A SENATORIAL BROAPADE.

Sample of the Mistakes Made in the Polygic Circles of Washington.
Washington society has had a small sensation to talk over. It has had the run of the clubs, and has been a light and breezy topic at a number of receptions. It relates to the peculiar escapade of a certain rich and pop-ular senator. He was at a reception in the northwestern part of the town not long ago, and escorted there a married lady who is well and favorably known in the social circles of a large Eastern town. The reception was crowded and the refreshments furnished were of the most liberal description. When the senator left be had with him the lady whom he had brought. The senator's car-riage had been ordered, but he was appariage had been ordered, but he was apparently confused, either from excess of refreshments or from the mental fatigue which comes to every public man who is too devoted to statesmanship. The carriage just ahead of his was that of a well known foreign minister. The wife of the minister was already in the carriage. She was waiting for her husband.

The senator, in the confusion about him.

already in the carriage. She was waiting for her husband.

The senator, in the confusion about him, thought that his companion had entered his carriage and that the minister's carriage was his own. He stepped briskly in, took his seat beside the wife of the foreign minister, and was driven off in spite of the calls of his companion, who vainly tried to notity him of the error he had made. As the carriage drove off the lady was heard to exclaim: "You have carried off my night-key with you." The wife of the minister speaks no English. The carriage containing the sensitor and the wife of the minister had not gone more than half a block before violent and prolonged screams were heard coming from the interior of the carriage.

They were followed by the two doors of the carriage opening, the wife of the minister going out on one side and the senator coming out on his hands and knees on the other door. A friend of the senator rushed up to him and helped to brush him up. The lady was helped back into her carriage and matters were then straightened out. The senator company the proposed in the open carriage and matters were then straightened out. ters were then straightened out. The sena tor a moment later departed in his own car

The story has been circulated so freely The story has been circulated so freely that the wife of the senator has heard of it. She has pluckily gotten up a version of the story which differs a little from that just given. She says that she was the lady who was out with her husband and she was the one who was left behind when the senator made his strange mistake. She told the story at a recent dinner party, convulsing her auditors with the skill with which she related it.

One of Theodore Thomas' Rebukes Theodore Thomas gave a recent illustration of his courage in rebuking disturbers of musical entertainments, of which he has before given proof. During the first performance of Lakme one of the proscenium boxes at the New York Academy of Music was occupied by a well-known belle and a was occupied by a well-known belle and a party of friends. This young lady, who sat well in front, overlooking the orchestra chairs, paid no attention whatever to the music or to the comfort of the rest of the audience, but seemed to consider herself in a private parlor, and so carried on a lively conversation in a loud tone, greatly to the annoyance of both the musicians and the audience. After this had gone on some little time, Mr. Thomas, who was conducting the orchestra, was seen to call an attendant to him and the attendant then went to the young lady's box. One of the gentlemen with her lady's box. One of the gentlemen with her then spoke to her, and she was seen to change countenance, and for the rest of the evening there was no quieter person in the house than she. The message that Mr. Thomas sent to her was that if she continued the disturbance he would rise in his seat and ask a vote of the audience on the question whether they preferred to hear her conversation or the music. This same your gave offense in the same way a few nights previous at the Metropolitan opera house.

Miss Fassett's Picture. I ran across a Democratic member of Congress yesterday who was brimful of indigna-tion over the purchase by the joint library committee of Mrs. Fassett's painting of the electoral commission. "In the first place," electoral commission. "In the first place," said he, "it is not a good specimen of American art. No private collector of any taste would have it in hisgailery at any price. But besides that it represents an occurrence the most disgraceful in American history. We might just as appropriately decorate the capitol with a picture of the battle of Bladensburg, or the murder of Lincoln or Garfield, as with this delineation of the theft of the presidency? I feet very much like offering a resolution to I receivery much like offering a resolution to have it altered so as to represent Judge Black as he poured out his vials of wrath upon the commission, and then instruct the library committee to have it hung in the supreme court-room, so that Joe Bradley might see it daily."

"Hill--Governor Hill," explained the mutual friend, a little disconcerted.

"O, to be sure," and Cable tightened his grip and took on an aspect of adulation to atone for his remissness. "I am giad to meet you."

"And I didn't quite catch your name,"
said Hill. "Cable, was it?" The novelist, you know," interposed the friend, now somewhat perturbed.
"Of course," said Hill, rousing himself now to a show of pleasure: "very glad to make your acquaintance."

An Ex-President's Unsettled Account. Ever since ex-President Arthur was re-moved from the collectorship of the port of New York a balance of $7.47 has stood on the New York a balance of $7.47 has stood on the books of the treasury against him. He has declined to acknowledge the indebtedness, on the ground that he was not responsible for the causes of the apparent deficiency. The treasury also holds ex-Collector Robertson, whose appointment prompted the resignation of Roscoe Conkling from the Senate, and who used the entire machinery of the New York custom house to advance the presidential ambition of Mr. Blaine, responsible for $13,001 yet unsettled in his accounts. He, like Mr. Arthur, refuses to acknowledge the debt, and the commissioner of customs has recommended to the secretary of the treasury that suit be brought against both gentlemen

That a contaminating and foreign element in the blood, developed by indignation, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive sub-cutaneous covering of the muscles and liga ments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggregating as a calcareous, chalkey deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact, which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, has stronger evidence to support than this, namely, that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and atructous disease, nor is it less positively established that it is preferable to the poisons often used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is also a signal remedy for maintal fevers, constipation, dyspepsis, kidney and bladder aliments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.

SPECIAL NOTICES. We should have Better Preaching 11 the preachers were all sound and healthy men. Calvin may have had the dyspessia, but it did him no good as a theologian. A Methodist minister, of flariford, Conn., writes that Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Bemedy" cured him of chronic liver disease and indigestion. His breth ren of all denominations are respectfully invited to note the fact. Sick preachers are in poor condition to proclaim the gospel news. Sound bodies are wanted.

GLASSWARE. HIGH & MARTIN.

A Few Facts.

Housekeepers in selecting wares for your tables, etc., especially those just buying new outfits, it is important that you select the best in the market. How embarrassing to a lady, especially if she has table pride, and what lady should not have, to find that her ware is all full of small cracks, and that grease has penetrated and made it look black and ugly. A cause and a remedy. All semipercelain or granite ware in its biscuit state is porous. It is then covered with natural or artificial glass to prevent its penetration by liquids. This is termed glazing. The glaze must vary as it must fuse or melt according to the ware upon which it is placed. It must also dilate or contract in proportion to the biscuit or else it will crack or craze and produce the above

Unequal or insufficient firing or burning mayfand will sometimes produce the same results.

You may, and will no doubt ask, " How then can you tell whether you are getting a good article?" Simply and only by buying those makes which experience has taught dealers to recommend as the best and take their guarantee

CORNER OF DUKE AND VINE STREETS, LANCASTER, PENN'A. Monday, March 22, 1886,-10 A: M. and 2 P. M.

AT TERMS-NINETY DAY NOTE; SIX PER CENT. OFF FOR CASH. TO GREATEST OF SALES, GREATEST IN NUMBERS, GREATEST IN VARIETY. FINEST IN FINISH, ALL STYLES AND GRADES. ALSO, A FEW SLEIGHS,

First Class Vehicle at Low Prices is astonishing, but we do it, and as proof, we refer to any buyer at former sales. Over 660 jobs sold at former sales and not 20 worth of repair. Our sales in Lancaster city and county in the last few years are larger than any two retail factories in the city or county. We manufacture more than any three factories in above mentioned district. This is no paper talk, buts fact. A public inspection is invited to examine work. Procure a bargain. Don't listen to abunive, lealous and lying competitors, but attend and see for yourselt. Sale MONDAY, MARCH 22, 1886, at 10 a m. and 2 p. m. TERMS—Ninety days, with approved security: six per cent. per annum off for cash.

CARD—We know some of our competitors have abused our reputation on account of holding sales and reducing the price of a first-class job, but we challenge them again, as before, to produce as much first-class stock, or construct a finer vehicle of any style. We mean business, and those it concerns can have satisfaction by calling on or addressing Norbeck & Miley.
