TRAMPS RAISING CAIN.

THEY MAKE THINGS LIVELY IN AN OLD COLUMBIA STABLE.

Too Much Whisky Consigns Four of Them to Jail for Ten Days—What Is Now in the Real Estate Market—Religious Intelligence—Town Notes in Brief.

Regular Correspondence of the INTELLIGENCER.

COLUMBIA, Pa., March 29.—On last Saturday afternoon a number of tramps were in the old stable on the Columbia coal wharves and were raising a general racket. The men were supplied with whisky, and they drank too much of it, getting into a highly state of intoxication. Some of the tramps had arranged a prize fight and were knocking each other about in a very lively way. The disturbance assumed such proportions that Officer Hardesty was sent for. He soon arrived, and some of the tramps made their escape. Four of the crowd were arrested. One of the men was so drunk that he had to be taken to the lock-up on a wheelbarrow. During Saturday night the tramps began fighting among themselves and the officers had to separate them. They were taken before 'Squire Frank where they gave their names as William Harris, Thomas Ryan, John Kelley, John Relley. They were sent to jail this morning for ten days.

Real Estate News.

C. C. Kauffman, attorney for the estate of John Jones, deceased, sold on last Saturday evening at public sale the property at the corner of Third and Union streets to Jacob W. Stauffer for $1,610. Stocks of the Electric Light and Supplee Steam Engine companies were also sold.

C. C. Kauffman, esq., sold to George W. Rinehart at private sale one of Bachman & Forrey's new houses on Walnut street, near Eighth, for $1,290 34; also one house to Geo. McClain.

Religious Intelligence.

On the last Sunday of every month, at the United Brethren Sunday school, the class contributing the highest amount of money during the month is awarded the banner. Considerable rivalry exists between the classes taught by John Klingbeil and T. S. White in giving the highest amount of money. Mr. Klingbeil's class contributed $17 and Mr. White's $12 64. The former class was awarded the banner. The Sunday school collection for the month was $40.

After brief and appropriate exercises in the post room Gen'l Welsh post, No. 118, attended services in the Trinity Reformed church last evening, 140 members of the post listening to an excellent sermon delivered by Rev. J. H. Pannebecker.

On next Sunday evening, April 4th, the Brotherhood of Railroad Brakemen will attend the Trinity Reformed church, when Rev. Pannebecker will deliver an appropriate sermon to the organization. The members will meet in their lodge room at 6 p. m.

Salvation Army.

The meetings in the armory held by the Salvation Army attracts large crowds to that place, but at almost every meeting considerable disorder prevails. On Sunday evenings a silver collection is taken at the door before any one can be admitted. This keeps a number of young people outside, but they gather about the premises and their conduct is very bad. The door of the armory if often locked and this causes many young boys to pound against the door for admittance. The attraction at the meeting is "Brother Danny," a dwarf, lately arrived from York. Large crowds attend the meetings, but the recruits are not very many.

Town Notes.

A special meeting of council will be held on Tuesday evening when the question of erecting a fire escape at the Opera house will be considered.

The pay car of the Reading & Columbia railroad was in town to-day and the employes received their wages for February.

Ada Gray and company will be in the opera house, on Friday evening, April 2, when "East Lynne" will be presented. The company will be under the management of the Knights of the Golden Eagle. This actress ranks very high in this performance.

A surprise party was given on last Saturday night at the residence of Peter Hoffman, on Walnut street, in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Hoffman. About seventy-five persons were present, and the time was spent enjoyably.

This morning workmen commenced putting on the corrugated sheet-iron roof at the new mill of the Columbia iron company.

Mr. Wm. Clark is at Millersville to-day attending the funeral of his nephew, Rathvon Lintner.

George Wanbaugh, of Harrisburg, a typo at the Patriot office, is visiting his parents in Columbia.

UP AND DOWN THE STATE.

The first catch of Delaware shad arrived at Philadelphia on Saturday from Pennsgrove, N. J., consisting of 550 fine fish.

A. Hoeble, of Lebanon, has confessed that revenge prompted him to fire his father's barn, a large Swiss structure filled with valuable farming implements, grain and ten head of cattle.

Col. J. C. Kintner, of Mehoopany, Wyoming county, committed suicide Saturday afternoon by shooting himself in the head. During Governor Hoyt's term he was a member of his staff and up till within a short period was deputy internal revenue collector, when he was succeeded by a Democrat. Business troubles induced the tragedy.

William H. Bernhart, justice of the peace for a long time, at Fleetwood, died very suddenly Saturday morning, of heart disease. He was sitting at the breakfast table with his family and while in the act of saying grace he threw up his hands and fell back dead.

Easton's town council has voted to appropriate $18,000 to buy an electric light plant to light the streets, instead of gas. The contract was awarded to the Western Electric Light company. The plant will consist of 120-horse power boilers and engines and dynamos producing seventy-five lights.

F. C. Granger was managing a carnival and dog circus in and around Harrisburg, where he found a blind man named Brooks, from the Philadelphia institute for the blind, and offered him $15 per week to play Blind Tom. Granger signed contracts as F. H. Regnard, the legitimate manager of Blind Tom. Granger has been arrested, and Brooks is in Johnstown, where Granger nearly succeeded in his game, waiting for money to take him to Harrisburg.

Last Fall's Great Apple Crop.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

Notwithstanding the approach to the end of the season the market continues full of winter apples. Dealers who have large quantities in store say that they are yet realizing how large the crop of last fall was. One of them remarked on Saturday, "the West is full of them, this city is well stocked, New York city has more than she can handle, and there are plenty to yet come from the points of production—New York state and portions of the Eastern states." He expresses an opinion that there will be plenty of apples in market at present prices until the warm weather rots them. They were offered on Saturday in car load lots at from $1 to $1.50 per barrel, the latter comprising the best varieties in the market. In smaller quantities about 25 per cent more is asked.

Complaint Dismissed.

Oscar Reese, who was arrested a week ago as an inmate of the House of Refuge, was dismissed by Alderman Deen this morning, it appearing that his term in said institution was about to end, and the managers had given him leave of absence. The charge of larceny as bailee made against him by John McCorkle, of Coatesville, was also dismissed. It appeared that Reese had stolen a revolver from McCorkle, and had failed to return it. This morning he handed it over to Alderman Deen who was authorized by McCorkle to receive it.

Family Reunion.

There was a social reunion of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Booth, corner of Prince and Orange streets on Sunday. The occasion was the arrival home of three of their sons whom they had not seen for some time. A number of invited guests were present and an enjoyable time was had.

Keeper Shenck's Last Week.

Business still keeps brisk at the station house. Fifteen vagrants were accommodated with lodgings at the station house on Saturday and Sunday nights and discharged this morning.

The Millersville School.

The Millersville school, which has been closed for several weeks, reopened to-day. The business of the street car line has been very big, as students with ponderous trunks are arriving on every train.

A RANGE EXPLODES.

Terrific Accident in the Kitchen of D. A. Altick's Residence.

Shortly before seven o'clock this morning a terrible explosion occurred at the residence of Daniel A. Altick, Chestnut and Prince streets. Several domestics were engaged washing clothes in a basement kitchen when the range exploded. The stove was broken into small pieces and every pane of glass in the window of the building was shattered. A rear door was open at the time or the wall would likely have been blown down. Pieces of the stove flew in all directions, and marks were made in the wall and ceiling. A chair that stood near the stove had a leg cut off as completely as though it had been done with an axe. At the time of the explosion a boiler containing hot water was standing on the stove. It was blown to one side and the contents were spilled around the room. The fire of the stove was scattered about and a large pile of clothing near by was set on fire. Everybody in the neighborhood heard the explosion and in a short time a number of people were at the house.

The fire of the clothing was quickly extinguished but the damage was considerable. The explosion occurred about the time that the Lebanon train was passing the house and many believed that the boiler of the locomotive had exploded.

When the stove blew up two women were working near by. A stave of one of the wash tubs was broken and Mary McManus had her arm slightly injured by a piece of stove, which struck her. The stove was not connected with the water pipes in any way, and it is supposed that the accident occurred from the gas which generated in the stove. It is believed that a cartridge, such as are used by miners, may have been in the coal.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY.

The Residence of Sam Matt Fridy, at Mountville, Visited by Robbers.

This morning about 2 o'clock an attempt at burglary and robbery was made at the residence of Sam Matt Fridy, Mountville. The noise made by the burglars was first heard by Mrs. Fridy, but as a train of cars was passing at the time it was supposed to be only the rattling of the cars. After the train had passed the noise continued, and Mr. Fridy got up and struck a light in his bedroom. Then there was a low whistle given evidently by one of the burglars who was on the watch, and his accomplices beat a hasty retreat.

An examination of the premises showed that the burglars had first tried to force their way into the house by breaking open one of the parlor windows with a jimmy. Failing in this they attacked one of the front windows of the sitting-room, which looks out upon the veranda. The window was broken open and the thieves were in the act of entering, when Mr. Fridy lit the lamps in his bedroom, and they were called off by their accomplice as above stated.

A few minutes afterwards Benjamin Evans, who works for Mr. John M. Fridy, sr., father of Sam Matt, came running to the house of the latter and told him his father was very ill and wanted to see him at once. On being informed of the attempted burglary Mr. Evans said that he had met the burglars on the road; there were nine of them, three of whom started off in a western direction, and the six others in an eastern direction.

Leaving Mrs. Fridy on guard at his own house Sam Matt hastened over to his father's, which is not far distant, and found him in almost a dying condition, from an attack of pneumonia, from which he has been confined to his bed since Thursday last. We learn by telephone at 2 o'clock this afternoon that the old gentleman is not expected to survive longer than to-night.

AN OLD CUSTOM DENOUNCED.

Opposed to the Empty Stomachs Being Filled at Vendues.

From the Lebanon Advertiser.

The vendues now held around the country are by no means as profitable to the sellers as many would suppose. The cause for this is that a great many attend these gatherings with no idea of buying anything, but solely with the expectation of getting a free dinner. All sales draw largely—especially so of empty-bellied hookers-on. If the day opens fair the huckster fraternity come bright and early, and each hurries to erect his stand and tables, until at last the yard, when all are fixed, reminds one of the scenes that used to attend the old time battalions. In between the hucksters come those from the neighborhood who have been engaged to help the family in preparing dinner for the hungry crowd. By ten o'clock they have the first tables ready, and which fact is no sooner announced than a perfect rush is made to get a free fill. As fast as one seat is vacated there are others standing ready to fall in, and in this way the tables are kept occupied until 2 in the afternoon. Oftentimes from 200 to 400 persons make themselves partakers of the vendueholder's good fare. We do not expect that what we here say will prevent these empty-bellied frequenters of vendues from attending them for eating every one who has a sale out of house and home, but sellers should henceforth combine and resolve that they will not feed the chaps who straggle in never to bid or buy, but who, always hungry, come only to stuff themselves with the good things to pay for which the farmer has worked both hard and long.

A Dry Joke on Senator Beck.

A story is told upon Senator Beck at the White House dinner Tuesday evening. It seems that Senator Butler, of South Carolina, called the butler to him and said: "Mr. Beck has a great dislike to champagne. He becomes very irritable if his glass is often filled, but is too polite to say so. After the champagne is served you will please him by filling his glass but once and then supplying it with apollinaris." This solemn advice was acted upon by the butler, who admonished his assistants. When the champagne came in Beck drank his glass at a gulp, for he is one of the greatest wine drinkers in public life. Then the fun began. The senators all about him began to plague him—first one and then another. His glass was empty, and he frantically swallowed the other wines remaining about his plate. When his patience was exhausted he called to the waiter behind him, "Fill my glass." The man had apollinaris ready, and Beck drank it with a wry face. "More champagne," he said, sotto voce, and again the apollinaris flowed for him. So it went on, every one about him drinking wine and he apollinaris. The others would not let him rest, and he drank about two quarts before the dinner was over. After the guests left the table some of them told him the joke. He received it in no very amiable mood, and is now waiting to be even with Butler.

List of Unclaimed Letters.

List of unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice, Lancaster, for the week ending March 29, 1886:

Ladies' List—Mrs. Sussanna Clark, Miss Clara Fenstermacher, Miss Nellie Goodman, Miss Katie Shank, Mrs. Matilda Waller, (3), Miss Mary Kauffman.

Gents' List—John F. Bair, Patrick Connaughton, S. T. Druper, Henry Floyd, Christ Groff, D. L. Herr, Isaac Jackson, John S. Lichty, Cristy Niner, J. S. Peabody, Pat Quaid, Keeler & Shaeffer.

Two Soldiers Buried.

The funerals of James Jones and George Saltzgaber, two old soldiers, took place yesterday afternoon. That of Jones was held from his residence on West Walnut street, at 3 o'clock, and the other took place from Amos Rote's undertaking establishment at Walnut and North Queen streets, at 4 o'clock. Both men were interred in the Lancaster cemetery, and the Grand Army members with a drum corps, attended the funerals.

At the Rinks.

There was a large attendance at the Lancaster rink both afternoon and evening on Saturday. The performance of the Midgets was excellent and everybody was pleased.

At the Mennerchor rink no matinee was given Saturday and a good-sized audience was there in the evening. George Whitby did an acrobatic act, Lucy Whitby swung clubs and Charles Witmer walked a rope.

Rough on Dogs.

This morning three dead dogs were found on Love lane between Manor and High streets. They had been annoying the people of the neighborhood for some time past, and a man set poison for them.

Narrow Escape.

This morning about 11 o'clock, while Miss Mary Wiley, residing on New street, was in the dining room of her residence, some person shot at a cat, and the bullet broke the window where she was sitting, and struck the stove.

A MAYOR DIPS INTO POETRY.

A Town's Chief Magistrate Who Makes Proclamations in Rhyme.

Glenville, Ohio, has a new mayor and the residents think he is almost equal to Philadelphia's dandy mayor as an attraction. His name is L. E. Holden and he is a graduate of Michigan University. Mr. Holden has just written his first message, and as neither the Sweet Singer of Michigan nor the Bard of Shanty Hill was ever elected mayor of anything he is ahead of them in his opportunities for bringing his muse into notice. At present his only rival is Mayor Smith, of Philadelphia, and he is daily haunted by an agonizing fear that Mayor Smith may take to writing poetry.

Mayor Holden opens his message thus:

Good burgers all, this proclamation
Should benefit our corporation.

Then he congratulates the Glenvillagers on their prosperity, but expresses a belief that it can be improved. The methods of improvement are next set forth:

"At 9 P. M. I think it best
Each shout should seek its downy nest;
And on the peaceful village street
No calf should be allowed to bleat."

This order is evidently issued in the interest of the ladies, who are notoriously more fearful of pigs and cows than of men. The men come next:

"I warn all evil-doing scamps
They must not bust the village lamps,
And at those toughs who will get drunk
The eye of justice shall not wunk!"

Mayor Holden has not yet got as far as Mayor Smith, so he does not tax each place of business for its ordinary sales of some necessary commodity in small quantities. So far, at least, as his proclamation indicates, he taxes only strange concerns that come to town and interfere with home attractions. Thus:

"No circusses shall show in town
Unless with boodle they come down,
And strangers' cattle shall not graze
Around unless their owner pays.

"I write this for the public weal
And under my official seal."

Hancock's High-Mindedness.

A warm political and personal friend of Gen. Hancock visited him a few days after his presidential nomination was made, and said, "General, I am rich, with far more money than I or my children can ever need. I know your situation and the calls that will be made upon your purse in the exercise of proper hospitality, and I have with me ten one-thousand dollar notes, which I beg you to accept from me in the spirit in which they are offered. Your acceptance will make me happy, for it will show me that you think of me as I do of you." Gen. Hancock put a hand on the shoulder of his friend and with evidences of deep feeling in his face, said: "There is no man in this world from whom I would accept money sooner than from you. I thank you for the delicate way in which your friendship has been shown, but I cannot take the money."

A Plucky Preacher.

The Rev. Dr. Maclaren, of the Central Presbyterian church in St. Paul, Minn., awoke and saw a burglar creeping into the room with a revolver in his hand. The doctor reached over the side of his bed, picked up a small stick, and pointed it directly at the intruder, said: "Now, if you don't get out of here I'll shoot you dead. I would hate to shoot you on Sunday, and disturb the quiet of the day, but if you start you are a dead man." The burglar turned on his heels, ran through the house and escaped.

Funeral of Mrs. Mary Hamilton.

The funeral Mrs. Mary Hamilton which took place on Saturday, was largely attended. The funeral services, which were very impressive, took place at St. James church and the interment at Woodward Hill cemetery. The pallbearers were, James Marshall, Henry Hershey, John D. Rupley and Wm. A. Morton.

Connected With the Telephone.

Entertainment Postponed.

The Oak Grove school entertainment has been postponed till Thursday evening, April 1st, if pleasant; if unpleasant, the first agreeable evening following, Sunday excepted. 1td

Amusements.

"The Two Johns."—On Tuesday evening John C. Stewart's "Two Johns" company will be here. The Pottstown Ledger says of them: "One of the largest and most delighted audiences of the season saw "The Two Johns" in the opera house last night. All the component parts of a sparkling comedy seem to be concentrated in this production, and are brought out by a company of unusual merit. The many awkward and ridiculous situations of "The Two Johns," occasioned by their similarity of build and make-up, afforded almost three hours of solid fun last evening, and certainly no better expenditure of the ludicrous in "The Two Johns" could be found than in the veteran John Stewart and W. B. Murry."

Burton's Minstrels—George Burton says he will have a big show on Wednesday evening, and from the talk around the city everybody seems to think the same way. The troupe will give a street parade with band.

DEATHS.

EHRISMAN.—In this city, on the 26th inst., Mrs. Susan Ehrisman, wife of Henry Ehrisman.

The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral, from the residence of her husband, No. 543 West Chestnut street, on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Woodward Hill cemetery. m27-2td

SHAUB.—March 26, in this city, Mrs. Annie Shaub, wife of Henry Shaub, in her 45th year.

Will you come there where I slumber,
With a soft and gentle tread;
You who loved me while I was living,
Will you mourn me when I am dead?
Bliss awaits in brighter regions,
Every pure and steadfast soul,
And a glory shines abroad,
From the dwelling place of God.

The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral from her husband's residence, No. 539 East Chestnut street, on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Lancaster cemetery.

ESHLEMAN.—March 26, 1886, at Leaman Place, Lancaster county, Mrs. J. Juliette, widow of the late Jacob Eshleman, aged 76 years.

The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral from her late residence, on Wednesday, March 31st, at 2:30 p. m., without further notice. Services at All Saints' church, Paradise.
