Regular Correspondence of INTELLIGENCES.

COLUMBIA, May 25.—It is an assured fact that Columbia is to have a base ball club, not a one-horse affair, but a nine that will compete with leading clubs of the county. Wm.

L. Bear will manage the new nine, and his interest in sports of all kinds, the national game especially, is sufficient guarantee that he will make a success of his venture. He has already leased grounds above Eighth has already lessed grounds above Eighth streets, near Gohn's truck yards, and will enclose them with an 8-foot fence. The club has not been picked, but Koutz, Swingler, King and Resh, of last year's Columbia club, will be retained. It is probable several players will be imported. On Saturday next the new club will cross bats with the Key-

Kicked by a Horse. Joseph Weber, a fireman on the Pennsyl vania railroad, recently purchased a horse. This morning he was displaying the good qualities of the animal to an admiring crowd on Walnut street. "He's as gentle as a lamb," thumping the horse on the rear; "wont kick..." His sentence was cut short by the gentle animal placing his rear right hoof beneath the chin of his owner, erasing several inches of skin. Had the horse been False Alarm of Fire.

A false alarm of fire was sounded between nine and ten o'clock last evening. It was disastrous to the Columbia and Shawnee steamers. The two companies were racing across South Third street, and in turning at Third and Mill streets the engines collided. Both were somewhat injured, but not so badly as to throw them out of service. St. Peter's church fair was a success, about $1,550 being the net receipts. The candidates for the ladies' gold watch—Misses Agnes Brady and Julia Atwood, of Columbia, and Miss Garritz, of Shamokin—will not end their contest until the evening of June 12. From this source at least $200 is expected. The report that Thomas B. O'Hare, an employe in the Susquehanna rolling mill, is suffering with hydrophobia, is simply ridic ulous. On Saturday he became overheated and indulged too freely of cold water, which resulted in his present liness.

Ghostly Souvenir of Emma Jacobs

"It is a mistake saying that I have gone into the human skin slice business," said Mr. William H. Pennington, foreman for a firm of hide dealers at the Chicago stock vards, but here is a piece of the skin alluded to in a morning newspaper." Mr. Pennington reached up to a pigeon hole in his desk and drew forth a patch of buff colored coarse leather, about six inches square. "I can vouch for the fact," he said, "that is from the body of the noted Frama Jacobs, of Philadelphia. It was sent to me in the raw state by one of the physicians who dissected the remains. I had it tanned in Milwaukee. It was not properly cured, you will observe, but that was the fault of those who put it up at the college. I presume it is a way those young medical fellers have of giving souvenirs to their friends to send them specimens of the anatomy of noted persons whose remains come under the dissecting knife. Firmma Jacobs was one of the most noted women in Philadelphia before. Philadelphia history. I am also a Philadel-phian, and my wife came from Lancaster, Pa., the birthplace of the Jacobs woman. Everybody in Philadelphia knew Emima Jacobs. That is, she was as notorious in her way as women can well become among a certain questionable class."

A STARTLING ARREST

In Connection With the Barning of Coldren Hat Factory.

Monday's Reading Engle.
Great excitement was occasioned to-day when it because known that Detectives Lyon and Kershner had appeared before Alderman Scheetz and swore out warrants against a number of persons on the charge of conspiracy to set fire to E. H. Coldren's hat factory, Adamstown, which was burned last week, involving a loss of $30,000. As there had been no fire in the factory for a week previous, and incendiarism was suspected, the Reading Insurance association effered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties.

The detectives early this morning arrested John J. Downing, a young man who first came to Reading about 3 years ago from Yonkers, N. Y., and has been working here most of the time since. He is a bat fluisher, and came to Reading for the last time about a month ago.

Downing was committed to jail and lodged in cell No. 22 in the old department.

He is 37 years old and fast turning gray. He says he was never in Adamstown or Mohnsville in his life and knows nothing of the crime.

The charge is: "Conspiracy with others to set fire to bat factories in Mohnsville and Adamstown."

An Eagle reporter saw Downing shortly after his arrest. When Deputy Warden Griesemer unlocked the cell door, Downing arose from the bed and greeted the report with a cheerfull "good morning." He had a book in his hand and was in his shirt sleeves. He marked the place where he had been reading and laid the book away. Sit-ting on the bed and in answer to questions he said: "I don't know what to say because he said: "I don't know what to say because I don't know anything about this affair that I am charged with. I was never in Adamstown nor Mohnsville in my life. If I had to go there from Reading I would not know what direction to take. I have heard the names of those places mentioned but know nothing whatever about them. I first came to Reading three years ago, from Yonkers, New York, which I claim my bome. I have been here all the time since with the exception of a months. In that time I worked 4 months at Matteawan, New York, and buried my brother. I came back to Reading about weeks ago and worked at Hendel's large. weeks ago and worked at Hendel's large factory a few days, when the present hat finishers' trouble commenced and that put me out of work. I have worked in nearly all the hat factories in Reading as a finisher. When I first came here I was employed at Alexander & Co.'s. On the night of the fire of Coldren's hat factory, Adamstown, I was of Coldren's hat factory. Adamstown, I was at George Kemp's saloon, on South 9th street below Bingaman. Many hatters congregate there and I nearly always stop there. I am not married and board with George H. Lash, 924 Spruce street. I am innocent of the charge and I don't know what evidence the officers have against me."

Downing was then asked what truth there was in the report that certain meendlary re-was in the report that certain incendiary re marks had been made at a meeting he at tended.

11e replied; "I tell you how that was. It was all a joke. We were discussing the schedule of prices when some one said; 'I don't think the factories will pay those prices." Then some one else laughingly remarked: Then let's burn 'em.' All present laughed at such a foolish idea, and regarded it as a joke. My God, I hope nobody would think that any such business like that would ever be done by any set of men."

"It is said that a resolution of that kind was made, seconded and passed somewhere where you were." "That is a mistake. It was only a side remark and was only a joke and was so regarded.

Downing spoke freely and unreservedly.

and said he had nothing to conceal.

Later in the day Downing was released on ball.

The detectives also served warrants upon The detectives also served warrants upon George Kemp, Thomas Malady, Stormus Miller and J. Shelboy. They are hatters and were at work to-day. A business man became responsible for their appearance at Alderman Sheetz's office at 7:30 this evening. They are charged with conspiracy, the same as Downing.

All the accused except Kemp are comparative strangers in Reading, builing from the tive strangers in Reading, hailing from the Eastern states.

The officers were asked for details respecting the charges against the accused, but they replied that there was positively no further information to be given to the public at this time in order that the ends of justice might not be defeated. Alderman Sheetz also thought it best to say nothing concerning the details now. The district attorney said he knew nothing about it.

Jacob Moore's hat factory, year Adamstown, was found to be on fire on Saturday night last, but was put out before much damage was done, though a large hole was burned is one of the floors.

Among the articles stolen were cloths, cassi-meres, hats, notions, cutlery and tobacco. There is no suspicion as to the thieves and but with very little clue for the officers to work on. Mr. Bachman's goods were insured in the Lebanon Protective association against theft. The McCutcheon Cases

It was shown that places had been secured for two of them away from the influ ence of their mother and time was asked to secure homes for the, remaining children. The court continued the matter until Satur-day of next week to give the friends time to procure homes where they will be better cared for than if left with the mother.

OAK HALL.

YOUNG MEN'S SUITS.

Young Men's Suits are a sort of key note to a clothing stock. Young men are offish to any clothing store that tails to expressly provide for and tickle their fancy in the quality and cut of the garments. They flock to lock Hall. They are patty, nice, particular about their dressing. When they are pleased it is an index to the excellence of all the rest of the stock as well.

The Double Breasted Prince Alberts Suit in Oak Hall are remarkable for their nearfit, equalling custom work in that respect.

Prices range from $15 to $12.50 - Corkserews and Diagonals. An elegant Suit at $20, worth a good bit more at a merchant tailor's.

We could say as brave words for Salisbury (Cutaway) Suits. It's no trouble to satisfy young men from our Dress Suits assortment.
