausted globe. There is no flame, no combustion, consequently no consumption of atmosphere by an Edison lamp, while a five-foot gas burner, on the other hand, consumes or destroys as much oxygen in an hour as the breathing of four men in the same length of time. Neither is there any danger to person or property in the Edison Light, as there being no flame or appreciable heat emitted by the lamp they cannot set anything—not even ben. ine-aftre, nor will they damage or scorch the finest fabries by continuous contact. The cur-rent is harmless; the main wires or even the poles of the largest Edison incandescent dynamo may be grasped with the naked hand with impunity by anyone, and would not hart even s

"Have you sold many plants lately ?"
"Yes. We have just put in for the John Shillto Company a 250 light plant, have over 1,300 lights in use in the Grand Central Depot in this city, 250 lights in the Euraet House, 400 in the Ea quirer office; Russell, Morgan & Co., have 250 and many others in this city have plants of various sizes. Altogether we have over 4,000 lights in use in this city, to say nothing of the interior of the State."
