THE STATE OF TRADE

IN ROTH THE LOCAL AND SOREIGI TOBACCO MARKETS.

Bayers Busy Purchasing, Growers Delivering and Packers Asserting and Boxing the Weed - A Few of the Important Sales Made the Past Week.

The strikes and lock-outs and other trouble which have so seriously interfered with all kinds of business in many parts of the country has not affected the tobacco trade of Lancaster. Week after week buyers have been traversing all parts of the county and rapidly buying up the crop, until scarcely an eighth of it remains in the hands of the growers. And week after week growers have been delivering their crops at the city and the country ware houses until most of them are stocked to overflowing. Week after week hundreds of packers have been at work assorting and bexing the leaf and "elevating" it from the basements to the upper stories of the warebouses, there to undergo the usual sweating and curing processes. Everybody has been, and is, busy, but nobody is quite happy. The growers think they did not get quite enough for their crops; the buyers think they paid too much for them, and the packers would like to have their wages increased; there are no strikes and no lock-outs.

of the previous week; certain it is that if the condition of labor in cigar manufacturing cirbusiness in leaf would be rushing. Dealers and packers have turned their greatest attention to the new crop, and excepting in Wisconsin buying of '85 tobacco is going on briskly in the tobacco-growing sections. The prices that are being paid leave a hope for profit to the investors; here and there one hears of the paying of 20s. for fine crops, but the average is from 6 to 12s. Under these conditions the buying of new tobacco appears perfectly legitimate and timely.

Sumatra moves sluggishly, and suffers from the timidity of cigar manufacturers under the present labor troubles; purchases are made in small parcels only, bringing from $1.20 to $1.80.

Havana also made a poor exhibit, only business in leaf would be rushing. Dealers

From the Tobacco Leaf.

The present unsettled condition of the labor market is having an effect on the seed leaf market. Cigar manufacturers are slow to invest in leaf, as they say they cannot see their way clear in the future. Dealers are giving their attention to securing beaiers are giving their attention to securing the new tobacco; in fact, there is nothing else to occupy their attention. Well-informed persons say that seven-eighths of the Pennsylvania crop is already purchased. Judging from reports the 1885 Pennsylvania crop contains a great deal of indifferent tobacce and some that is very good. For the latter high priors have been paid. The number of cases of all kinds and growths sold in the market this week make up a very insignificant total.

Following are the sales of seed leaf tobacco reported for the INTELLIGENCER by J. S. Gans' Son & Co., tobacco brokers, No. 131 Water street, New York, for the week ending through a two-column editorial on the labor question and arrives at the sage conclusion that "boycotting is a crime" and hindering raitroads a "misdemeanor," and that labor has made "alarming progress in the direction of the subordination of capital!"

The Tobacco Journal gives the cigar manufacturers some advice as "how to battle with the Knights of Labor label fraud." It denounces the Knights, the International and the Progressive unions, as "flushed with temporary victory" and "becoming clownish," but far more serious than manufacturers in general believe. It adds: "This whole movement of the cigarmakors is as yet in its infancy; if allowed to age without interference, if manufacturers of cigars all over the country do not combine for one strong anti-Knights of Labor association, their factories will become the stamping ground of rabbies and all the ties of business will be ruptured in the end." It advises manufacturers to "solicit the co-operation of the jobbers throughout the country, and to begin with oppose the further use of any label, white, blue, red or any color or design, shape or form denoting the employment of union men. But let such association leave alone the agitation of wage question; let every member regulate the payment of wages as he sees fit and as his business accommodation allow him to do. Only an association of that kind will be able to battle with this hydrs-headed lator movement in cigar manufacturing circles."

The ox knoweth his master and the ass his master's crib, and the Leaf and Journal being patronized largely by jobbers and manufacturers, care little for the laborers or labor unions. They naturally stand by the monopolist and capitalist that thrift may follow fawning.

The commissioners will present the matter to the court at the April sessions, over which Judge Livingston will preside. The act of assembly requires the approval of the court, which means the two judges. It is the general impression that Judge Livingston favors the project but the other member of the court is inclined to be the other way. Commissioner Gingrich is not altogether in favor of the new prison, but he will hardly interpose any objection to its erection. If Judge Patterson will give his assent the prison will be erected at an early day.

A BOLD BURGLARY.

STORE IN MILLERSVILLE ROBBET AND NEARLY BURNED.

The Thieves Evidently Acquainted With the Premises-A Lot of Dry Goods Stolen. Narrow Escape From a Conflagration A Previous Attempt at Pillage,

Last night the general merchandise store of Andrew Baker, in the town of Millersville, was broken into by thieves, who carried away about $100 worth of goods, such as flannels, leather and rubber shoes, ginghams, shirtings, threads, &c. The thieves used an auger with which they bored out a hinge on front shutter and then entered. The till was opened but the money had all been taken out of it by Mr. Baker and nothing was secured there. An effort was made to open the safe, but it was not successful. The counters were piled full of goods and it is sure that the thieves were not in a hurry about getting away.

One of the worst features of the burglary was that the thieves almost burned the store white committing the crime. A barrel which was full of coffee sacks stood in the front part of the store. The thieves lighted a can-dle and then threw the match into the bardle and then threw the match into the barrel; the sacks caught fire, and the thieves saved the building by carrying the barrel and its contents into the yard, where the fire was extinguished. A show case, which stood near the barrel, was badly burned, and there was evidence of considerable scrambling, which is supposed to have been made in trying to extinguish the fire. When the thief or thieves tried to open the safe the cardile was left standing near same safe the candle was left standing near some pigeon holes, in which mail was kept. This took fire and was slightly damaged.

ACQUAINTED WITH THE PLACE. It is certain that the burglary was committed by persons well acquainted with the store. Some time ago the locks were changed on the building and the thieves evidently knew this. Across the invide of the window which was entered was a board with a number of lamps upon it. These were not disturbed in the least, and that is considered one of the strong est evidences that the thieves were not strangers; had they been they could not have entered without opsetting the lamps Although a family occupy the same building in which the store is they were not disturbed by thieves. A young man who occupies the room directly over the store, says that he heard a slight noise about 3 octoo., which he thought was made by rats.

A PREVIOUS ATTEMPT. Several months ago an attempt was made o rob this store, but the offenders were frightened off before accomplishing their frightened off before accomplishing their purpose. It is believed that there is an organized gang of thieves in the village, as other burgiaries have been attempted or committed. On last Friday night a man attempted to enter the window of the second story room at Dailey's hotel, which was occupied by a Philadelphia tobacco buyer named Miller, who always carries considerable money about his person. The robber crawled up the grape arbor, but Miller became awakened and frightened him off. Miller had only come to the hotel that day

A NEW BASE BALL LEAGUE.

Lancaster Will Probably Have a Club-The It is now likely that a base ball league may be formed in the eastern part of this state. A meeting for the purpose of taking some action in the matter will be held at the City hotel, Williamsport, on Thursday next. Lancaster may be a member of the league, as efforts are now being made to form a club here. William Zecher and Jake Goodman intend remaining in this city all sum-mer, and they will play on the team. A battery composed of strangers will be secured and the team can be filled fore Alderman Spurrier to answer at court for assigning property to prevent it from becoming liable for debt. It appears that on Altoona, Lock Haven, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. These towns will form a good circuit, and one that will be a sure success financially. The short distance between them brings the average jump down to fifty miles, and as two or three games will be played at each place on a trip, it can easily be seen that the expenses will be light. Altoona has made arrangements with fi. C. Fisher, who was at the head of its club in former years, and he will act as manager.

Lancaster will send Goodman to represent this town at the Williamsport meeting. If club is formed the Ironsides grounds wil be used.

Some fine games of ball have already been played in the South this season, but the one at Savannah yesterday between the home club and Pittsburg was probably as good as any that will be seen this season. Fifteen innings were played, and in the last the Pittsburgers made the only run of the game.

Denny Mack, who is an American Association umpire, received a telegram from Pressi dent Wycoff to-day, asking him to report in Columbus, Ghio, on Friday of this week. The president will go over the rules with the umpires and give them such other instructions as he may deem wroper. Mr. structions as he may deem proper. Mr Mack will leave Lancaster Thursday.

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN ACTOR.

York Hospital, Bernard McAuley, the actor, died at St Vincent's hospital, in West Twelfth street New York, where he has been staying for six weeks, on Sunday night, of Bright's disease, at the age of 48 years. He leaves a widow but no children. It is probable the dead actor will be buried from St. Francis Xavier's church, in West Sixteenth street, to-morrow morning. Mrs. McAuley, who is absent from town at present, will be back in time for the funeral.

Mr. McAuley was born in New York and went on the stage at Buffalo in 1853. He was an accomplished actor in what was known as twenty-five years ago as the "legitimate business," and in time he became the lesses of Wood's museum at Cincinnali, and subsequently built the present Louisville theatre. Bad times and other causes brought about financial ruin, and for the last ten years Mr. McAuley has starred through the country with his plays "Uncle Dan'l" and "The Jerseyman," in both of which Lancaster people have often seen him. Misfortunes followed closely upon Mr. McAuley's heels. He played for the last time at Pope's theatre, St. Lonis, in February and then returned to New York. Mr. McAuley possessed a complete knowledge of stage detail and was one of the best instructors of actors in the country. He was the first man to push Mary Anderson to the front and many others began successful careers with him. of Wood's museum at Cincinnati, and subse

The Queen Loves Bare Shoulders From Grace Green wood's Letter,

It is said that noble young ladies, aspiring to the position of maids of honor, prepare themselves by spending an hour or two a day in a refrigerator. The London corre-spondent of one of the Milan newspapers dwells pathetically on the sufferings of the ladies in the House of Lords on that fear fully inclement Thursday, when they sat stripped almost to the waist, all through the ceremonial, and the reading of an unusually long speech, blue with cold and shivering visibly. He speaks also of the "horrid museum of skin and bones" furnished by the old and thin peeresses, and rendered all and adds that the queen "looks on the sight complacently, as though she had as intense an admiration for the sharp shoulder blades an admiration for the sharp shoulder blades of ladies as for the naked knees of her bony Scots." It is said that Princess Beatrice was some time since compelled by severe attacks of rheumatism to adopt that pleteian modern innovation, a high-necked evening dress; but until this instance, the only one in which the queen was known to relax the Median-Persian law of court etiquette was in favor of our noble American singer—Antoinette Sterling. Mme, Sterling was "commanded to Windsor to sing before her majesty, but respectfully represented that she could only do so on hygienic and high-necked conditions. These were granted, and the "gentle savage" appeared before the most august body of the world, before the most decorous and decollete court circle of Christendom—appeared, calm and grave and endom—appeared, calm and grave and simple as usual, and clad in "full dress," as she understood the term—that is, decently draped from head to foot and from shoulde o wrist. There was a little scandal, of course, but it was hushed up.

From the New York Tribune

Women as a rule are far less selfish than nee, far more altruistic, to borrow a word from the evolutionary terminology. Their lives are spent in self-sacrifice very frequent ly. They learn to think more of others than themselves. And though some pessimist that modern social ways and educational ar-rangements were gradually diminishing the most attractive and lovely characteristic of weman, the case of the Oregon proves how ode such an apprehension really is by demonstrating that in danger, in the face of death, the calm courage and the sweet unselfishness of the "suppressed sex" put them as far above the tyrant man as they are incontestably in minor matters of fact and taste, grace and the amenities of life.

MR. POWDERLY COUNTERMANDS THE ORDER TO RETURN TO WORK.

Leaders Fear That the General Master Workman Has Been Outwitted by Gould-Where Roads Are Making No Efforts to Run Trains,

NEW YORK, March 30 .- At 11 o'clock this renoon Messrs. Powderly, Turner, Daly and McDowell left the Astor house and proceeded o Mr. Gould's office in the Western Union building. There they were met by Mr Jay Gould, his son George Gould and President Hopkins. The gentlemen are now conferring in secret session regarding the railroad strike in the Southwest.

St. Louis, March 30.-The great strike is not yet off, and will not be until another order to return to work has been received from Powderly. Late yesterday afternoon he countermanded the manifesto issued Sunday night, and the executive boards of district assemblies 101, 93 and 17 have annulled the circular which they issued at noon yesterday. The leaders in the strike do not know what to do. They fear that Powderly has been outwitted by Gould, and that they have now lost advantages which it will be difficult to regain. The abortive negotiations have to some extent demoralized them, but they claim that the trickery of Gould will create sentiment in their favor. They were peace-ful to-day but resolute. Freights were made up in the Iron Mountain and Missouri Pacific yards this morning, and both roads are now receiving freight for the first time in ten days No opposition was offered by the strikers. The resumption of trafic on these lines has seen gradual but it seems to be successful and the virtual blockade, so far as St. Louis s concerned, has been lifted off these roads.

Louis, Mo., March 30.—The teamsters of the St. Louis transfer company, 225 in number, struck at eight o'clock this morning, their only declaration being that the strike was entered into out of sympathy with the railroad Knights of Labor. These men are employed in driving all the teams of that company, which does almost the entire business of transfer and freight distribution from one depot to another and across the river. They control the business running from the depot to various hotels, and the strike of their drivers will cause no end of meon venience, as but few men will be found to replace them, their skill in the proper handling of eams up the long inclines of the bridge and the levee being of no mean order. There is a cold rain failing and the weather is very disagreeable, consequently no crowds are congregation about the yard. Those of the strikers who yesterday reported for duty under the published order to resume work are again deserting their work. The Missouri Pacific ran two trains out this morning without the least interference. The police guard was not so heavy.

THE CONPERENCE AT GOULD'S OFFICE.

NEW YORK, March 30.—It is now learned that among those present at Mr. Gould's office are Russell Sage, and several other railroad magnates. Mr. McDowell, of the Knights of Labor, who is assisting Grand Master Workman Powderly, in carrying on the negotiations on the part of the Knights of Labor came out of the offices of the Missouri Pacific company in the Western Union souri Pacific company in the Western Union building abortly after one o'clock. He was met by a United Press reporter and quizzed as to what had been done. He at first re-fused to give any information, but finally adomething definite could be announced.

"The Missouri Pacific officials were," he continued, "much more inclined to bring about an amicable adjustment than at any time since the negotiations commenced." Mr. McDowell excused himself from talking further, saying that it would be most injudic ious on his part to say anything about what had transpired at this time. Mr. McDowell then left the building on some mission at present unknown. It is evident from what fragmentary information that comes from the conference room, that much progress has already been made toward the adoption of a plan for the settlement of the difficulties beween the roads and their striking em-

Nothing will be done to-day between Mr.
Gould and the Knights of Labor. The entire might do to avoid similar troubles in the future. Mr. Gould says he would like to hear Mr. Dillon's views on the subject, and as the judge is in Boston some time must elapse before anything can be settled definitely.

THE FOREIGN STRIKERS.

The Troublous Situation of Affairs in He gian Towns BRUSSELS, March 30.—The situation at Tournal and Antoing is very threatening and there is every prospect of a serious conflict between the civic guard and the striking miners before the day is over. At Charlero and elsewhere in the mining district affairs are quiet and it is believed that the worst of the rioting is over. Affairs at Liege remain quiet and at Charlerol, which has been the centre of the greatest turbulence during the past few days, order is so far restored that General Van Der Smissen feels safe in sending a large number of his troops to Tournal, where further trouble is expected. Troops have also been dispatched to Mons, the capital of Hainaut, 27 miles east of Tournal. M. De Thazee, gov ernor of Liege, has promised the miners that he will intercede with the owners for an in-rease of wages.

The Atlantic beer garden building and the walls of the Heiens opera house and other large buildings, standing since the late great fire, were blown down. terror to the citizens. The coal fleet was swept out in the river, and distress signals from the boats added to the confusion. The Phillips county court house, a structure that cost $100,000, was unroofed, and its windows amashed. Dempsey and Mitchell to Fight. St. Louis March 30.— It is understood that test an event of extraordinary interest will test an event of extraordinary interest will take place in Chicago, being no less than a meeting between the greatest of middle weights, Jack Dempsey, and the well known heavy weight, Charles Mitchell. The latter some time ago gave "Parson" Davies carte blanche to make whatever arrangements for him he might desire. Dempsey has already expressed a wish to meet Mitchell and there are many who think his wonderful hitting qualities and quick judgment are enough to overcome Mitchell's greater weight.
