- For the INTELLIGENCES.

  These useless cannons lying here
  Around old San Marco.
  Have silent voices now to tell
  Of death dealt long ago.
  They've lived beyond their day—
  And now it seemeth meet.
  That I, who always hated war,
  Should make of one a seat.

PERSONALS.

DR. SCHLIRMANN tells us the women of pre-bistorie Greece wore corsets. EDITOR WATTERSON is slowly gaining strength and preparing for a trip to Europe.

JOSEPH COOK MAYS: "If I had a long that was addicted to smoking I would shoot him." It would pay better to exhibit the remarkable brute.

SAM Jengs says: "A man said to me the other night: 'Jones, I wouldn't have missed your sermon for $10,' and yet, when the plate was passed around that man put in a copper cent."

Rev. Dr. Theodoric Pryon, of Virgina, father of Gen. Roger A. Pryor, is in his eighty-first year and in the fitty-fourth year of his ministry. It is said "he preaches with as much frequency, fastness, fluency and force as he did forty years ago."

as he did forty years ago."

CHARLES DICKENS was wont to say to preaching clergymen in reference to their audiences: "Help them by setting forth the history"—of the events recorded in the New Testatment—"in narrative, with no fear of exhausting it. You will never preach so well, you will never move them so profoundly, you will never send them away with half so much to think of."

PRILAR MOUR is probably the richest man with half so much to think of."

PHIL ARMOUR is probably the richest man west of New York and Philadelphia and east of California. He is rated at about $15,000,000. In 1864 he packed his whole fortune into a gripsack, went down to New York and sold pork right and left to the tune of a million or more clean profit. The fall of Richmond knocked pork from about $40 down to $18 and lifted the Western pig-killer to the ranks of the millionaires.

the millionaires.

THOMAS JEPPERSON WAS quite a naturalist, and during his residence in Paris he kept the four principal colleges, Harvard, Yale, William and Mary, and the College of Philadelphia, informed of all that happened in the scientific circles in Europe. When Jefferson went to Philadelphia to be inaugurated vice president, he carried with him a collection of fossil bones which he had obtained in Green Brier county, Va., together with a paper for publication, in which were formulated the results of his studies upon them.

Ex-Senator Davies announces that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination of heutenant governor, disputed by Montooth, of Allegheny, and further says: "I myself, indeed, would not feel very much inclined to go on the ticket without General Beaver, and he has given me personal assurance that I should be given the second place. It is not at all, you must understand, a question of the old ticket of 1882. Senator Greer is in the canvass, and Marriott Brosius, of Lancaster, is apparently not taking a hand, though he has written me a very kindly letter, and is enthusiastic over the prespects."

Why He Flirts No More. From the San Francisco Chronicle,

He doesn't flirt no more. He has no use for personals, in fact he has never sworn off at all; he simply gave up. A man is very stupid sometimes. He does not look critically at his wife, and he is altogether too fond of believing in the confiding quality of womanbelieving in the contiding quality of woman-kind. A few weeks ago he took his wife to the theatre. On the opposite side of the dress circle sat a pretty girl in a red bonnet, and she was looking around for somebody to devour. She wanted to flirt, and when a woman wants to flirt she's never too ugly or too old to be accommodated. She had two or three young men about town on the string. They pretended to be deeply interested in the play but they kept their glances on a pair of eyes under a red bonnet. In the most guileless and innocent way he fell a victim to the pretty girl, and with that natural wickedness of the sex she was more desperately intent on the married man than on the single ones. Two days afterward there was a personal in the paper:

RED BONNET—THEATRE, THURS-day: you were so pretty; send address

He sent a messenger boy up with the card to the newspaper office and got a reply. It was his wife's handwriting. It read:
"I don't think you need to advertise me." And he went home and found his wife sitting in the parlor. She had just come from calling and she wore a red bonnet. And he did not say a word, but the next time he went to the theatre he asked her carelessly not to wear that bonnet, and she knew the had not made any mistake.

How He Found His Room. Washington Letter to the Augusta (tia ) Chron

A young fellow from the South, after some office, told me that he had fallen in with a gentleman who was among the first rewarded under the new regime. This gentleman, being of a social turn, at nightfall asked his companions to take a drink, Several times this invitation was repealed, until the jolly fellow thought it was time to go home. He had forgotten where he lived exactly, but he knew the street, After vain attempts to locate his boarding house, he remembered there was a butcher shop opposite his place and that the butcher knew him. After trying numerous shops without success they hit upon the right one. Having found the house and entered with difficulty, the jolly fellow did not recollect his room's number or position. At last he said to his soberer companion: "If you can find a room with a man asleep in his boots on a sofa and an empty whisky bottle on the table, that's my room takes that recambent attitude." Search was made and in one apartment, sure enough, such a conwarded under the new regime. This genrecumbent attitude." Search was made and in one apartment, sure enough, such a condition of affairs existed. The joily fellow took up the empty bottle, examined, and dropped it with a sigh. He gazed at the suffering, stupefied man on the sofa, and then flung himself on the bed, boots and all. What a temperance sermon must the blessed Sunday light as it crept into that boozy lair have preached to the two men with swelled heads and aching brains, as they looked at one another!

The Lawyer's Prayer.

From the St. Paul Pioneer Press. A St. Paul clergyman relates the following incident: "Some time ago, as the story runs, W. W. Erwin, the criminal lawyer, pressed for a little change, dropped into the office of D. W. Ingersoil and asked him for the loan of §5. Mr. Ingersoil decimed to the loan of §5. Mr. Ingersoll declined to make the advance, but suggested that, instead, if Mr. Erwin would go into the basement with him he would pray for him. Mr. Erwin consented, and the two went into the depths, where on bended knees Ingersoll prayed long and well for his brother man. When he had concluded Erwin said: 'Now, I'll pray.'' Mr. Erwin's prayer was a peculiar one. It was delivered at the top of his voice, and consisted of an exhortation to the Lord to direct Ingersoll how to dispose of his vast wealth wisely. As he warmed up the putch of his voice raised materially, and Mr. Ingersoll grew nervous and urged him not to pray so loud, as it would bring those up stairs down. It was of he avail. The exhortations grew more fervent, and finally became howls. Then Ingersoll, with a despairing exclamation, sprang to his feet and said, "Stop praying, Erwin; here's your §5." The devotions ended at once."

An exchange says: There are more puns made on Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, free of charge, than are paid for by the owners. A good thing deserves the notice they receive.

In the treatment of rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, sciatica, &c., Saivation Oil should be thoroughly rubbed in. It kills pain. Price 25c.

GLASSWARE. HIGH & MARTIN.

A Few Facts.

Housekeepers in selecting wares for your tables, etc., especially those just buying new outfits, it is important that you select the best in the market. How embarrassing to a lady, especially if she has table pride, and what lady should not have, to find that her ware is all full of small cracks, and that grease has penetrated and made it look black and ugly.

A cause and a remedy. All semiporcelain or granite ware in its biscuit state is porous. It is then covered with natural or artificial glass to prevent its penetration by liquids. This is termed glazing. The glaze must vary as it must fuse or melt according to the ware upon which it is placed.

It must also dilate or contract in proportion to the biscuit or else it will crack or craze and produce the above

Unequal or insufficient firing or burning may and will sometimes produce the same results.

You may, and will no doubt ask. " How then can you tell whether you are getting a good article?" Simply and only by buying those makes which experience has taught dealers to recommend as the best and take their guar-

BUSINESS COLLEGES. What I Know About Them. My condemnation is not what an education contains, for I believe it would be a very excelent thing for a young man or woman to know Greek, or Latin, or Hebrew. I say yes, if it could be given them as one would a bonnet, or an acre of land, or a yoke of caxen. I believe in a business education not for one class, but for every class. I wish every young man in the country had a good business education, or such an education as should fit him to fill acceptably and nascinity the position of a good merchant's clerk. I wish every man had such an education—every young man especially.—Horace Greeley.
