To the Editor of the Weekly Statement : To the Editor of the Weekly Statement: DEAR SIR: Some Mutual Life agent very kindly sent me a copy of your last issue in which you notice my little circular letter to my policy holders. I most fully enjoyed the very happy way in which you did it, but am also somewhat puzzled over your advice for me to visit Parteur for instant, for Pasteur only cures attacks of hydro-phobla. A patient must have been bitten by a mad dog to go to him for ireatment. As my circular in question states, and as it is a fact, it was written only as a result of a long con-tinued scrice of attacks from your Reading agent, kobert Holmes. So if I am suffering from the bite of a mad dog; then he must be that animal in question. Common law requires the owner of a mad dog to suppress it and put it out of the way. Mr. Holmes is your lawfol agent, and therefore it must be your duty to suppress him and put him out of the way. That there are strong indications that something has been bitting. That there are strong indications that something has been biting Mr. Reproids, we are willing to admit. There are symptoms in which virulent matter fructifies and reaches a growth, unknown to the body in which it originated. History also recounts peculiar back action results. For instance, the Richmond Observer says The Red Front Shoe Store. Attention is called to an advertisement in another column of the opening on Saturday next, of the Red Front Shoe Store, in North BAKING MERCHANT TAILORING "A carpet bagger was recently bitten by a copper head anake. The C. B. continues to hold tee and draw two salaries. The snake died." Queen street, next door to the postoffice. The proprietor, Mr. C. A. Reece, who has had many years experience in the shoe trade in this and other cities, opens with a large and finely asonce and draw two salaries. The snake died." Prot. Pastear recounts a case in which a dog, bitten by a supposed rabid animal, began in a few days to eat up the carpet and chew the chair legs. This dog died in three weeks, after disturbing the peace of the neighborhood, while the dog that did the biting lived to a respectable old age. Taking Mr. Reynolds' own admission that he has been bitten and then considering the fact that he at onge began to chew the Mutual's surplus find and gnaw the assets, and we must arrive at the conclusion that he has intensified the original virus, and that " after disturbing the neigh-borhood" for a brief season, he will be heard of no more, while the original canine will wag his Do not loss size to one the another one of the conclusted of the conclusted of the season. Where the Water Comes From. Davis Kitch, who has been busy at work in the collars on East King street, which are filled with water, last evening discovered where some of the water, if not all of it, is ing from. Between Sprecher's seed coming from. Between Sprecher's seed store and Slaymaker's liquor store, there is an alley. Immediately under this there is an old well, which has been walled over. A hole was cut through the foundation wall of Sprecher's store at this point, and it was found that the old well was overflow-ing and water in a good-sized stream was pouring into Sprecher's cellar. It is very likely that both this well and the one in the rear of the bank have been overflowing for some time past. There are several wells in this ineighborhood, and the earth is naturally full of water.
