Thieves Steal $75 Worth of Silk From Watt Shand and Try the Same Game on The two thieves who yesterday morning were successful in stealing a piece of silk containing one hundred yards from Watt & Shand made a similar attempt at larceny at H. Z. Rhoads' jewelry store, at noon yesterday. One of them entered and asked to see some diamond rings. Several fine jewels were taken from the show some diamond rings. Several fine jewels were taken from the show case and while Mr. Rhoads (who was alone at the time) was showing them to him the second thief entered, and after walking up and down the store room, hurriedly, said he would like to look at some gold chains. The diamond ring customer told Mr. Rhoads he was not in a hurry, and could walt on the other customer. Mr.

could wait on the other customer. Mr. Rhoads thanked him, but was prudent enough to gather his diamonds together and enough to gather his diamonds together and lock them up before going to attend the gold chain customer. This fellow was rather hard to please. Several chains were shown him that did not suit, and when he found one that he liked, he proposed to take it in exchange for one that his sister had given him. Mr. Rhoads' suspicions being aroused, he kept his eyes watchfully on both his customers, and carefully locked up his chains before renewing his attentions to the diamond purchaser. The fellows pretended not to know each other, and left without purchasing. They answer the description of the thieves who fleeced Watt & Shand exactly, and they played exactly the same racket at both places.

Perris Bros, Lancaster City and County Direc tory.

Ferris Bros., publishers of the Lanca for Di rectory, would respectfully announce that they have made an important change in their plans or the issue of their directory for 1886. They for the issue of their directory for 1886. They have hitherto contemplated publishing the syear a directory of Lancaster City-alone, in tending to postpone the publication of their well-known County Directory until next year—as their intention was to print the County Directory every third year. In the partial canvass of Lancaster city that has been made, however, they have found such a universal demand for a convolution of the county of the count complete City and County Disserver, that they have determined to comply with this demand, and to publish their LANCANTER CITY AND COUN-

TV DIRECTORY again this year.

All persons who have favored them with orders for the City Directory alone, will receive the complete city and county book; and those whe have not ordered are advised to reserve their orders for Ferris Bros. ; and thus get a complete county book.

The great extra work which this change of plan makes necessary, will, of course, take more time, and make the CITY AND COUNTY DIRECTORY later in appearing than the city book alone. No pains will be spared to make the work complete and reliable. Experience has suggested many improvements, all of which will be added to th coming issue. The running head lines will show what each page contains; there will be a com-plete list of postoffices, arranged alphabetically and by townships, and also a full list of the justices of the peace and constables throughout the county. Advertisers will note the vast advant tage of advertising in the county book, and sub-scribers will not need to be reminded of its immense superiority in convenience. The taking of names in the city will be totally suspended until after April 1st.

Telephone Connections Kerr, Weitzel & Co., lime burners, and Union Hotel, Daniel Hoak, proprietor, Wrightsville, York county, are connected with the telephone Rally for Ireland.

Don't forget the Irish mass meeting in the court house on Wednesday evening (St. Pat rick's Day.) Stirring addresses will be delivered for the cause of Irish freedom.

Barnes' Directory on May 1. Inasmuch as the Wilmington Directory con-cern, (after having had a number of contracts cancelled, because they were taken under the pretense that it was a county book when it was only intended for a crry book) may be regarded as a rather uncertain publication—certainly un-certain as to what it is to be—there seems to be no sure prospect of a business man getting a di rectory this spring save by subscribing to the Barnes book, if he has not already done so. The names for Barnes' directory—unlike the Wilmington affair, which started to take names some time ago, before the April changes had taken place and before, in many instances, those changes could be known—will not be taken un-til after the first of April; but the composition on the advertisements will begin next week, so on the advertisements will begin next week, so that the book will positively be ready for delivery the first week in May, and it will contain the names of all persons down to the age of 18 years, a system by which people may be found by number as well as by NAME, and many other features wholly unknown, heretofore, to Lancaster directories. No county book—to be worth anything—can be rotten out, before, ally or Anything—can be rotten out, before all the contained of the contained out. anything-can be gotten out before July or Au gust. Don't wait all summer on a directory; and if the canvassers—a number of whom are now waiting on our business men—should miss any one, those so missed may send their orders to No. 13 North Duke street, opposite the Court Bouse.

The Troubadours .- On Tuesday evening Sals bury's Troubadours will appear in Fulton opera house. This company is so well known to Lan-caster people that it seems unnecessary to say anything about them. There have been many companies of their kind before the public, but these were among the first to organize and have been the most successful by far. Nate Saisbury, Nellie McHenry and John Webster are the three bright lights of the company. They will present for the first time in this city their piece entitled "Tom, Dick and Harry," which has been a great success. A special train will be run to this city from Quarryville on Tuesday evening, return ing after the show. The Black Flag.-This evening Edwin Thorn and a strong dramatic company, will play "The Black Flag" at the opera house. The play is one of the best, and it has been seen in Lancaster several times during the past few years. Mr. Thorne is well known as an excellent actor, and he always carries good support.

BUSINESS COLLEGES.

"What I Know About Them." My condemnation is not what an education contains, for I believe it would be a very excellent thing for a young man or woman to know Greek, or Latin, or Hebrew. I say yes, if it could be given them as one would a bonnet, or an acre of land, or a yoke of exen. I believe in a baseness education not for one class, but for every class. I wish every young man in the country had a good business education, or such an education as should fit him to fill acceptably and usefully the position of a good merchant's clerk. I wish every man had such an education—every young man especially.—Horace Greeley.
