active. The term is for a single year, and our experience is that few cases are begun and ended within that time; the consequence is that if a case is begun by one solicitor his successor seldom feels called upon to take charge of it; and the original solicitor identified with it continues in direction and charges an extra fee. Notwithstanding the salary of $300 per annum is supposed to cover all compensation of the city's law officer and to be in "lieu of all fees," the extras generally amount to as much as the salary, not to speak of "attorney fees" made by solicitors by the unnecessarily frequent issue of scil. fas. to the oppression of delinquent tax-payers without accompanying benefits to the city. It would be cheaper to elect a good lawyer city solicitor, pay him a fair fee and make him do all the legal services required by the city.

And So They Were Married.

The president is married, and it is a question who is more to be congratulated, he and his bride, or the newspaper reporters, who have had so very hard and unfruitful work in supplying what they supposed to be the demand of the public for news about the wedding. They have suffered signal discomfiture in their efforts to get it, to the great delight of the public, which has been much better pleased to find that the reporters could not find out what was none of their business than that they could have been to get the information the newspapers thought it their business to get for them. They did not understand their business. The public wants to know a great deal; but knows very well what it has a right to know and what it has not. It will hear anything that the most impudent man can find out and tell it; but at the same time it understands the fellow's impudence and laughs at him when he comes to grief in his undertaking to provide it with illegitimate news. The metropolitan editor must find it harder to retain his self-respect than the rich man is supposed to find the entrance into heaven; for when he instructs his assistants to report matters of private interest, with which the public have no legitimate concern, he commits an offense against propriety which the law may not punish but which is none the less a wrong that a self-respecting editor could not perpetrate. The reporter of today needs to be reformed; and the president is getting in good work as the reformer.

Nothing so rare as a day in June except a presidential wedding.

The president of another good thing besides getting married on Wednesday. Three pension jobs received his veto. The character of them may be inferred from the fact that in one of the cases the report of the Senate committee shows that the man's military record leaves no evidence of the disabilities for which pension is asked, but that two years after the alleged incurrence of disabilities he was convicted of desertion.

What finer place to take a bride than to Deer Park?

By a vote of 90 to 9—just ten to one—the American club, of Philadelphia, voted the permanent postponement of resolutions declaring that Democratic congressmen who do not support the Morrison tariff bill were recreant to principle. This was even more significant than the 75 to 15 vote of the Young Men's Democratic association. Manifestly the members of these clubs know the voice of their local and general news and comment it devotes considerable space to arguing that the wrong man got the Columbia postoffice. An admirable departure of its publisher is his announced purpose to have no headlines on his subscription list and to require payment of the yearly rate of $1 invariably in advance.

The County Medical Society, of Philadelphia, has refused to admit a woman doctor to its membership.

None of the newspapers carelessly say the Cleveland-Folsom nuptials were the first wedding ever solemnized in the White House. Far from it. Dolly Madison's niece Miss Todd, was married at the executive mansion away back in 1811, and the bridegroom was Stoney Jackson's great uncle. Moreover, the wedding was there, and John Quincy Adams' son John also married his mother's niece in the White House. Jackson gave away a friend's daughter and his own niece in his White House wedding. When John Tyler's daughter was married there, "Lizzie looked surprisingly lovely in her wedding dress and long blonde lace veil, her face literally covered with blushes and dimples"; but when President Tyler himself, in his turn, married he was joined by his young bride in the Association church, New York. Next came the Grant-Saras wedding in the White House in 1874; Hayes' niece was married there in 1878.

PERSONAL.

F. CARROLL BREWSTER says: "For ten years to come I should draw on and stand in the law unless he sees directly before him a certain opening as partner, helper or successor to an established and lucrative practice."

JUDGE JOHN T. L. SNEED, of Memphis, Tenn., will be a candidate for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Whitborne.

Judge Sneed has served in both branches of the legislature and on the supreme bench of the state, and is recognized as a man of high character and commanding ability.

EMELIE VICTORINE POULET PARKER, daughter of Col. Victor E. Poulet, and widow of the late Robert Ass Parker, will be married on the evening of Tuesday, June 8th, at her home in New York, to Richard Henry Eggleston, a relative of the well-known author, Mr. Edward Eggleston and himself connected with one of the New York city banks.

HON. W. S. HOLMAN, of Indiana, known as the "Watch-Dog of the Treasury," will not have serious opposition for re-nomination. He has already served eleven terms in Congress. The present term in the United States will hardly be more than a "union" election, and it will probably see the senator's removal, which he has delicately declined to do. He has been delicately declining to do so, and he has been delicately declining to do so, and he has been delicately declining to do so.

THE THORNTON claimant, who has landed in New York, frankly admits that he is here with the intention of making money by lecturing upon his celebrated case. He hopes in the course of time to have the bill of Parliament which closed his case repealed and will then, he is confident, be able to have the case reopened. He treated with contempt the suggestion that he should travel with Barnum.

SENATOR BECK'S bill to prohibit members of Congress from acting as attorneys or owners of railroads, companies that hold charters or have franchises from the United States will hardly be more than a "union" election, and it will probably see the senator's removal, which he has delicately declined to do. He has been delicately declining to do so, and he has been delicately declining to do so.

might be laid in the central part of the city, at its corner, between West King street and the next section to be put down, it is highly desirable that the improvement extend as far as Water street.

In some of the cities and boroughs of the state, with the sanction of councils, a moderate amount of water is supplied to the streets and telephone poles which occupy the streets and the protection of the police power there is necessary for the corporations using them and enjoying these privileges should not contribute their share to the expense of the municipal government.

The necessary work now pending on the streets should be held to strict accountability for the condition of that part of the thoroughfare which they are bound to keep in order, and to prevent accidents from occurring from their remissness.

This question has been so often and so intelligently discussed in the last half dozen years, that it is hardly necessary to reiterate its paramount importance, however, emboldens me to the repetition of that which has so frequently been said before by my predecessors and by the superintendents of the water works. The condition, however, of the drainage of the north and northern sections of the city—should perhaps claim attention in first.

I will admit that without the proper disposition of the sewage in this section that our drinking water must become less and less pure, and the health of the city must be endangered. The superintendent in his last annual report has discussed this matter, and points out three ways to overcome the difficulty. One is an entirely new sewer, a total point above where the city sewage enters the Conestoga, and the removal of the works, which is the most expensive, but the most easily accomplished and the best.

Nothing can be gained by the latter mode if the sewage can be got rid of by the former. There are grave objections to the conduit over that of the intercepting sewer, some of which are loss of water from springs, large manholes and great cost of the proposed conduit to be laid. The preparations are now in hand for making the proper preliminary survey of the city, and the necessary steps to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion in regard to this very important step in our water supply and in the maintenance of its purity.

A very necessary work is now pending in extending the twenty-inch main along Orange street. I thought the work would have been completed by the end of the year, but as it is, it will be of vast benefit to the occupants of houses in the western part of the city.

The other very important and necessary improvement in our water supply is the proposed extension of the intercepting sewer, which is a costly undertaking; the superintendent says we are daily consulting about it, and that it will be completed by the end of the year. The superintendent makes some timely suggestions in regard to water.

precipitous it would be a desirable reform, but it is not probable that the present irregular distribution, by which one of the wards of the city, the First, secures four members when its voting population is the least; and the Fifth ward, with many more voters and taxables, has a representation of but two members in the common council. These are questions to be considered in a spirit of freedom from partisan interest which I have heretofore indicated should inspire the administration of municipal affairs.
