

The Daily Intelligencer. PUBLISHED EVERY EVENING IN THE YEAR. BY STEPHEN & HENRIE. INTELLIGENCER BUILDING. 3. W. Corner Centre Square, Lancaster, Pa.

THE INTELLIGENCER, (EIGHT PAGES.) Published Two Dollars a Year in Advance. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED FOR EVERY PART OF THE STATE AND FOREIGN.

A Short Turn. Another decision of the supreme court of the state recently made, indicates the drift of judicial opinion toward a proper regulation of the rights of the public and the obligations of corporations.

In this last reported case a non-suit had been entered in the lower Philadelphia court, in an action against a passenger railway company, to recover damages for the death of a child.

The New York Times points out the force and value of a resolution recently reported by the committee on the House on a bill which is presumably in accordance with the views of Carlisle, Morrison, Randall, Reed and Hiscok.

The tendency of the average congressman to vote away money is something marvellous; especially is he willing to do it in the name of "pensions," and just now he has under favorable consideration all kinds of schemes of this sort to deplete the treasury of hundreds of millions of dollars.

An Empty State Treasury. The commonwealth of Ohio is getting to the bottom of its money bin. The recent changes in its tax laws and some reductions in the rate of levy have diminished the receipts of the state so that it is estimated by the 15th of July there will be no money in the treasury.

PERSONAL. SETH J. COMLY, one of Philadelphia's oldest and best merchants, retired from business on Monday.

OF NO CONSEQUENCE. The inanimity, the futility and the utter non-sens of Edmunds' long fight against the presidential nominations, is shown most forcibly by the fact that the very person against whom his opposition was immediately directed has been confirmed, and the Republican senators consenting while they said they never would.

Elizabeth Stuart Phelps in Harper's. "He must have four or five them. Benjamin taking by this time," Mrs. Salt ran on, talking to her ironing as she spoke. "But, fact is, I'm never easy in my mind when Henry's in that weather, not in the off-shore. It's hard being a woman in Fairhaven, our minister said, says he, when he first came to town, he'd be glad to get women-lovers called it, the dreadful sea."

The death of Maxey Cobb, the champion trotting stallion of the world, at the Belmont course on Monday afternoon, is a serious loss to the turf, of which he was such a conspicuous ornament. His record of 2,134 made over the Narragansett track at Providence, R. I., on September 30, 1884, has never been broken by any other trotting stallion, and his 2,135 to pole with Neta Medium also ranks as the latest double time record, although Maud S. and Aldine have beaten that time half a second.

This production of coal and terra-manganese in the United States in 1885 was 29,967 long tons, as compared with 30,262 tons in 1884. The Philadelphia Record has been in the ownership and control of William M. Singler only nine years, and in that period has not only increased from 5,000 to over 100,000 circulation, but in all the elements of a first-class journalism it has far transcended any penny newspaper ever attempted in this country.

It is now denied that a New York publisher has been in treaty with the Vatican for the translation into Latin and English and the publication of the memoirs of Pope Leo XIII. The story looked fishy when it was started.

Some of the English lordlings who come to the United States to enjoy a season of riotous living with impunity must have queer ideas of the people who inhabit this land of the free. There was a notable wedding breakfast in New York the other day, at which the Duke of Sutherland appeared in tweed coat and colored shirt. The woman who accompanied him wore a black velvet dress, with a huge garland of pink roses, and white lace twisted from shoulder to waist.

ONE account of Edwin Booth's recent remarkable exhibition of indigestion on the stage is that Salvini is really paying tribute to him; and, jealous of the American actor's popularity and genius, has tempted him to indulge in liquor. This story has an ancient and a fish-like smell.

Robins call robins in tops of trees. A royal road with scales of gold. Golden and snowy and red the flowers, sudden, snowy and red in veins. Robins call robins in tops of trees. The white dove's feet are wet with rain.

THE HAND IN THE PINE. Oh, hand in the pine wood, cease! The hand in the pine wood, cease! The hand in the pine wood, cease! The hand in the pine wood, cease!

THE MADONNA OF THE TUBS. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps in Harper's. "He must have four or five them. Benjamin taking by this time," Mrs. Salt ran on, talking to her ironing as she spoke.

It was an old story, told to how many neighbors, and to how many people, how many times! But at this point the fisherman's wife gasped and blushed. She had never been able to finish it; each time she thought she should stop, and when her husband would not let her stop, she would drop down on her knees and sob.
