E. church. About fifty Lancastrians came to Columbia at $15 o'clock to see the performance and take part in the same. "A Lesson in Love" was presented in a first-class manner for amateurs and the farce of "Box and Cox" created considerable amusement. H. M. North, esq., entertained the ladies and gentlemen from Lancaster who took part in the performance in the opera house last night, at his residence, corner Second and Cherry streets.

In Railroad Circles For some time past engine No. 419, of the Pennsylvania railroad, has been in the Col-Pennsylvania raliroad, has been in the Columbia shops, undergoing very extensive repairs. The engine was thoroughly overhauled, and during yesterday was given a trial trip, when all the machinery was found to be in good working order.

On and after May 1st, the employes at the shops and round house of the Pennsylvania railroad will make ten hours per day. The men are now making nine hours for one day's work.

The freight traffic of the Pennsylvania railroad still continues to increase and the wages of the train hands are correspondingly getting larger.

FOR THE G. A R. RELIEF FUND. An Entertainment at the Lancaster Rink That

Was Largely Attended. On Thursday evening an entertainment was given in the Lancaster rink for the bene relief fund of George H. The Post, Grand Army of the Republic. Previous to the entertainment the members of the Post marched from their hall, in Centre Square, to the armory of the Reynolds rifles, on East King street, and escorted the militia to the rink. The performance began at 8 o'clock and by that time a very large audience was present. The first part of the show opened with a medley by an orchestra composed of well-known young musicians, of the city. Maj. A. C. Reinochi followed this with a short address of well-was a wales and the contract of the city. with a short address of welcome in which he spoke of the good cause for which the enter-tainment was given, and thanked those presaniment was given, and thanked those present for their generous patronage.

The Garden City trio, composed of Messrs, Hambright, Dreppard and Erisman, sangseveral good selections. Prof. Mohn gave some sleight of hand tricks and he was followed by "Reilly, the Faddler." The act of this man was a big feature of the show. Reilly came to this city from Rawlinsville a few months ago and since then he has made Reilly came to this city from Rawlinsville a lew months ago and since then he has made himself weil-known. He plays all the old-fashioned tunes on his fiddle, and although he was well diguised last night, he was soon recognized and his playing while sing-ing his original songs, stirred up the audi-ence. Miss Minnie Cogley gave a cornet solo, in her usual pleasing style. She was followed by the members of Company C. P. N. G. of this city, who gave an exhibition. N. G., of this city, who gave an exhibition drill, under command of Captain Bowers. The young gentlemen did their work remarkably well. Their movements were very cor-rect and they were greeted with thunders of applause.

Part second opened with music by the orchestra, and the Garden City trio followed with several comic songs. Daniel Clemens, jr., gave a drum solo, and did it well. Upon being encored he and his drum corps played

THE COURT HOUSE PAINTING

Citizen and Tax-Payer Who Is Not Satisfi ioners' Explanation. EDS. INTELLIGENCER: I was surprise as well as sorry, to see the lame excuse of fered in the INTELLIGENCER by the county nainting the court house to Bateman, when his bid was far above others equally as good painters. Mr. Hartman says, "they con-sidered Guthrie the best painter, and his bid was the highest." Very natural fer poor judges in anything to always choose the highest-priced article: taking for granted it is the best. Now why did they not give it to Guthrie if they were so anxious to have a good job? Again Mr. H. says, "the commis good job? Again Mr. H. says, "the commissioners had taken security from some contractors for county work and found it worthless, &c. " It so, who was to biame for that but the commissioners, and they should be held responsible for the loose way they do business. Mr. Hartman says, " the price was a fair one, far less than the job cost the last time." And why not, when material costs at least one-third less and labor goes a begging?

Commissioner Myers says " he acted in the matter the same as if he would have been Commissioner Myers says "be acted in the matter the same as if he would have been awarding the contract in his private business." I, for one, do not know anything about his private business, but I do not like his style of public business, especially this court house business. He seems to reflect on the way the commissioners awarded the stone work for "Binkley's" bridge because the way the commissioners awarded the stone work for "Binkley's" bridge because it was given to the lowest bidder and turned out to be a bad job. This prosperous commissioner in "private business" has shown his incapacity for doing business for the tax-payers in this very Binkley bridge bungle. He says "it has all to be done over;" and it is hard to say who will get the job next time. From present appearance it will be a high bidder, without security.

He also states that Mr. Gothrie, who was the highest bidder, etc., "expressed satisfaction that he did not get the contract." So did the fox who couldn't get the grapes.

Mr. Myers says, "if the commissioners were obliged to award to the lowest bidder, then Ernst would have received it." If Ernst had had the figure 4 in front of his 1962 he would have stood a good chance with $952 he would have stood a good chance wit 2962 he would have stood a good chance with our county commissioners. I am sorry to forget it, for "Charley" is a good painter. Mr. Myers further says, "any one of inteligence knows that the building could hardly be white-washed for this sum" (8952). So that shows what he knows about "white-washing."

Washing."

Then he winds up his remarkable vindication by stating, "that if be had to do it over again he would do as he had done, because he believed it to be to the best interest washing. of the county to give the contract to a painter who they knew would do his work accord-ing to the specifications and use the best material." There is no consistency in his argument from beginning to end and it shows argument from beginning to end and it shows a clear favoritism.

According to their statement they reflect on all the under-bidders, some of whom are certainly the equal of Bateman in every respect—to do as good work and back it up with responsible security and save the county nearly $1,000. Of course it is somewhat a matter of opinion as to who is the best painter in town. We may have our favorites and the county commissioners have clearly and the county commissioners have clearly shown theirs, regardless of cost in this last transaction.

I was sorry to notice that Commissioner

Gingrich "was not disposed to talk much about the award," for I believe if he would do it he might give us a little of the true inwardness of the whole court house trans-action. (I understand he had not been con-sulted in the first decision of his brother suited in the first decision of his brother commissioners.) I was also sorry to notice that Mr. G. was also down an giving contracts to low bidders. He said something about the size of the court house, Ac. I have no doubt the building looks big to our zealous county commissioners and they want to give a big price for painting it.

COMMON PLEAS COURT.

A suit Growing Out of the Sales of the Effects of Jones B. Garber.

BEFORE JUDGE LIVINGSTON. All of Thursday afternoon was taken up by counsel in the argument of the Murr & Reeser vs. Kreider horse case. The case was given to the jury at 6 o'clock and they had not agreed upon a verdict at 11 o'clock to-day. The last case attached for trial for the week was that of Philip Doersom and Philip Rudy against Andrew Garker. This is an action in trover and conversion to recover the value of certain personal property which the plaintiff's claim was unlawfully kept from them and appropriated by Andrew Garber, the defend-

The facts as developed by witnesses for the plaintiffs are as follows: On November 11, 1884, an execution was issued against the personal property of Jonas R. Garter, of West Hempfield township, by Messrs, Doersom and Rudy. The property was sold by the sheriff on January 29, 1885, and Mr. Boersom be-came the purchaser for hunself and Mr. Rudy. Among the articles bought were 25 tons of hay, 25 tons of straw, 60 bushels of corn, and 420 bushels of wheat. In due time Mr. Doersom went to Garber's premises to take possession of the articles, when he was warned by the defendant not to put a foot thom his land. He was made to get the articles he purchased and subsequently Andrew Garber appropriated the goosts to his own use, and this suit is brought to recove

Ski,631.20 the value of the goods taken, with interest from the time of the appropriation. The defense was that Jonas B. Garber had no interest in several of the articles sold to the sheriff, and that a notice to that effect was read when the goods were offered for sale, and it was also shown that Jonas had admitted to several parties that he had no interest in the hay, corn or straw, except to use them on the farm, and that when he moved away hils interest ceased. On trial.

CURRENT BUSINESS. Application has been filed by Samuel Philip and Moses Yingst, for the county reward for the arrest and conviction of Corne-lius Koons, a horse thief.

A petition was presented to court this morning to set aside the inquest awarded in the estate of the late John Long, who died a few months ago at his residence on North Mul-berry street. He died without having made a will, and letters of administration were granted to a sister. The petition of this morning sets forth that Long letta widow and two children. The brothers and sisters claim that they never knew he was married. The court granted a rule to show cause why the inquest should not be set aside, and the testimony taken will establish the woman's rights, if she proves her marriage.
