A Wedding in Jewish Society.
At noon to-day Miss Amelia Loeb, daughter of Jacob Loeb, of this city, was united in marriage to Jacob Rothchild, of Columbia. The wedding took place in the Jewish synagogue, and was private. Only the friends and tives of the contracting parties were present. Mr. Jacob Loeb, father of the bride, and ber sister, Mrs. A. J. Jessel, of Columbia gave the bride away; Mr. and Mrs. Moses Bachen helmer performed a similar moses Bachen neimer performed a similar service for the room. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Morris Ungerleider. After the wed-ling the bride and groom were driven to the Department and the service of the serv Pennsylvania railroad station, where they took the train for New York.

Fred Stroble at Liberty. Fred Stroble, who was in juil for rape, received his pardon this morning and was released at once. Heand Michael Lentz were sentenced to fourteen years' imprisoneach sentenced to fourteen years' imprisonment on the oath of a young girl residing near Lititz. The story was always believed to be thin, and it is pretty certain that the crime alleged was not committed. The men always declared their innocence and aithough they have had several opportunities to escape from prison they never took advantage of them. It has been some time since proceedings were first commenced looking to a pardon. Lentz's health falled after being confined and he died some time ago of consumption. Stroble served four years and sumption. Stroble served four years and nine and a half months. To day Stroble was walking around the city. He is an intelligent looking German, and he says he will go to Philadelphia to-morrow to reside.

Mr. Lee Should Watch His Stove.

As Private Watchman Chas. Weaver was passing the hat store of Jno. A. Lee, on North Queen street, last night, he saw the stove was entirely too hot for safety. He called the attention of Geo. H. Miller, restaurateur, to the danger; Mr. Lee was roused up and the stove was cooled off. Otherwise there would have been a fire, as sing the hat store of Jno. A. Lee, on irroundings were already sco rehed.

Thrown From a Horse. This afternoon as Wm. Taggart was riding s berse up South Queen street, the animal frightened at a team behind him. Taggart was thrown off and besides having his head bedly cut was bruised about the body.

A Desperate "Last Card" Trick. It was given out late to-day, that the Lamp Committee would meet at 6:30 this evening, (just before council meeting) and recommend gas for the city, on a bid from the Gas company that just came in. This will be as weak as it would be desperate, in as much as the other competitors for lighting the city might also make another bid if they had a chance. Council-men, see to it that any such unfairness as this on the part of the committee of your own creation is

The Light Question.

Ms. Editor: In justice to the Lamp Committee, who have given their time and labor without cost in trying to get for the people of the city the best possible light for the least amount of money, and have been assailed by the New Bra in numerons articles published by them, allow me to state that the New Bra being allow me to state that the New Era being well paid for upholding the incandescent Light, not because they think it the best light, according to Mr. Geist's own statement made in a certain bank that the incandescent Light was no good for street lighting, and the best Are Light in use at the present day was the Thempson-Houston. Should the people of our sity be so deceived. No. If the Lamp Committee would have listoned to the advice of the New Era when the haxim Light Company had our city in a tight place they would have paid out of the city funds $6.500, and the compromise with Maxim company cost our city $6.500, which could have been prevented as shown by their last bid. I would ask of the business man to councils if they would as individuals deal or transact business, with a company in that way.

Incandescent Light company are so anxions for the street lighting is, that it would give them the right to place their poles and run their wires all over our city for their individual benefit. One of our best electricians says there is not a city in the whole world with the area of Lancaster that is lighted by Incandescent Light, and it is folly for them to undertake lit. Connellman consider well.

Excursion to Columbia. The excursion to Columbia Friday evening to attend the skating rink exhition on Friday evening bids fair to be a large one. Stormy Nights and a Dark City.

To the Editors of the INTELLIGENCES.

As your readers are well aware, we have had stormy nights ever since last Thursday night at eleven o'clock, and I have been noting with peculiar interest, as a resident of one of the outer wards, the horrible condition of the city during this storm. Note the record made by the police nen as to the number of lights which falled to See to it, citizens who are comnelled to live in the suburbs or in the alleys. that your representatives in councils give you a light that cannot be affected by storms, AND THE EDISON IS THE ONLY LIGHT THAT WILL TO THES!

Barnes' Directory of Lancaster. The advertisers in John H. Barnes Annual Directory of Lancaster whose copy has not been collected are kindly requested to have their copy ready, as far as possible, within the next few days, as canvassers will wait upon them for the same. Business men who blocked the Wilmington concern by calling at 10k East King street, and demanding (and securing) the sur-render of their contracts when the discovery was made that, though canvassed for a county directory it was only to be a city book, can inrease their space in the Barnes book, if they so crease their space in the Barnes book, if they so desire, by leaving their orders at the office of John H. Barnes, No. 13 No. 15 North Duke street opposite the Court House. By the way, the system of enumerating all heads of families by NXMRER as well as by nome, which will be one of the new features of the Barnes book, has met with great favor. The book will positively be want to delivery the first week in May and as ready for delivery the first week in May, and as those who take the names from door to door, as well as those who print the directory, will all be Lancaster men, the publication will be as absolutely free from errors as it is possible for a book to be when dealing with many thousands o
