After the result of the election was announced Messrs. Meyers and Graybill stated to the meeting that it appeared as if the small vote which they received was an indication that they were not wanted in the board, and they both declined the position as directors. The board will most likely fill the vacancies caused by their resignations. An annual dividend of three per cent. was declared.

A Narrow Escape. Christian Metzger, the beer bottler, was driving in his team, in company with his son, over the crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad at Locust street this morning, and came very at Locust street this morning, and came very near colliding with a freight train. An east bound freight was noticed by the occupants of the wagon, but about this time the shifting engine with two cars was crossing west, and was not seen by the driver. An accident seemed imminent, and Mr. Metzger jumped from the wagon and ran up Locust street. The boy also got from the wagon and succeeded in getting the team from the tracks without meeting any accident.

About nine o'clock last evening a heavy storm passed over Columbia, accompanied with vivid lightning and heavy peals of thunder. At the station of the electric light thunder. At the station of the electric light company the sight was a most beautiful one when the electricity would pass over the wires. The foom would be lighted up in a very preity manner, but very few of the persons present felt very comfortable when a sharp flash of lightning would occur. The lightning arrester prevented any damage to the lights or the machinery. Town Notes.

A party of ladies and gentlemen from Lan-caster and Columbia drove to Washington this morning where they boarded a raft and took a ride down the Susquehanna river to Port Deposit. A trip through the rait chule at the Columbia dam was not desired by the party. A heating furnace at the Columbia rolling mill had stopped working for a few days on account of the boiler leaking. The necessary repairs has been made and work has been resumed.

their married life, and plaintiff objected to the testimony on the ground that she was not a competent witness for that purpose. A lengthy argument followed and the arbitrators decided that she could not testify to anything concerning his treatment of her.

The defense then called witnesses to prove that the late Mrs. Asswake did not become acquainted with Grau until after she had sejarated from her husband.

The testimony of the plaintiff in rebuttal was to the effect that Amwake's wife had cruelly treated him. Her chief amusement was in throwing hatchets, knives and cooking utensiis at him. It was also shown that while Grau and Mrs. Amwake were in jail they had opportunities of passing notes to cach other and that they passing notes to they had opportunities of passing notes to each other and that they improved every Cases Disposed of.

The cases of Peter Diehl, Larry Pressley, James Erisman, John Compf and Charles Bowman, charged with assault and battery before Alderman Patrick Donnelly, by R. E. Bruce, have been arranged. The prosecu-tor sgreed to withdraw the charges, and the defendants paid all the costs. These suits grew out of a fight at Rieker's brewery, West King street, May 4th. On that day it was stated that a lot of roof painters at work there began fighting among themselves. Mr. Bruce, for whom Pressley, Erisman, Gumpf and other were working at the time, say that this was not the case; the painters were first attacked by a party of hill men, and Mr. Bruce was assaulted in his efforts to separate them; he only consented to a settlement of the cases against the assailants out of considation for their families. defendants paid all the costs.
