Over Worked Public Men. From the Milton Economist.

There are extremes in every department of life, to which it is not safe to go. As a general opinion it is taken for granted that men in public offices have an easy life, and some perhaps may have, if they care little how their business is done. But men who are conscientious, men who take office not simply for the sake of honor or peenninary emolument, but to do their duty to the public, often have to work too hard and unless they are strong and in the enjoyment of good health will suffer. Sometimes even if their health is good they are unable to endure the amount of later that is necessary to conduct an office properly. This has been the case with President Cleveland's cabinet. They determined to do much of the work themselves instead of entrusting it to subordinates and they have carried the matter too far, worked too many hours and took little rest and too little outdoor exercise. A public office in a public trust and the people expect those who hold public offices faithfully to discharge the duties connected with them. But the people are not unreasonable, they do not expect or ask impossibilities, they do not require persons who hold offices to destroy their health and endanger their lives. Men should not accept offices and be careless or indolent, neither should they sacrifice their health. They should secure enough assistance so that their work could be properly done and their health preserved at the same time. ninary emolument, but to do their duty

It is to Your Interest

To bear in mind that one Beason's Capcine Plaster is worth a dozen of any other porous plaster. Benson's plasters are a genuine medicinal article, endorsed and used by the medical profession from Maine to California. They cure in a few hours atlments which no others will even relieve. Cheap and worthless imitations are sold by dealers who care more for large profits on trash than they do for the sweets of an approving conscience. Beware of them, and of the "Capucin" "Capsicin," "Capsicine" and "Capsicin" in the difference, and the unwary. These names are nothing but misleading variations on the name "Capcine." Note the difference, go to reputable druggists and you will not be deceived. The genuine Benson's has the "Three Seals" tradenark and the word "Capcine" cut in the centre. ai2-M, W, R&w It is to Your Interest

Hypocrisy is the compliment vice pays to virtue. Imitation is the compliment failure pays to success. The name—not the character—of Benson's Capcine Flasters is imitated by unscrappilous parties, who make and try to sell plasters variously called "Capcion," "Capsicum," "Capsicine," "Capsicum," "Capsicine," "Capullous plasters, with the manifest intention to deceive. So canningir and boldly is this done that careless people and doubtless comettines begulied into buying such articles in place of the genuine. Happily the number who follow this vocation decreases every year through the refusal of reputable dealers to bandle the imitation goods, moanwhile he cautious. In the middle of the genuine is out or proposed the word "Capcine," and on the isse doth is the "Three Seals" traderark. Ask for Berson's—then examine. One Benson's
