William H. Hogendobler, another builder of Columbia, neglected to have a red light's exposed at some obstructions in the street in front of a row of houses now being built. Chief Burgess Jackson entered suit against Mr. Hogendobler for his neglect and he was given a hearing last night at the office of Squire Evans. The penalty for non compliance with this ordinance is $10, and this fine was imposed upon Mr. Hogendobler. d upon Mr. Hogendobler.

Caught in a Cave in. living in Shadtown, was engaged in digging for the foundation walls for the new house of John R. Kreider, on North Third street. The ground in this part of town is what is called "made ground" and considerable depth must be attained to secure a solid foundation. Adams was engaged in digging trenches and had dug about three feet when the earth suddenly caved in and the man was buried under the dirt up to his neck. The other workmen at once commenced releasing the man from his position and had almost done so when a woman, through curicaity, stood too near the bank and a quantity of dirt again fell on Adams. He was at last released from his position and removed to his home. The misbap resulted in painful bruises about his lower limbs and his right foot is severely sprained. It is not thought that any internal injuries were sustained. The shock of the accident rendered the man unconscious. bn R. Kreider, on North Third street.

Given Another Hearing.
Officer Wittick brought Kate Kronell, the young woman who was taken to jail last Thursday morning on the charge of larceny of articles from the boarding house of Misses P. and S. Cooper, to Columbia yesterday after-noon for another hearing at the office of Squire Evans. The stolen goods have been recovered and there is no desire to prosecute. The young woman is evidently of unsound mind. At the squire's office she was very reticent and did not appear to comprehend any question asked her. She professes ignorance of the stolen articles in her trunk, and did not know how they got in her possession. She will be sent to her home in Leb-

They Were Democratic Fishes. Mr. John Fendrich, proprietor of the Gem cigar manufactory, on Tuesday morning sent to President Cleveland a fine pair of shad. The shad weighed about fourteen pounds and upon actual measurement were a trifle over two feet in length and six and a half inches broad each. They were two beauties and will doubtless be much relished by the dent and his household. Town Notes.

A company of ladies and gentlemen from Lancaster will give "A Lesson in Love" in opera house on Thursday evening for the benefit of St. Paul's Ladies' Sociable society. "Box and Cox" will conclude the entertainment. The box sheet indicates a Benjamin Seiple, of Washington borough, was sued by Salile Hanley, of Marietta, for assault and battery. A hearing was had last night at the office of Squire Young and the accused placed under bail for $100, for a trial at account.

The shad fishing of last night and early this morning was the poorest thus far this season. The total amount of the catch would not reach 200 fish. Four tramps were arrested by Officers Gflbert and Kennedy, of the railroad police, for right police. They were sent to fall for ten days each by 'Squire Frank.

MRS. ELIZABETH CHAMPNEYS. One of The Best Known Old Ladies of Lancas ter Dies at an Advanced Age.

At an early hour this morning, Mrs. Elizabeth Champneys, wife of the late Benjamin Champneys, passed away, after a brief illness, in the 86th year of her age. She was a lifelong resident of the county, the greater portion of which she lived in this city. She was the daughter of John Bachman and was born a few miles north of this city. In 1821 she was married to Benjamin Champneys, then a rising young lawyer, but who afterwards became one of the ablest lawyers in the commonwealth. She was the mother of eight children of whom Benjamin, for many years an attache of the Lancaster County National bank; Edward, a member of the Lancaster bar; Elizabeth, wife of Wm. Aug. Atlee, and Miss Annie, are living. Sarah, her oldest daughter, died upon the verge of young womanhood, and Christian, Jane and James were called away some years ago, ther husband died on August 9, 1871. For some years Mrs. Champneys resided at No. 37 East Orange street. She was an active, healthy woman until a very tew weeks ago, when she contracted a severe cold, her death was more the result of old age than disease. There was probably no woman better known to our older residents than Mrs. Champneys. She was a kind, indulgent mother, and was always ready and willing when her services were required to respond to a call upon her time and means to aid those entitled to charity. Her loss will be mourned and deeply felt by many. She was a member of the Presbyterian church. Her funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. monwealth. She was the mother of eight

Making Tests With Their New Guard Wall, The new guard wall of the Lancaster Schuetzen-Verein, at Tell's Hain, was tried on Tuesday afternoon and found satisfactory. Decided improvements have been made and hereafter it will be impossible for stray shots to go whirling around to the danger of people siding in the vicinity. The tests made yesterday were very successful.

residing in the vicinity. The tests made yesterday were very successful.

The first was a series of six matches of three rounds each between five members, the score, showing as follows out of a possible 216: Chas. Franciscus, 147; Henry J. Kegel, 125; Chas. J. White, 113; George Kircher, 36; John T. Knapp, 90. This was a good exhibition of shooting, two centre shots being made by Charles Franciscus and three by Henry J. Kegel. These gentlemen are young members of the society. Other fine shots ranging from 11 to7 were made by Messrs. White, Kircher, Knapp and others.

The second test included eight matches of three rounds each. Out of a possible 22s, the following scores were made: Chas. Franciscus, 194; Jacob Wolfer, 166; Charles J. White, 165; John T. Knapp, 155; Henry J. Kegel, 121; Adam Kuhlman, 64. But three centre shots were made during this contest, and they were by Franciscus, Wolfer and Knapp.

Everything passed off pleasantly, and everybody present enjoyed themselves. The members of the society are delighted with their improvements.

emigrated to Colorado several years ago, to learn that at the election recently held in Silverton, San Juan county, Colorado, he was chosen mayor of that thriving city by a majority of 31 votes. The La Plata Miner, of April 10, refers in these complimentary terms to the new chief executive:

There is not another man in all Silverton, who stands higher in the estimation of the people than our new mayor, Mr. N. E. Slay, maker does. A man of fine sensibilities, a lover of law and order, honorable and honest in all his dealings and motives, pleasant and agreeable in his manners, he has the respect of all good cilizens, not only in Silverton, but all over the state where he is known. Mr. Slaymaker will be an efficient officer. Coming to the office unsought, he will not be tied by any pledges, or controlled by any element except the dictates of an honest conscience. The prominent men of both parties earnestly sought him to become a candidate for mayor, as one on whom the city could rely, as a man who could and would enforce the law against all evil-doers, and do it without having sectional criticism ever at his heels to find lault without cause. It is the duty of all citizens to assist him in administering to the duties of his office. The Miner predicts that citizens to assist him in administering to the duties of his office. The Miner predicts that Mr. Slaymaker will make a mayor of whom the city will be proud.
