Regular Correspondence of INTRILIORNERS. COLUMBIA, April 21. - Ah adjourned meet-Columnia, April 21. - Ah adjourned meet-ing of the borough council was held last evening in the council chamber. Members present : Mesnes. Bucher, Caswell, Edwards, Forrey, Bershey, Mifflin, Musser and Wester-men. Absent, Eckman. The principal business before council was the consideration of fire secapos to be crected at the opera house. Bids, accompanied by plans and specifications, were read from Mesars. Anne & Thomas; C. V. Rote, of Lancaster, and Jacob F. Bender. These plans all provided drivers, and, after a few encouraging re-marks, entered the pen with the stallion, carrying a whip and a cocked revolver loaded with blank cartridges. He spoke to the animal in a loud tone, and then walked toward him. The stallion moved into a cor-ner of the pen and turned his heels toward the professor. Instantly be received several stinging blows around the hind legs. Then he turned his head toward the professor, who cautionsly reached out his hand and patted the beast on the shoulder. Two or three times this was repeated, each time the trainer going closer to the horse. Sudenly there was a cry from the andi-ence. Like a flash the stallion had turned and selzed the professor by the right forearm with his gleaming whitz teeth. The instructor dropped his whip and with a violent effort wrenched his arm free. Then he fired the revolver several times in front of the brute's nose. The animal sprang wildly around the ring and nearly knocked down the fence. In a few moments he ran into a corner again. Then the professor resumed his former tao-tics. He made the horse stop at the word "whoa" a number of times. Then he began to pat him on the near shoulder again. Once more the animal sprang wildly around the ring and neary knocked down the fence. In a few moments he ran into a corner again. Then the professor resumed his former tao-tics. He made the horse stop at the word "whoa" a number of times. Then he began to pat him on the near shoulder again. Once more the angry beast whirled and snapped at the professor's breast, hitting him a powerful blow with his strong teeth. The revolver came into play again. Then the animal's hind legs were lashed. Once more the pro-fessor patted him. The animal's coat was wet and he was blowing like a racer. He made no more attempts to bite. drivers, and, after a few encouraging reob F. Bender. A Tramp Impostor. For the past three weeks a tramp has been about the town and made himself very obnoxious by his appeals for assistance. The fellow is about six feet in height, well built, has a black mustache, and wears blue over-alls. The man stops almost every person that passes him and makes an appeal for charity. Sometimes he wants to sell a handthat passes him and makes an appeal for charity. Sometimes he wants to sell a hand-kerchief, and generally winds up by getting a small sum of money. He suits himself to any occupation, sometimes he is a carpenter, and other times he is a railroader. He first asks what time of day it is, and then ends up by an appeal for charity. The man is a regular nuisance and should be sent out of town.

Were the Tickets Stolen ?

From the York Daily.

Nearly two weeks ago a stranger, claiming to be from Lancaster, appeared in York and applied to Charles H. Martin, the tailor, for work. He was accommodated and went to work. In the meantime he took a room at work. In the meantime he took a room at the Marshall house. After working one week he gave up the job and left York. As his room at the Marshall house was being put in order, after his departure, a number of metal reached tickets were found. The matter reached the ears of Mr. Ben-jamin Franklin, chief of the secret service department of the railroad, who arrived in town on Monday and took the tickets with him. A short time ago a number of tickets were stolen at Waynesboro, and it is said these are the missing ones, and the stranger is suspected. The matter is being thoroughly sifted. Mr. James Dugan, bookkeeper at Mr. Martin's establishment, states that he saw the stranger shortly after he quit work, walk-ing towards Baltimere.

GAP, April 21.-On Sunday evening next there will be an Easter service held in the M. E. church. The musical features will, in all probability, be very good. The choir will consist of 15 voices, accompanied by Mr. Frank Reynolds and Willie Orendorf on the cornet, and Miss Liflie Fox will preside at the organ. Selec-tions of music have been very carefully made and arranged to make the service effective, taking the sentiments of the different services held in the church on Children's Day and on Christmas. In order to procure comfortable seats persons should come early. The ser-vice will begin at 7½ o'clock.

A Little Girl Burned to Death.

Four boys bearing on a rudely constructed litter of branches the charred body of 6-year. old Celia Webb entered the village of Wades old Cells Webb entered the village of Wades-ville, Schuylkill county, Tuesday afternoon. The children had gone out to gather leaves to be used for bedding the cattle. They had gathered quite a pile, and Cella and a little brother remained to watch them and fill them in bags while the others went to collect more. The little boys lighted the pile, and Cella in sitempting to put the fire out had ber dothing caught by the flames and was instantly enveloped in them. She was so frightfully burned that she died soon after-ward.

wards to his home, where Dr. Shirk attend-ed him. The wound is a terrible one, but the physician thinks amputation will not be necessary. The load struck quite close to an important blood vessel, and if it had been touched, the wound would have proved fatal. The injured man is perhaps 21 years of age, and unmarried. He is an Englishman, and has been in this country less than a year. He has been employed in the grocery of Charles McNay, on North Queen street.

The Hair Worm Defined.

Reterring to the peculiar object found in W. H. Levergood's hydrant and noted in Tuesday's INTELLIGENCER, a scientific friend writes as follows :

writes as follows: The hair worm, or gordins, is the type of the long hair-like annelids of the order gordiacea of helminths or entozoa. These thread-like parasites in their larva state in-habit the bodies of various insects, especially beetles and grasshoppers. They have a mouth and alimentary canal but no anus; the serves are distinct, and when full grown the sexes are distinct, and when full grown they leave the bodies of their hosts to deposi their ergs in long chains in water or mois their eggs in long chains in water or moist earth. They look very much like long horse hairs and have been popularly believed to be hairs transformed to worms. They often attain a length very much greater than that of the body of the insect they infest, occupy-ing with their coils the larger part of its body.

Funeral of Rev. Jacob Reinhold.

The funeral of the late Rev. Jacob Reinhold took place from the family residence, on North Queen street, at 11 a. m. to-day. The attendance was very large, friends and relatives coming from all parts of the country. Rev. Jacob Hackman preached the funerai sermon from the text, I Corinthians, xv, 26: "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is Death." Addresses were made and other ser-vices conducted by Revs. John Hertzler, John Gipple and John Meyer. There were services in both the German and Kenther to be the services oth the German and English tongue in both the German and English longues. The interment was then made in the Lancaster cemetery, the pail-bearers being John Minnich, Jacob Minnich, Jacob Minnich, jr., Israel Wenger, Amos Hottenstein and George Shreiner.

There is a big run of shad and herring and these luscious fish that are caught in the and these these should be find the caught in the spring abound in the local market. A good many Delaware shad are coming to town, but a dispatch from Port Deposit says: "Shad and herring continue very plentitui in the Susquehance. The demand is not equal to the supply and prices are very low. The fishermen are much discoursed at the The fishermen are much discouraged at the unprofitable outlook. Shad to-day sold for from $12 to $15 and herring from 15 to 20 cents per hundred." As yet the Columbia shad have not been very abundant in Lancaster, but Frank Met-fett had a telephone message to-day which assures him a large supply of Columbia shad for to-morrow.

Bifurcated at the Age of Five. Tuesday was the fifth anniversary of the birth of Master George William Wolfer, son oir factor of Master George William Wolfer, son of Jacob Wolfer, residing at No. 223 East Walnut street. The young lad was then first clad with boy's clothes. He received and entertained his guests very hospitably. In the evening he was tendered the compliment of a serenade by the re-organized Keystone Cornet band, under the leadership of Joseph Cogley and N. Roberts. To Preserve City and Borough Plans.

The plans of several boroughs of the county and of the city have been on file in the recorder's office for some years. They were kept er's office for some years. They were kept loosely and some of them are badly worn. Deputy Recorder McLain called the atten-tion of the county commissioners to the ne-cessity of preserving the plans, and they had a large book made in which the plans have been placed. By this arrangement there is not much danger of the plans being lost.
