A Native of Columbia Dies In Johnstown.

Mr. Ebenezer Smith died at his residence on Vine street, near midnight on Tuesday of at week. He had long been a sufferer from didney and other troubles. He was born in bia county, Pa., January 26, 1819, and there learned the trade of shoemaking. On March 15, 1849, he was married to Miss Ma-linda Davis in Bedford county. He came to Johnstown nearly forty years ago, and has worked at the shoemaking ever since. He has accumulated considerable means and leaves some valuable property. Deceased is survived by his wife and three sons, George, William, and Russel. Mr. Smith was a member of the First M. E. Church.

BASE BALL NEWS

A New Club Organized in This City to Be Known as the Ironsides. Last evening there was a large meeting of Interested in the formation of a base b, at the saloon of Arnold Hass, on Queen street. An organization was ed by the election of the following seffected by the election of the following officers:

President—B. F. Houser.
Vice President—Charles Strickler.
Becretary—Charles Brown.
Tressurer—Joseph Arnold.
Manager—Harry Gallagher.
The club is to be called the Ironsides and will play on that ground. The rate of admission was fixed at 15 cents with 10 cents axtra for grand stand and lower rates for children. Jake Goodman and William Zecher, who are now here, will be members of the team, and a player named Van Ostran, of Danville has been engaged. A first-class battery is to be engaged, and several Lancaster players will be given a chance. The shares of stock were fixed at $5.

In Philadelphia yesterday the League team defeated the Athletics, in the second game for the local championship, by the score of 5 to 2. Young Dan Casey pitched a fine game and allowed the Athletics but four hits.

At Louisville yesterday the home club defeated the Detroit in eleven innings by 6 to 2. The St. Louis American Association team defeated the Leaguers, by 9 to 6, and Washington again fell at the hands of the Baltimoreans, by 4 to 2.

The Metropolitan club stopped at Newark Thursday, on their way home from Washington, to play a series of two games with the Newark club. When the first game of the series was ready to begin a dispute arose over the selection of an unpire. Finally David Pierson, an old ball player, of Newark, agreed to act. The game then began, but much fault was found with the work of the mopire. When the home team had finished their half of the fourth inning the score stood 4 to 4 in their favor. The Metropolitans then was allowed. The Newark players became mad, and Tom Burns, the captain of the team, who has gained considerable notoriety as rough, came in from the field to argue. Be called Foster, of the Mets, a llar, and a fignic excend in which revolvers were drawn, The field was finally cleared by the police, but the Mets refused to continue the game. field was finally cleared by the police.

SO SOON PORGOTTEN.

Bow the Brightest and Gayest Are Replaced. From the Youth's Companion.

A lady from California, traveling through the Eastern states, was present, a few months ago, at a state dinner in Washington, at which the wife and daughter of the secretary of state occupied the highest positions next to the sister of the president. The table was decorated with pink roses, the draperies were decorated with pink roses, the draperies were pink, the ladies were gowns the color of the roses. There was an incessant sparkle of wit and elever repartee. The stranger was much impressed by the peculiar airy grace, the brilliancy and gayety of the scene.

She returned to Washington in six weeks and was invited to another dinner. Mr. Bayard's wife and daughter both were dead, Bayard's wife and daughter both were dead, and had been laid to rest in the old church-yard at Wilmington. The other guests were the same. The roses were red, the gowns of the ladies crimson: but that was the only change. There were the same joyous faces, the same jesting, the same laughter.

The stranger remembered Rip Van Winkle's sad cry when he returns to his native village and finds his place filled:

"Are we so soon forgot when we are gone?"

"Are we so soon forgot when we are gone?"
One of the most pathetic of French ballads is the song of Constance as she gayly dresses herself for the ball at the French ambassador's where she is to meet her lover and friends, and to be the queen of the reveis. Her light dress is blown against the flame of a lamp, and she dies before the hour when she was to go. The news reaches her com-panions at the ball.
"They cry, 'Poor Constance!" and they dance until morning."

One of the most tragic incidents in Long-fellow's poems is the coming back of the ghosts to their old home to find that there is no longer room for them at the table or the

A Dog Riddled With Bullets. At an early hour this morning John B. Snyder, residing on Plum street, heard a big noise in his yard among the chickens. He quickly arose from bed and went down stairs. Upon going into the yard be discovered that the cause of the disturbance was a very big dog. The animal had broken open the very big dog. The animal had broken open the chicken coop and torn the back of a chicken when Mr. Snyder interrupted him. The dog was kept at bay by a son of Mr. Snyder until the latter went to a neighbor's house and borrowed a revolver. Four bullets was put into the animal and if he has been accustomed to lunching upon chickens he will not need any for supper. It is believed that the animal, which was owned by Michael Duer, has been gullty of killing chickens before. He may have had an interest in the wholesale slaughter in different parts of the city.

Had an Eye to Busines A queer thing occurred at Christ church in Louisville, on a recent Sunday. A little child 3 or 4 years old was taken to church for child 3 or 4 years old was taken to church for the first time by its grandmother. The old lady gave the little darling a quarter to drop in the plate when it was passed around, but the child had an eye to business and instead of depositing the money when the contribution box got within reach it grabbed a handful of change. The grandmother was horrified, and or-dered the child to put the money back, but it would not obey. Then a rough-and-tumble scramble ensued, and the little hand had to be forced open, and the screams and had to be forced open, and the screams

A Cat Raising Chicks. From the Littitz Record.

In the family of I. F. Bomberger is a spotteline intelligence. Lately she has become still more noteworthy by taking charge of a brood of young chickens, which she nurses with motherly affection in a box, allowing no stranger to come near and being very jealous if any other cat makes her appearance. Should any of her family stray away from the box, she follows, takes it tenderly in her mouth and brings it home.

The county commissioners and Contractor Kitch on Thursday went to Binkley's bridge and looked at the piers of the bridge which were condemned by the inspectors. It was found that a number of the stones were broken. They will be replaced by larger stones, and the contractor, Mr. Kitch, will begin work part week.

Mayo in "Nordeck,"—On Monday and Tuesday evenings next, Frank Mayo appears in the opers house in the drama of "Nordeck." Of the piece and star the Troy Times says: "His appearance last evening at Rand's opers house in 'Nordeck' afforded great pleasure to an audi ence which was very generous in its expression of appreciation of the many very excellent bits of acting. It was the initial representation in Troy of the play, and a most favorable verdict was accorded it by everybody present. The plot is skillfully drawn, and at no time throughout the five acts does interest flag in the story; the lines are well written and clearly show the handlwork of Mr. Mayo himself, and many of he scenes are strikingly effective. The compan, the best we have ever seen associated wit Mr. Mayo, the individual members each seeming to be especially fitted to impersonate the dif-ferent characters entrusted to them. All things considered, it is the best dramatic entertainmen we have seen in Troy this season."
