F. F. W. Shearf, was standing at the cor-er of Third and Walnut streets, last evening, when the cracking of a whip by a boy ightened the animal and it ran at a rapid at down Walnut street. In its flight two mail children had a very narrow escape om accident as the wagon passed very close them. The horse was captured on Front reet and the damage cone by the runaway as the breaking of the shafts of the wagon. Washouts on the Canal.

It was expected that the Susquehanna would be ready for navigation by April anal would be ready for havigation by April, but the recent heavy rain has caused some amage along the canal. Along the five-mile evel several washouts have occurred, which rill take about two weeks to repair. The own-path from Wrightsville to the locks is utirely covered with water. The water may ave caused additional damage, but this is ct wat known.

thing in gardening is so ill understood ng. Those who preach prune not at have no doubt seen some fearful illustrans of bad work. Those who advocate aning whenever the knife is sharp, have on taught in the miseries of some ne-octed orchard. It is indeed safer to prune of at all, than to have a sharp knife in the ands of an ignorant man. Much of the in-ifference the culture of the dwarf pear has len into came about from the bad mistakes of ignorant pruners. It is not at all uncom-mon to see a dwarf pear tree with all its of Ignorant pruners. It is not at all uncommon to see a dwarf pear tree with all its young, vigorous growth cut away—nothing put fruit spurs left. All the force is thus sent into the flowering condition in the spring. The trees are mountains of snowwhite blossoms; but little fruit follows. A judicious thinning out of weak branches, so to get a good form to the tree, is about all the pruning required. If there is a tendency to over-production of fruit spurs, cut out a good portion of them.

The apple often requires pruning when somewhat advanced in years. The old, stunted branches should be cut out now and than, whenever a young and vigorous shoot is inclined to take its place. Peach trees especially love this sort of pruning. The grapevine, when trained on lattice work of trellies, is very liable to have its strong branches at the end of the vine; and the good pruner is ever on the alert to get a young, strong branch up from near the ground. When he can get this, he often takes out an older one, weakened by age or bearing, and replaces it with youth and vigor.

The rule in pruning grape-vines, is to aborten the shoots in proportion to their strength; but, if the advice we have given in former summer hints has been attended to, there will be little disproportion in this matter, as summer pushing of the strong shoots has equalized the strength of the vine. Those who are following any particular system, will, of course, prune according to the rules comprising such system. As a general rule, we can only say, excellent trapes can be had by any system of pruning; for the only object of pruning in any case is to get atrong shoots to push where they may be desired, or to add to the increased vigor of the shoot which pruning supposes will follow the act increased size in the fruit it bears.

We have a system of graining NEW woon that must, in the near inture, take the place of the old system on all new work, its merits being as follows: Total abolition of a painted groundwork, speed and cleanliness in working it, beauty and transparency of fuish, smoothness and durability, and the capability of receiving as high finish as hard wood by the same methods. This process is the nearest approach to natural wood that has yet been discovered. Call and see samples.
