

A FATHER IN ISRAEL, DEAD.

ship of theology in the (German) Reformed church of Mercurburg, in the year 1810, and the prime of his life was devoted to thirteen years service in that mountain home of the church's theological and literary institutions. They were years of great activity, of greater activity and of controversy. There he was associated with Drs. Rauch and Schaff, and from that modest institution President of the Reformed church, which shook the world of thought. In 1841 the "Anxious Bench" controversy arose and his famous publications followed in quick succession.

REF. JOHN WILLIAMSON NEVIN, D. D. A. D. IN HIS EIGHTY-FOURTH YEAR.

The End of Long and Honored Days—Close of a Useful Life—Transfer From the Presidency to the Reformed Church. Theological Professor and College President.

Rev. Dr. John Williamson Nevin, the most distinguished citizen of his community, died at 830 Locust, on Sunday evening at his home, Germantown Place, on the Columbia turnpike a mile west of the city. Dr. Nevin had been in failing health for some time, and his death was not unexpected. Though not of very rugged constitution he had by scrupulous care prolonged his life to advanced years and kept in moderate health and the free use of his best faculties. Several months ago his eyesight failed him, and two weeks ago an unusual exposure brought on a cold. Enfeebled action of the bowels followed, and on Saturday, May 29th, it was feared a fatal termination to his illness would ensue. A favorable change occurred and hopes of his recovery were stimulated. On Thursday at 2 p. m. he suffered a relapse, became unconscious and life ebbing away, and at the hour named, surrounded by his family and at the place of his home for nearly thirty years, died.

Rev. Dr. Nevin was well-known in this community, of which he had long been a member. He was a man of high character and his life had been so closely associated with the following resume of his life comprises his leading features:

He was born February 23, 1803, in Franklin county, Pa., of distinguished parentage, from that sturdy-so-called "Scotch Irish" stock, which furnished so many of the men of the moral as well as material development in the early days of Pennsylvania. Hugh Williamson, LL. D.—brother of his paternal grandfather—was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and otherwise a distinguished man of the revolutionary period. His father, Dr. Nevin, was a farmer, but a college graduate; his mother was of distinguished family and much original of mind. Dr. Nevin was the eldest of his family. The first of the sons and brothers, who have given the name its wide fame, was next to the youngest of them. The first of the sons of the First National bank of Allegheny, a leading manufacturer and distinguished philanthropist of Western Pennsylvania. Besides the illustrious which were his father's, his younger brother, there were born and still survive Prof. William M. Nevin, LL. D., who has long been a member of the faculty in Franklin and Marshall colleges; this city, and is a writer of grace; Frederick Nevin, LL. D., a Presbyterian clergyman and teacher, of Swolesville; Robert P. Nevin, author and editor, founder of the "Lancaster Times"; the sisters of the family are Margaret, wife of Dr. John K. Finley, of Niles, Mich.; Elizabeth, wife of Rev. J. H. Nevin, of the First National bank of Washington and Jefferson college, and Mary Martha, the wife of John Irwin, of Swolesville, Pa.

Dr. Nevin was married to Miss Martha J. second daughter of Hon. Robt. Jenkinson, a member of the Pennsylvania legislature, and a Christian, whose name was in the roll of the Christian, congressman from this district twenty-five years ago, and one of the foremost representative descendants of that blood of superior intellect and character which ran up through the Chester valleys and reached its topmost limit of settlement where Berks, Chester and Lancaster counties meet. Dr. Nevin is well-known in social and literary circles as one of their most popular and vigorous members, with social brilliancy and distinguished powers as a writer and conversationalist.

Scarcely less distinguished is the second generation of the family. His eldest son, Capt. W. Whitford Nevin, formerly editor of the Press, is now engaged in large railroad enterprises in New York city; Rev. Robert Nevin, D. D., commander-in-chief of the famous "Nevin's battery" is now pastor of St. Paul's within the Walls P. C. church in Rome; two sons, Rev. John and John W., now dead, are remembered as young gentlemen of high character and great promise; Miss Alice is the author of many original and literary contributions, and her painting merit; Miss Blanche, sculptor and artist, has achieved the honor of a contribution to our great national gallery; her portrait in marble, in the figure of General Peter Muhlenberg in the capitol, in Washington; Miss Martha J., became the wife of Robert H. Sayre, one of our country's engineers and railway managers of the country, now of the Lehigh Valley. Of the two grand daughters one has the honored name of John Williamson Nevin Sayre.

His youth and early manhood Dr. Nevin was of delicate constitution, and hardly hoped to survive the age of 35. He readily appreciated the importance of services to his health; and, by the avoidance of all extremes and irregularities and the conservation of conditions of diet, temperance, and exposure, he maintained himself in good health to a remarkable age. Seventeen years ago, when his physical condition was such that he likely to have fifteen years of life, he manifested incredulity; but Providence which carries "seven to ten" has crowned him with "the beauty of old men."

Dr. Nevin's father had been graduated from Dickinson, and his own appreciation of the advantage a liberal education directed his son to Union college, and subsequently to Princeton seminary and the Presbyterian ministry. Between his graduation from his college course, at an early age and with high honors, and his entering upon the theological career which in Europe, he had commenced with Christendom, there were several years of severe bodily prostration, which was cured by recreation and communings with nature, in the woodlands and on horse back.

From the outset he attained distinction as a Hebrew scholar, and for two years, he supplied a Presbyterian congregation at Big Spring, Cumberland county, for a few months, but in 1825, soon after his father's death accepted and entered upon the duties of the chair of Biblical literature in the Presbyterian theological seminary in Allegheny. There he remained for ten years, teaching, preaching, writing, publishing and having opposition and popular denunciation, if not physical violence—from those who resented his vigorous expressions against idolatry, religious autocrats, slavery, the degenerate drama, &c.—with all the inflexibility and heroism of the boldest New England "refugee."

RIGHT PERSONS BROUGHT AND BURNED TO DEATH.

A Chicago Horror Due to an Incendiary's Torch. Facing Fire in the Heat of Night—Jumping From the Windows—The Fate of the Tortured Victims.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Eight persons were smothered and burned to death in the frame houses at 731 and 733 South Canal street, at 4 o'clock this morning. The names of the dead are as follows: MICHAEL MURPHY, aged 40 years, employed by the South Division railroad company. Mrs. MICHAEL MURPHY, aged about 25 years. ANNE MURPHY, 9 years old. NELLIE MURPHY, 11 years old. Mrs. MARY DURKIN, aged 30 years. PATS LAMIN, aged 4 years, son of Mrs. Mary Durkin by a former marriage. JOHN DURKIN, 3 weeks old.

WILLIAM LAMIN, aged years, a butcher. The fire broke out in the cellar of 733 Canal street. The flames shot upward and quickly burned through the first floor, which is on a level with the ground. Shooting upward, the next floor was soon ablaze in the living room, the kitchen and the bedroom, and No. 731 was soon wrapped in the flames, which enveloped the adjoining number. Both houses were filled with smoke before any of the occupants were aroused. Many of the sleepers were doubtless smothered in their beds, and probably never been known who awoke and tried in vain to escape from the stifling smoke and scorching flames. The flames following rapidly after the smoke, burned the inanimate bodies till they were unrecognizable masses of black and charred bones and flesh.

A TERRIBLE SCENE.

The lower floor of 733 was occupied by John Raleigh, Jr. His wife was awakened by a sense of suffocation. She aroused her husband, who hastily donned a few articles of clothing. He then threw up a window; the angry flames scorched his face, singeing his hair and mustache. Not hesitating a moment he caught his wife in his arms and with a terrible effort threw her bodily through the lattice out of the window. Her night dress caught on fire, and she fell on the ground, and she extinguished the flames with her hands and lent assistance to her husband in saving the lives of their two small children. The fire had gained additional headway. He was unable to put the children out of the same window. He then threw up the wall to arouse the people on the second floor. Catching the babies in his arms, he ran upstairs, and jumped with them from a second story window.

The second floor of 733 was occupied by the Markin and Murphy families. No member of either of those families escaped. The firemen, in searching the ruins of the houses, came upon the most harrowing scenes. Some were lying in the half-burned beds. Others who were awakened before death had perished in the flames. The Lancaster club won by a score of 11 to 0. The players received about $8 each.

JUMPING FROM WINDOWS.

The upper floor was occupied by William Hand, Jr. His father lived with him. They were left off of the second floor, and the young man caught up the children and jumped from the second-story window with them, after passing his wife to the street. He wanted to help his father down, but the old man insisted on his jumping with the children. The aged and decrepit form of the father was seen at the window a moment and then disappeared just as he was about to leap. The raging fire prevented the making of an effort for his rescue.

THE LOWER FLOOR OF 731 WAS OCCUPIED BY A MAN NAMED MESSING, WHO KEPT A GROCERY STORE. ALL HIS FAMILY PERISHED.

The buildings were owned by John Raleigh, sr., and Devere, a blacksmith. They were valued at $1,000. The loss was about $500 on each. All of the furniture in the buildings was destroyed.

THE FIRE WAS THE WORK OF A DETERMINED AND PERSISTENT INCENDIARY.

Upon retiring, John Raleigh, jr., locked the door. It was found broken open when the fire was discovered. The fire was discovered by a watchman in a nearby building. A black and white dog, which was in the rear of the burned houses, barked at a man, who said: "There's a fire; you had better turn in an alarm."

THE MAN DISAPPEARED UP AN ALLEY. THE WATCHMAN CAN NOT IDENTIFY HIM.

The man disappeared up an alley. The watchman can not identify him. This is the third time the place has been set on fire. No serious damage resulted from the former attempts.

A $100,000 FIRE IN LOUISVILLE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 7.—At 10 o'clock this morning a fire broke out at the new grand theatre, Brinkforth's restaurant, the Kentucky school of medicine, Deunzio's fruit store, and several small shops and offices. The theatre was leased by Chief Justice, Francis Pickens, and the school of the finest in the South. It was formerly the Buckingham theatre, medical school and restaurant were entirely destroyed. Deunzio's fruit house was only slightly damaged. Total loss about $100,000, almost covered by insurances.

Postmaster Emanuel Hoffman LL-Whitening the Tunnel Cut. ELIZABETHTOWN, June 7.—On Wednesday morning while Mr. Emanuel Hoffman, a soldier in the army, was attending to his duties, he received a slight stroke of apoplexy, which caused him to go to bed. Since then he has rallied, being at times better, and then again worse, and it was thought he would not survive. He is now recovering, and is reported to be a little better. Dr. A. C. Treibler attends him.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD HAS AT PRESENT A LARGE FORCE OF MEN AT WORK AT THE TUNNEL CUT, WHICH HAS BEEN ONE OF THE MOST DANGEROUS OF ITS KIND.

This is a large undertaking, besides being very dangerous. At present an engine and a number of cars are at the rock. The tunnel is about a mile and a half long, and is to be dug by the double track. The railroad officials expect it will take very long time to complete the work.

FINISHING UP THE YEAR'S WORK AND ARRANGING FOR THE NEW ORGANIZATION.

At a special meeting of the Lancaster Steam Heating company last week, all the members being present the auditing committee reported that they had examined the account of Treasurer J. H. Zeller and found correct, and that there was a balance of $730.95 cents in his hands. On motion a bill of $40 was passed in payment of the salary of the secretary of the board. It was also decided that the bonds ranging in number from 123 to 130 inclusive be paid on October 1st ensuing.

THE BALTIMORE PEOPLE WANT TO SEE GREER BACK IN HIS OLD PLACE ON BARNIE'S TEAM.

He played his first game in a long time last Saturday. Nick Bradley has signed with the Kingston club of the Hudson River League. The old waddle bridge that spans the Conestoga at Reigart's landing fell down this morning as Ernest Shaeffer, a young farmer residing near by, was crossing it with a two horse wagon heavily loaded with sand. The horses and wagon went down into the creek together, falling into water from four to five feet deep. Being a good swimmer he escaped without injury, but the horses and the wagon were lost.
