THE RISE OF A WORKMAN.

From the New York World.
"It serves them right; they should organize." These words were often on the lips of Terence Powderly, the father of the present general master workman of the Knights of Labor, Terence Vincent Powderly. When gathered with his children around the family hearthstone he would talk to them of the importance of laboring men working together for a common cause. Holding up a bundle of sticks he would exclaim : "See, how easy it is to break these one by one, and how dif-neult when all together." His youngest son, Terence Vincent, was especially impressed with these teachings and his lather ofter "Terry will make his mark some

Mr. Powderly's father came to this country in 1826. He was then about twenty-five year old. He was a powerful man, fully six fee tall, with a strong constitution. He married before he teft Ireland, and his first son was born on the ship coming up the St. Lawof Ogdensburg, N. Y., stands to-day. Two years were spent in Ogdensburg, and then started further south. He stopped at Utica for a few months and continued his journey, arriving at Carbondale, his future home, early in 1829. In those days the coal was obtained by stripping the earth off and was obtained by stripping the earth of ano hewing the coal out with picks. As the pro-cess of mining advanced, Mr. Powderly be-came a mine boss, and he also opened a small store which was managed by his wife. If he had been a little less careful he might have become one of the richest men in Pennhave become one of the richest men in Pennsylvania. A farm of over four hundred acress was offered to him for about $500. This farm contained some of the largest deposits of coal in the state. Its yield has amounted to a great many hundred thousand dollars and still seems inexhaustible. Mr. Powderly, however, had a horror of going into debt, and he refused his opportunity. He thus lived and died a proof man.

Terence V. was the youngest son in the family of twelve children, seven of whom are living. Three brothers are living at Carbondale and one on a farm in Sullivan county. Joseph, one of the older brothers, has just been appointed postmaster at Carbondale. and died a poor man.

THE BOY AT SCHOOL. General Master Workman Powderly was born on Jan. 22, 1849. His studies were confined to reading, writing, arithmetic and geography. Atthirteen he was apprenticed to a machinist. He was in no sense a model boy in the sense of his never getting into mischief, although he generally had his les-sons. The schoolmaster, Mr. Barnard Me-Tighe, maintained discipline, and he had or casion one day to punish young Powderly severely. McTighe, who was a small man, passed the place where Mr. Powderly was a work on his way to school the next morning, and Mr. Powderly called out to him and 'I heard you thrashed my boy yesterday."

Yes," was the reply, " I thought it was " What did be do?"

After the schoolmaster explained, Mr. Powderly said: "You did perfectly right."

Young Powderly's studies did not end with his apprenticeship to the machinist trade. His was a naturally thoughtful, inquir-ing mind and his evenings were passed in reading. He earned enough money to buy a copy of Shakespeare's works and was very fond of his achievement.

When he first entered the machine shop owner he arst entered the machine shop Powderly was set to work boring out holes near wheels. Notwithstanding his reading he paid close attention to his work and was advanced from time to time until he became master of the trade. In 1867 Miss Hannah Devers, his school-mate and sweetheart, left Carbondale with her parents for Scranton. JOINS THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

Mr. Powderly left Carbondale in 1869, Two years before he joined the Knights of Labor. The order was then in its infancy in Carbondale, but soon gained quite a little local celebrity by the intelligent manner in which he discussed the future of the organization. On arriving in Scranton, Mr. Powderly entered the machine shops of the Pelaware, Lacka-wanna & Western railroad company. He received $2.50 a day, spent his money care-fully, neither smoked nor drank and became one of the most trusted employes about the shops. "Mr. Powderly was a quiet man in many ways," says Mr. Gurrill. "He could talk well enough, and no one ever saw him standing around the street corners, and I never saw him stop to talk with any one on the street for more than a minute until after he became candidate for mayor. became mayor I was the only man he left on the old police force of the city. Mr. Powder-ly wanted it reorganized and better men appointed."

In 1874 Mr. Powderly married his Carbondale sweetheart. By this time he had become one of the leaders in the local labor committee of Scranton and was attracting attion to himself. He became a member of the Columbia literary society, where he made his first reputation as a speaker. He also took a course at a commercial college. After the term Mr. Powderly resumed his studies at home. He formed the personal acquaint. at home. He formed the personal acquaint-ance in 1876 of Uriah Stephens, who was then at the head of the Knights of Labor. He used his influence in Mr. Powderly's favor, and he was made the head of the labor organiza-tion at Scranton. During the strikes of 1877 he urged peace and moderation, and his counsel at that time, given in a quiet way, probably saved thousand of dollars' worth of property in Scranton.

IN POLITICS, Following the riots the labor organization nominated a full county ticket at the fall nominated a full county ticket at the fall election. Mr. Powderly was made a member of the county committee. People endeavored to ridicule them out of the contest, but the ticket was elected by a large majority. The following spring Mr. Powderly was nominated by the Labor party for mayor of Seranton and he was elected. The Republican press charged Powderly with being the candidate of the Molly Maguires, and predicted, in the event of his election, that the city would be turned over to that lawless gang of ruilians, but it only served to arouse city would be turned over to that lawless gaing of ruilians, but it only served to arouse the sympathy of the people in his behalf. The people of Carbondale indorsed him strongly. Mr. Powderly made a most excellent and conservative mayor. Two years later, when he was sgain nominated by the Labor party for mayor, his predecessor, McKune, came all the way from Canada to take a hand in working for his election, and the next time after that the Democrats indorsed his nomination. He could have been elected again, but he declined.

Mr. Powderly is now entering on his seventh year as general master workman of the Knights of Labor. Mr. Stephens died in 1879, and Mr. Powderly, who held the position next in power, that of general worthy foreman became his successor. During his terms of office the Knights of Labor have grown from a comparatively insignificant gathering into an organization of the greatest power and importance, with a membership reaching far up in the neighborhood of the millions.

Mr. Powderly's mother died about ten years ago. Some idea of the size and extent of the family can be learned from the fact that sixty children and grand-children were gathered at her funeral. Mr. Powderly, however, has no children. His father died during his first term as mayor. Most of the Scranton city officials went to Carbondale to attend the funeral.

UNIVERSALLY RESPECTED. In spite of all his opportunities Mr. Powderly is comparatively a poor man. He lives derly is consparatively a poor man. He lives in a very modest cottage on the outskirts of Scranton, and it is doubtful if the house, lot and furniture would bring more than $1,500 if put up for sale. The salary of his position is only $1,500 a year, but his travelling expenses are paid by the organization. Mr. Powderly does not appear to be changed by his advancements. He has the same kindly greetings for his friends as when he was an ordinary machinist. He is not without ambition, but it is believed to be confined entirely to the cause which he represents. He has been urged to accept the nomination for Congress in this district, and in his case it would be equivalent to an election, but he has declined peremptorily.

His whole life has been consecrated to the cause which he represents. If it does not go out in the struggle he is now making against disease, a great future unfolds itself before him.

Punched and Kicked by Russans.
About 11 o'clock Monday night while the speaker of the House of Assembly was on his way home in St. Johns, N. F., he was attacked by a number of roughs, who struck him in the face and felled him to the ground. They then gave him several kicks on the body. On Tuesday the speaker appeared with a badly disfigured face and with bandaged hands. His assaliants have not yet been arrested.

Though still the season bears a sting, And Heaven gave me warning, I could not think the frolic spring Would vanish ere the morning

In early warmth descending, t seemed a promise all too bright For such a wintry ending : Thus every kindly look of thine is turned to cold denying. And not a nearer glance or sign

So sweetly shone the rosy light

Yet is the magic color lost That happy hearts remember, Though now the field is white with frost And naked as December?

To-morrow, dear, the constant blue Will put an end to sorrow;
The sun will melt the earth anew
And hope return, to morrow!

CUTICURA REMEDIES.

Cleansed, Purified, and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies.

It affords me pleasure to give you this report of the cure of our little grandchild by your Currecta Remember. When six months old his left hand began to swell and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid seab, disharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (scrotula of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the Curicura Remember, using the Curricura and Curricura Remember, and the curricura describer, and when he had taken one bottle of the Curricura Area of the curricura, and curricura describer, and when he head taken one bottle of the Curricura Area of the curricura, and curricura describer, head was completely cured, and he was improved in every way. We were very much encouraged, and continued the use of the remedies for a year and a half. One sore after another headed, a bony matter forming in each one of these five deep ones just be fore healing, which would finally grow loose and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly hone formations I preserved. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child. The sears on his hands must always remain; his hands are strong, though we once feared he would never he able to use them. All that physicians did for him did him no good. All who saw the child before using the Curricua Remember, who, being hear of the library to use them. MRS. S. Delliu

We have a system of graining New wood that must, in the near future, take the place of the old system on all new work, its merits being as follows: Total, abolition of a painted groundwork, speed and cleanliness to working it, beauty and transparency of fush, smoothness and durability, and the capability of receiving as high finish as hard wood by the same methods. This process is the nearest approach to natural wood that has yet been discovered. Call and see samples.

GLASSWARE. HIGH & MARTIN.

LANCASTER, PA

A Few Facts.

Housekeepers in selecting wares for your tables, etc., especially those just buying new outfits, it is important that you select the best in the market. How embarrassing to a lady, especially if she has table pride, and what lady should not have, to find that her ware is all full of small cracks, and that grease has penetrated and made it look black and ugly.

A cause and a remedy. All semipercelain or granite ware in its biscuit state is porous. It is then covered with natural or artificial glass to prevent its penetration by liquids. This is termed glazing. The glaze must vary as it must fuse or melt according to the ware upon which it is placed.

It must also dilate or contract in pro portion to the biscuit or else it will crack or craze and produce the above

Unequal or insufficient firing or burning may and will sometimes produce the same results.

You may, and will no doubt ask " How then can you tell whether you are getting a good article?" Simply and only by buying those makes which experience has taught dealers to recommend as the best and take their guarantee. Such makes you can find and such guarantee you can get by calling at
