THE INTELLIGENCER, (SIXTY PAGES.) PUBLISHED EVERY Wednesday Morning, THE DOLLAR A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

THE LANCASTER INTELLIGENCER. LANCASTER, APRIL 15, 1886.

Powderly and Gould. Messrs. Powderly and Gould are fairly well known in their latest communication. Mr. Gould having declared that he would...

Mr. Gould in reply throws himself under the protection of the law and invites the Knights to come ahead; closing with a dark intimation that they will be likely to get their bellies full of law before they are done with it.

Mr. Gould seems to consider himself a much-abused American citizen. He thinks highly of his citizenship, and has reason to do so in view of the rich reward he has reaped.

Mr. Gould pretends to have a small opinion of the Knights and their power; Mr. Powderly manifestly has a small opinion of Mr. Gould and thinks the Knights a full match for his power.

Mr. Gould grows bold under this declaration; feeling himself much safer in contending with an organization that proposes to break no bones. He has not achieved a reputation for much physical bravery.

Mr. Gould is a great and who in this issue is its prophet? We do not think it is Gould.

Intemperate Temperance. Do the good brethren of the Westminster presbytery, recently holding session in Marietta, really mean all they say in the lurid rhetoric of their deliverance on the temperance question?

These seem to be a certain redundancy about the metaphors of a "dismal swamp" where virtue, honor and morals sink out of sight.

that does harm, as well as intemperance food and drink. No case gains by over statement; and many a cause is brought into ridicule by the superserviceable zeal of its exponents.

Intemperance is a great evil; temperance is a good thing; wisely directed temperance societies may do good, but neither total abstinence as a personal habit nor prohibition as a policy of state is an essential doctrine of Christianity nor a cardinal feature of Presbyterianism.

A Judicial Conclusion. The supreme court of Pennsylvania takes the opportunity to declare, in its decision of the case of the fees for county officers, that it proposes to give full force to the provisions of the constitution; a declaration which it thinks ought to be unnecessary, but seems to be needed in view of the persistency of the legislature in putting unconstitutional acts upon the statute book.

In this case the legislature had enacted a law that applied only to counties that had more than 10,000 and less than 150,000 inhabitants, thus making a law not universal in its action, and in effect continuing the special legislation that the constitution forbids.

The supreme court is evidently growing in respect for the new constitution. It proposes to give us its full effect, that we may have all the benefit there is in it. The significant part of this new revelation is that the effort of the constitution-makers to control the state corporations, which so far has been largely abortive, is going heretofore to bear full fruit.

A Rare Instance. Frank Hurd did not get his seat in Congress from a Democratic House, though a Democrat; which is a notable thing, that has never been known to happen in a Republican House.

It has been developed by the Senate committee on the expenditure of public moneys, that Lieutenant Jesse Eastwood, Twenty-second Kentucky volunteers, got a pension of $10,150, though he served but twenty days and never saw the enemy.

THE tree-planter stands head and shoulders above all other citizens to-day.

At Newburg, N. Y., an interesting insurance suit is in progress. It is against the Travelers' insurance company of Hartford, Conn. The plaintiff is the only daughter of the late Senator Edward M. Madden, of Middletown.

It is an exceedingly dreary situation in Washington when a newspaper correspondent cannot print something startling about the cabinet. Just now that the illness subject is nearly exhausted, they have taken fresh hold by publishing rumors of their approaching marriages.

Of the 5,640 insane residents in institutions of all classes in the state, 4,670 are maintained at the public expense; 510 are curable, 1,214 incurable; 2,941 are single, 1,780 are married. The average weekly cost of maintenance varies from $1.35 to $1.50, the first figure obtained at Blockley almshouse, Philadelphia, and the second at the Friends' asylum in Frankford.

mayor of Boston acknowledging what a powerful support American opinion was in the present Irish home rule controversy.

Mr. J. P. Cottrill, once a leading lawyer of Milwaukee, who, with Mr. William A. Vilas, now congressman general, prepared the revision of the Wisconsin statutes, has become incurably insane from a blow on the head received in a college melee over thirty years ago.

Mr. J. J. McCarthy, in a letter to the editor of The Freeman, says that he hopes he shall not be a victim of his countrymen if he ventures to express the opinion that Edmund Burke "is the one only front-rank man whom Ireland has yet contributed to the literature of the world."

WILLIAM H. MOORE, one of the Democratic county commissioners of Lehigh, was arrested a short time ago for violating the election laws by promising offices to eleven members of his party.

HALF WALDO EMERSON once said that a good boy has the stuff in him to make a good man. A boy who has such exuberance of vitality that he is always in mischief is like a thoroughbred mare.

THE QUARREL. "I said one word, and was not stricken. Yet why do I loathe her cheek?"

Salvation Oil should be the companion of every traveling man. It extinguishes pain, whether resulting from a cut, burn, bruise, or sprain.

Postmaster Saml. A. Hewitt. "For colds, hoarseness, sore throat and rheumatism Thomson's Electric Oil cannot be beaten. It will keep it up to the standard of quality the people like. I shall send for a new supply soon."

Will It Really Cure Rheumatism? We answer, honor bright, it will cure rheumatism, and the severest cases too. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is especially prepared for the rheumatic and lame.
