What He Really Said of Lord Salisbury in His August Speech. AUGUSTA, Maine, June 3.—The Kennebec Journal this morning published a letter to the editor from Mr. Blaine, denying that the latter in his recent speech at Portland had applied the words "impudent insolent, brutal" to Lord Salisbury. Mr. Blaine writes: "I was referring to the fact that they are now situated or emigrants, and I said interrogatively, 'is not this an impudent proposition? It is not insolent in terms? Does it, indeed, stop short of being brutal in its cruelty? It is parliamentary to say that a statement is not true, but although unparliamentary to say that its author is guilty of falsehood: the first describes the thing, the second assaults the person. My characterization was aimed at the proposition and not at Lord Salisbury personally.'"

MR. BLAINE'S REPLY.

ITS CAREER CUT SHORT.

THE LANCASTER HARE BALL CLUB EXISTS NO LONGER.

The players wanted in this City Will Appeal to the Public for Funds to Get Home—A Story of Great Mismanagement that Ended in Disaster.

The Lancaster club has disbanded, although the players are still in this city. The club started with very little capital the first week in May and Harry Gallagher undertook to manage it.

Old stipulations were taken on a trip opening at Williamsport. While there, the players were in company with the Philadelphia team and the exhibition games. The club came home last Friday a week ago, but the manager remained behind to attend a meeting of the State Association.

On Saturday afternoon the players of the team are all left in a hotel. The men were playing on low salaries and now have nothing but their own pockets.

For some days past the men have been under great oppression that they would not have been able to pay for their board and other expenses.
